

Buy Hair at Auction?

At any rate, you seem to be getting rid of it on auction-sale principles: "going, going, gone!" Stop the auction with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It certainly checks falling hair; no mistake about this. It acts as a regular medicine; makes the scalp healthy. Then you must have healthy hair, for it's nature's way.

Take off the lid and let her go.

Don't fall to plant June corn for fall roasting ears.

Good old summer time has come at last. The song of the mosquito

is heard in the land.

All property owners should keep

the weeds of all sorts pulled up

from the sidewalks and alleys.

Every one who is renting now is trying to buy a home before the rise in real estate begins in earnest.

A boll weevil doesn't eat cotton ore or timber. Jefferson has millions of both. Hence the lid has to come off.

The special sale days of Kaplan

Bros. is in keeping with other progressive cities. Another evidence of pushing off the lid.

Property is now changing hands

at advance figures over six months ago, both in business and residence.

The lid is gradually getting off.

The City Council acted wisely in lighting the streets. Another evidence of moving forward. The extension of the waterworks will be another. The lid has to come off.

The Marshall Messenger of Sunday, June 9th, came out in their thirtieth anniversary number, with glimpses of Marshall from 1843 to 1907. It was a most interesting edition.

If all laws were rigidly enforced

there would be fewer violations.

No person by reason of position,

wealth or family, should be exempt. Before the law all should be equal.

We have received the Rule Review, Haskell county, edited by

James D. Hall, who has taken charge of the Review. Editor

Hall went to the territory the past year but we are glad he has moved back to Texas.

Property owners on Vale street

are considering repairing the stores, putting in attractive fronts,

and concrete sidewalks, to be ready for the demand for new and attractive buildings. A further and practical illustration of the changing of center.

The conviction of the Waters-

Pierce Oil Co. was a great victory

for the State and the Attorney-General's office. It requires something now beside "influence" to get through the lines and enter

Texas. No one has heard Senator

Ballas saying the verdict was a reflexion on him.

It is said that during one of the recent cyclones, quite a number of people were in a cyclone house,

among them a preacher, who remarked to a gentleman and said,

"Well, brother, one consolation

we have and should remember that heaven is our home." "Yes,"

said the brother, "but, parson, I am not at all homesick."

Imported goods can be shipped cheaper from Antwerp to Chicago

than from the territory around

Philadelphia to Chicago. No one need not ask if the manufacturers are kicking. It is all right when they when they can ship goods to Southern points cheaper than the factories in the State can supply

the trade that suits them. We have in mind when a tin factory in Dallas some years ago could not compete with Northern tin factories

because of the difference in freight.

It was so with the woolen mills

here. Can't say any one is sorry.

It is well to give some people their own medicine. It makes a great deal of difference whose ox is being yoked.

SHOW ME.

Want of confidence and wanting to be shown the actual why and wherefore before being willing to invest their cash, has cost a great many people fortunes. But few men that cannot look back over their lives and find perhaps one or more times, that the opportunity presented itself that had they accepted it would have made them wealthy. "Show me" or another expression for hesitation caused the opportune moment to pass, and then came the regrets, and "if so," and so. Once a person acquires the habit of having anything shown him, his progress toward wealth is slow. The off-hand man hits it as often as he fails. Every man who has acquired a large fortune, has some time during the making of it taken desperate chances, and had he hesitated, would have lost out. "To doubt is disloyalty, to falter is sin." They who take no chance may make a living, that is as far as he will go. Once a man acquires the reputation of being a man of means, a moneyed man, his road to wealth is made easier—the opportunities to "catch on" to good things are more frequent. THE IMPRECATOR has been endeavoring to show the property owners why building up the city will pay. How much attention will be paid to the suggestions time alone will tell. There is a future ahead of our city much brighter than her most enthusiastic supporters have pictured, but it is not advisable at present to "show it." Therefore you who have to be shown, whose inflexible motto is to "show me," will have to wait and see. All that can be said at present is, that you will be astonished beyond measure when the curtain is drawn aside, and you are shown the real thing. Then you will regret that you had not faith, and acted on it. As sure as the present prosperity of the country continues so sure Jefferson will be greater than she ever was.

This is no dream, the statement is predicated on facts which are as sure to even out as the country continues to prosper as it has been. Each year will add to Marion county's wealth. Each year will add to the population of Jefferson. So don't wait to be shown. You have never put your fingers in the hole in the Savior's side, yet you believe it was there.

NEGRO KILLED AT LONGVIEW.

Longview, Tex., June 13.

—Aaron Daniels was killed last night by Ben Fryley at Elderville.

Fryley was Daniels' step-father and he killed him because he was taking up in a quarrel for him (Daniel's) mother, Fryley's wife.

He was shot with a shot gun at close range, being killed instantly.

Daniels is a brother of Prof. Wm. Daniels, principal of the colored public schools here.

There is a great excitement among the negroes and they may lynch Fryley.

HOME IN GLORY

BY E. M. WHITLEY.

Jesus left his home in glory, And for sinners came to die; Spilt his blood for every nation, And prepared a home on high.

REFRAIN

Don't you want to go there, Where the tree of life is blooming, And eternal glory share?

Don't you want to be a soldier, Marching with the Christian band? Don't you want to live with Jesus, In that happy Cannan land?

When the trump of God has sounded And the dead in Christ arise; We shall live among the numbered, In that home of Paradise.

When this earthly life is ended, Then our troubles will be o'er; We shall rest in peace forever, With our loved ones gone before.

ON THE WING.

El Paso, Tex., June 5, 1907.

EDITOR JIMPLECTUR: After thirty-four years' absence from the through California train, Mrs. Howell and I and ourselves safely landed in this city of West Texas. We left Jefferson yesterday morning at 4 o'clock during the storm. From Jefferson to Dallas the whole country seemed to be flooded. To say that the outlook for crops there is sorry, but feebly express it. One not acquainted with Texas would say that the crops in this section are beyond redemption, but I have so often seen the wonderful change wrought in crops by a few weeks of suitable weather, that I am one of the few that yet believe we will have an average crop.

After getting wet of Weatherford we saw no more signs of the floods that has afflicted our section. The few crops we could see was a little late but had a healthy look. Everything is dry. No sign of rain. Very little of the western country is developed, and in my opinion will not be in fifty years from today. We passed a number of beautiful little towns. Abilene, especially, is beautiful and up to date. But I cannot see for the life of me where they get their support. We were agreeably surprised when we reached El Paso to find a beautiful city of forty thousand. After spending a few days here we expect to start in on our return. We will not be in a hurry, as we expect to stop over at every important place from here to Dallas, including Mineral Wells, and we may drop down to Waco if we keep well.

Passing over this great expanse of country and beautiful scenery, one is deeply impressed with the wonderful enterprise of railroads that are developing countries that would not otherwise be developed in 100 years. Think of it! Yesterday at 4 a. m. we left Jefferson. Today at 2:35 p. m. we are over 800 miles away. J. H. Rowell, Sr., Hotel Mack, El Paso, Tex.

CLEAN UP.

In an editorial headed, "Some timely examples for others to follow," The Dallas News gives an account of the sanitary work being done in a number of Texas cities, and concludes with, "There are, thus presented some good examples to follow." Why not follow them? Are there any so ignorant that they are unable to realize the fact that it is foolish, dangerous, and suicidal not to do so? What investment could pay a community better than the few weeks expended in keeping a city clean? Is it not clear that the comfort, health, and lives of the people depend largely upon their willingness to conform to the rules of sanitary science? The argument is conclusive, and the conditions are in some places appalling. There are some good examples to follow.

Why not follow them? The Civic League will have a man and team regularly employed this summer to keep all spread on the ponds and ditches about town to keep the mosquito pest within bounds and appeals to the moths and housekeepers for the sake of the health of their immediate families and the community at large to keep their premises, sidewalks and alleys in a sanitary condition. Jefferson realized the necessity for cleanliness and began her warfare on filth and trash four years ago. There are none who will deny that our town is one hundred percent cleaner to day than it was before the work was first begun. Now with little but persistent effort Jefferson can be kept clean if not cleaner than any town of its size in the state. Let us follow the example of our sister cities and thus insure for our people a healthy summer.

Do You Know

That we guarantee our price against all competitors, and do you know that we would not dare do so unless we really have the styles, quantities, qualities and the prices? We defy competition. We ask an investigation and a share of your patronage on the above basis. Can we do or say more? Can you do less than come and see if your want to save money

Miss Cinnie Preston left on Wednesday for Austin to attend the Summer Normal at the State University. Her father and mother accompanied her and will visit their daughter, Mrs. W. B. Harper during the Normal. Mrs. Preston is an invalid from rheumatism and we hope the change will benefit her.

The special sale days inaugurated by Kaplan Bros. were a great success, and their store was crowded each day with hivers of the many bargains.

A Pretty Church Wedding.

It has been many a day since the city of Jefferson has witnessed a more beautiful wedding than the one which took place in the First Baptist Church last Tuesday night, June 11th.

The contracting parties were Mr. John Sherwood Lewis, the popular son of the Rev
