GREAT CORN DISPLAY.

Forty-Two Counties to Exhibit at Coming State Fair.

CORN DAY A FEATURE.

Boys' Club Will Be Organized—Dairy and Bee Exhibit—Exposition Begins October 16.

Visitors to the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the State Fair of Texas, which opens at Dallas Saturday, October 16, and continues sixteen days, will find a marked improvement in the agricultural department. When it is taken into consideration that Texas has 137,865,000 acres of land uncultivated, it is plainly seen that the management of the Fair has the proper incentive to make this department a paramount feature of each exposition. Forty-two counties have secured space for the exhibition of their farm, orchard and garden products. This is as never before, the rich agricultural resources of the state. Although the $2,000 in individual and county exhibits create a good humored and spirited rivalry among the agriculturalists of the state, the benefit that the exhibitors receive from a display of their products at the Fair is incalculable. Great railroad systems have arranged to give stopover privileges at Dallas during the Fair to all home-seekers, for the purpose of furnishing a rare opportunity of coming in direct contact with the people of various portions of the state and there see and inspect the diversified products.

Until last year the farm, orchard and garden displays were in tents scattered about the main plaza of the grounds. The erection of the agricultural building, which covers an acre in extent, brought the Fair last year thirty-two county exhibits, which for artistic arrangement and varied display, could not be equaled anywhere else in the United States. This year the display will be larger and superior in quality. West Texas, where thousands of immigrants are securing homes annually, will send every variety of grasses, corn, cotton, fruits, vegetables, sugar cane, etc. South Texas will send its rice, corn, cotton, citrus fruits, vegetables of every kind. East Texas, where associations have been formed for the purpose, has promised a wonderful exhibition of the farm, orchard and garden products of that section of the state. Central Texas has promised an exhibit eclipsing that of last year.

Much interest centers around the corn show and the Boys' Corn Club Day at the Fair. Cash prizes totalling $400 will be awarded in five divisions. This money is divided into prizes ranging from $1 to $50. Every farmer in Texas is urged to send ten ears of corn to the Fair, as there are over fifty of these prizes to be contested for and the chances of winning should create an unusual contest.

The sweepstakes in the farm and mill department follow: For the best and most complete individual exhibition of corn, cotton, citrus fruits, and other products from Texas, $25 first and $10 second; best farm exhibit from any county or association in Texas, $100 first, $75 second, $50 third and $25 fourth; best and most complete individual exhibit of corn, cotton, small grain and other farm products from Mexico, $25 first and $10 second; best farm exhibit from any state or association in Mexico, $25 first and $10 second.

Visitors to the coming exposition will find Professor Louis Scholl of New Braunfels in a "den of live bees," situated in the agricultural building. In this department prizes totalling $250 will be awarded for exhibits of bees, honey-products and bee-ware. All the different phases of the industry will be demonstrated. Twelve different varieties of bees will be exhibited and compared. There will be displayed honey in combs, in liquors, in sugar, etc. And then the many table delicacies in which honey plays a large part. Mrs. Louis Scholl will be glad to impart to the women visitors some of the secrets connected with the art of cooking with honey.

In the dairy department will be found a splendid display of the dairy and creamery products of the state. Butter and cheese will be exhibited in a mammoth refrigerator, built especially for the purpose. All the latest devices latest and creamery machinery will be seen and butter for commercial purposes will be made each week day during the Fair. There will be plans of model dairy and farm houses open for the inspection and education of visitors.

A purse of $70 will be awarded to the students; judging contest open to students of the Agricultural and Mechanical college. The contest will consist of judging two classes of dairy cattle and two classes of dairy products. In the students' butter making contest, gold and silver medals and diplomas will be awarded.

East Texas and West Texas are to meet in the agricultural building of the State of Texas, at the twenty-fourth annual meeting, which opens at Dallas Saturday, October 16, and continues sixteen days, and the diversified products of these two great sections of the state are to be compared. Both are rich in agricultural products and this rivalry will result in great good. County associations have been formed and for the past several months preparations have been under way for the Fair. Texas has 130,000,000 acres of uncultivated land, and the Fair, through its competitive exhibits, is doing much to attract the best of the agricultural classes of the North and East to the Southwest.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by a heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney trouble. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go to the toilet the day, and to get up many times in the night. The mild and invigorating effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney medicine, is a relief to the sufferer. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold in all drug stores in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. Young men have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

A BIT OF ADVICE.

First—Don't Delay, Second—Don't Experiment.

If you suffer from backache, headaches or dizzy spell; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning; if the kidney secretions are irregular and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. The kidneys are calling for help. Slight symptoms of kidney trouble are but fore-runners of more serious complaint. They should be given attention before it is too late.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure kidney trouble—they are recommended by thousands. Can residents desire more convincing proof than the statement of a citizen of this locality, who says that the cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected years ago has proven permanent?

Mrs. M. A. Adams, 204 Lafayette St., Marshall, Texas, says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as I did in April, 1902. I suffered for years from kidney complaint, brought on by an attack of pneumonia. My back pained me almost constantly and the kidney secretions annoyed me by their irregularity in passage. After using three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, the backache disappeared and my kidneys were restored to a normal condition. Since then I have only had one slight return of backache and Doan's Kidney Pills quickly disposed of it."

THE MAID HE WANTED

By CORA ASHWORTH.
(Copyright, 1902, by American Press Association.)

Joseph Miriam, bachelor, woman hater, advocate of single life for men and lax divorce laws, having tired of his bachelor sleeping quarters and meals at his club, decided to keep house. Having rented a comfortable furnished dwelling in a desirable location, he advertised for a girl to do cooking and light housework. He was not used to advertising for servants and wrote a very poor hand. The slip he handed in at the newspaper office was hurriedly counted by the receiving clerk, stamped for the "Situations Wanted" column and put through the composing room mill. It ended with the words, "Apply at No. —, Clermont street, between 5 and 6 o'clock p. m."

The next afternoon Mr. Miriam went from business to his domicile expecting to see a mob of servant girls besieging his front door. He was disappointed. No one was there. He went in, sat down and waited.

There was a ring at the bell. He opened the front door, and there stood a young woman, Miriam thought her well dressed for a servant, but remembered that many a servant in her street clothes might easily be mistaken for a lady.

"I've come about the advertisement," said the girl.

"Come in."

She entered the sitting room and stood herself in an easy chair. Miriam, somewhat surprised at this want of deference on the part of a servant for a gentleman, remained standing.

"I'm afraid," he said, "you won't do."

"Won't do?" exclaimed the girl in evident surprise.

"What I want is a girl so ugly that she'll never be a temptation for me and can't, therefore, get me into her clutches. I don't wish any woman about me except to cook and take care of the house."

The girl stared at the speaker without making any reply for a time, then took from under her glove a slip she had cut from a newspaper and read it carefully.

"You intended to advertise for a girl," she said.

"Yes, a servant girl who would know her place and not sit in the parlor while her master stands before her like a manservant before his mistress."

The girl sat surveying the advertiser with a curious expression on her face. At last she said:

"You are one of the most sensible men I ever met. It's every woman's object to get all out of a man she can. If you get an attractive woman in here she might snare you. Indeed, she might fall in love with a handsome man like you, and that would be dreadful."

A beautiful smile overspread Mr. Miriam's countenance. "I'm sure," he said, "that if I gave you the situation you're so honest, so sensible, that you would. I've half a mind to try you."

"You have made a little mistake," the girl interrupted. "I have called to secure the place for a maid I have had in my service for several years and whom I can heartily recommend."

And, taking out a card on which was engraved, "Miss Clara Sturges," she wrote on it her address. Mr. Miriam stood gazing at her in astonishment. "If you will come to my house this evening," she added, "I will show you the maid. She is a good girl and homely as a Dutch meeting house."

She rose, extended her hand gracefully, smiled sweetly and withdrew. Miriam saw her out at the front door and watched her go down the street. When she turned a corner he went back to his sitting room and exclaimed: "Well, I'll be jingled!"

For the first time in his life he realized the loneliness of a house without a woman.

The same evening Mr. Miriam stood again in presence of Miss Sturges in the coolest little reception room he had ever seen. A bright fire was blazing on the hearth. The lady invited him to sit by her before it and began to talk with him in a sympathetic way about the servant problem.

She told him that the maid about whom she had spoken to him had accepted a situation, but he could call again in two or three days. She would recommend another—one who was pitted with smallpox and suffered with bleared eyes. Then she kept him an hour, delighting him with her intelligence, her womanly interest in him. Indeed, an especial charm she seemed to find in him.

Mr. Miriam had fallen into the very trap he had wished to avoid. Miss Sturges was renowned for making any man she wished fall in love with her. She kept Mr. Miriam calling on her with a view to securing a servant for him and in the end simply made mince-meat of his heart. Then when he asked her to be his wife she stared at him in blank surprise and exclaimed: "Why, I thought you wanted a servant!"

Mr. Miriam went away crushed. For months he shut himself up—without a maid—and never smiled. Then he told his trouble to his sister-in-law. "Joe," she said to him, "you're a fool. The lady would never have taken all the trouble to snare you if she had been indifferent to you. Try again, and keep trying."

Not "Just as Good?" It's the Best.
