If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

Unless there is daily action of the bowels, no medicine can be absorbed, causing constipation, biliousness, indigestion, preventing the Sarsaparilla from doing its best work. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. Ask your doctor for them.

EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION—Corner Austin and Vale Sts., Jefferson, Texas.
Entered as Second-Class Matter, May 10, 1907.
Copies of the JIMPLICUTE, in two parts, ready for mailing, can always be had at the office by single copies or by the dozen.

This paper is mailed regularly to its subscribers until a definite order to discontinue is received and all arrears are paid in full.

History repeats itself. So watch out for a flood.

The County School Superintendent should be the best man that can be found—one that will do his duty. He should be the man for the place. Not the place for the man.

In this issue the JIMPLICUTE gives the six constitutional amendments to be voted on in August next, and every voter should preserve a copy of them to refer to on election day.

The JIMPLICUTE has received catalogues of the twenty-second annual fair and race meet to be held at Dallas by the State Fair of Texas from Oct. 19th to Nov. 3d, 1907. Every county in the State should have an exhibit at the fair.

It was reported from New York that attorneys for the Waters-Pierce Oil Co., among them Col. Johnson and D. O. Dell of Texas, made certain suggestions. Where were these two names so prominent a short while since. Think it was at Austin. In the employ of the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. then and pay, too, perhaps, and now. Strange, is it not? How glib the poor people are. Any old gag goes with the majority.

The name of the party who brought the report that it hailed near the Darnell sawmill hall stones as large as goose eggs, and that one stone was found with a frozen geology in it, will not be given, because some one may question the information. A party listening to the apparent improbable statement said he did not question it, because when in Arizona last summer, there came a dry cyclone, a baked fish and two wild geese were dropped in the street, the only objection to the cooking of either, no dressing, nor salt and pepper had been used. After the statement of these two freaks of nature the whole party smiled "broadly." State press of the Dallas News may demand photographs or be shown.

Last Tuesday afternoon, near the shank of the afternoon, could be seen coming into town a small umbrella and a large man. The wind and rain were doing their duty to perfection. The aforesaid large man and small umbrella had all the appearance of John the Baptist when he came out of the river Jordan. This, you understand, was in appearance only—not piety. Shortly the large man and the small umbrella reached shelter the wind and rain both quit business. This brought up more talk. There was trouble on the face of the big man with the small umbrella. For reasons not necessary here to name. He knew when he reached home he had to go to bed, although not sick, nor was it bed time. This was not bothering him so much as the proposition of getting up the next morning. Unless he could have him a fire he would have to get a doctor certificate that he was sick. He will never walk against a Texas cloud and wind again.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF IRON.
The sum of $350,000,000 is paid annually to the wage earners of the Pittsburgh district, an average of more than $1,000,000 for every working day in the year. This and other facts showing the prosperity of Pittsburgh are contained in a report just compiled under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce. A majority of these wage earners are employed in the 3,029 manufacturing plants of the district. In these mills there are now employed more than 250,000 workmen. It requires 3,500,000 freight cars a year to transport the products of the Pittsburgh district. The railroads last year carried 115,000,000 tons of Pittsburgh freight, and the steamboats 6,000,000 more tons, a total 121,000,000 tons.—The Bulletin.

The foregoing shows very conclusively what the development of iron ores are for a city or country. One million dollars paid out every working day in the year, think of that. Some "kicker" will say nothing of the kind will ever happen here. Ask him why not, and he says "because," that will be as far as he will go. He says such things because he does not know there is enough ore here to build a city much larger than Pittsburgh. That this interest will be fully developed no one will question who will give the matter any intelligent thought. There never has been such a demand for pig iron as at present, and every indication points a continuous demand. In no history of the iron business has iron been used in so many ways and in so many places. Every where it can be taken the place of wood. Gradually but surely the wooden box car will be a thing of the past. In a few more years the wooden shingles will be supplanted by the tin shingle, and so on down the line. In every new thing to which iron is put, increases the demand for iron. Thus it will go on until everything possible will be made of iron. All this benefits the section which has the best of iron ore in great abundance. There is no enterprise nor industry that increases wealth as does the development of the iron interest. It creates more traffic for railroads, it gives employment to more men than any other one industry. Think of 250,000 workmen employed in one district, making a total population of some 1,250,000 people. With all this before us why should any one feel any other way than that Jefferson has the brightest future of any city west of the Mississippi river. It is coming—the great development sure as time itself.

CROP PROSPECTS.
It is old saying that a dry May for a larger crop. This saying, no doubt, originated by the observation of some practical farmer who understood that if the month of May is dry, the crops can be cleaned of grass and weeds. When this is the case there is no trouble for the crops to grow, and not much trouble to keep them clean the remainder of the year. If indications are worth anything this will be, in so far as Marion county is concerned, a short crop year. The spring was unprecedented. The early spring was uncomfortable. So long did this last, that every one naturally thought the winter was past, and acted accordingly. In this they were mistaken. Just when the plants needed the warm growing weather it turned cold, and continued so for so long that many were forced to replant their cotton, some as often as three times. As soon as the cold began to pass, and everybody began to feel that everything would begin to grow, the rains set in, interspersed with hail storms, cyclones, cloud burst and electrical displays. So far ten days or longer the grass, weeds and crops must scrap for supremacy. Parenthetically, the JIMPLICUTE would remark that why does weeds and grass would grow more rapidly than that which is planted by man? It may be nature intended for man to nurse to make his bread. Judging the future by the sayings of the wise men, this year is anything but encouraging from a crop standpoint. A late fall may do some good. This will not do value on. This section of the country is now threatened with a disastrous overflow. If it is not the weather, it is the boll weevil or the green bug. With the farmer if it is not one thing it is two. Taking any view one pleases, the crop prospect for this immediate section is anything but promising. It is true there may be time to plant cotton, and perhaps corn, but then a drought may come and the bugs. The farmers are up against a serious proposition.

The Dallas News of 8th, contained notice of the sudden death of Capt. R. D. Gribble, a well known lumber man at Houston, which occurred on 7th, aged 71 years. Capt. Gribble was president of the old Citizens bank at Jefferson for years before he moved from here.

The Bonham News has recently entered its forty-second volume, and grows better with age, as it is a splendid semi-weekly paper now, and has our wish for continued success as its years increase.

A Family Reunion.
Sunday, May 5th, we will venture to say, was one of the happiest days in the life of Mrs. Emeline Thompson, when all her family gathered beneath the old home roof to celebrate her 82nd birthday.

Mrs. Thompson has lived at her present home, six miles from Jefferson, since before the war. She is in excellent health for one of her age.

All her children were present, all the grandchildren, except one, 21 present, all the great grandchildren except two, eleven present. Some of the families represented were L. Thompson and wife; J. K. Sellers and family, Lodi; Mrs. C. N. Sellers and family, Lodi; E. Callison and family, Lodi; Joe Hedges and family, Kellyville; Bud Clark and family, Kellyville; and Mrs. J. C. Hutchinson, wife and brother, Queen City; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sharp, Miss Sharp and Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Misses Hicks and Robert Callison were invited guests.

At high noon a long table was spread beneath these grand old shade trees and loaded with good things to eat, and there were plenty and to spare. As some one remarked to Mrs. Thompson, "From the looks of your table your children are doing well." Though there were 65 present you could scarcely miss the food when all were through eating. The day was cloudy and threatening, but it did not mar the pleasure of any one. Everyone one seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves.

Mrs. Thompson received many tokens of remembrance.

Everyone was reluctant to depart, for they realized such a perfect day would never dawn again.

The writer wishes Mrs. Thompson many more birthdays, and may her last days be filled with peace and plenty.

A Birthday Anniversary.

Dear Editor JIMPLICUTE: Just a word in regard to one of the most pleasant and enjoyable incidents of the season, just occurred near Lodi, May 5th, Sunday, that day being the eighty-second birthday of dear old Aunt Emeline Thompson.

Her sons and daughters, conspired together to give her a surprise. The conspiracy must have been commenced a week before time for the surprise, from the preparations made.

It was understood that all her sons and daughters, sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, grand children and great grand children were to be present, even two or three of the intended, that was wanted-to-be-daughters-in-law and grandsons-in-law, participated. Several nearby neighbors were special guests. Will say first, the plans of these conspirators were carried out to perfection. Can only give you a faint idea as to what occurred between the hours of 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. Heard the sound of saw and hammer ring out about 11 a. m. and soon found out that a table was being erected in the yard, and its length, when completed, proved to be 36 feet.

These faithful sons and sons-in-law, daughters and daughters-in-law, began to unload wagons, baskets and buggies of their burdens of boxes, baskets, etc., and when the contents of these boxes, baskets, etc., were all unloaded on this table I must confess I never saw before a table of same length so heavily laden with good things to eat. I must confess my inability to describe the different things piled up on it. Cake of every description, in quantity and quality, will just say, was superb, sweets of the rarest kinds in abundance. Must say the barbecue meat was the best, cooked to a nicety, and seasoned to suit the most cultivated taste.

Our old colored brother, Henry Burns, comes in for some credit for this barbecue meat. He has had only about 60 years experience at the business.

Just about 1 p. m., when everybody's appetite was up to the highest point, the captain of the host, John Thompson, invited everybody present to the table. Fifty persons of this immediate family, myself and wife and J. H. H., with a few families as special guests, gathered around this table.

For about one hour devastation, destruction and havoc was had with the good things on the table. When it was discovered that a considerable impression had only been made in one place, and that resembled the path a cyclone, one of the twisting kinds with a tail to it. This great destruction was on that part of the table nearby where our old friends, J. A. Sharp, Joe Hedges and Dow Robertson occupied. You might not mention these pros names, but I am sure they were conscientious in this matter. They did not want to see such things wasted, and proceeded to save them. The only discomfiture on my part was at the table. This I must say, was caused by my cousin, Lou Sellers, yet I am sure it was unintentional on her part. Will just explain, though she may never know it. Only this. She kept my plate so heavily loaded with good things that I forgot what was put on first, and never could eat down low enough to discover what had been put there. Anyway, after all was said and done, after wishing our dear old mother and aunt many such happy birthdays, and departed in peace.

COMING HOME FROM TOWN

"We dined in some of the finest hotels and restaurants, but did not find any coffee to excel in quality Arbuckle's ARIOSA."

That is what one lady writes and millions of others prove they believe, by using more Arbuckle's ARIOSA Coffee than all the other packaged coffees in the United States put together.

The fact that Arbuckle's ARIOSA Coffee costs less and has suited the health and taste of most American people for over 37 years, ought to induce everybody to at least sample it.

The cities hide many country girls and boys who secretly sigh for a cup of good coffee like "mother" made. "Mother" probably used the old original "Arbuckle's" the first roasted packaged coffee.

See that you get the sealed package, one pound full weight, bearing the name ARBUCKLE'S ARIOSA COFFEE and the signature of Arbuckle Brothers, which entitles you to presents.

That is the genuine article, no matter where you buy it or what price you pay for it.
