Osteopathy Recognized.

He who is so biased as not to investigate Osteopathy, should carefully read the following:

Osteopaths Get World's Fair Day.

"The science of Osteopathy is to be duly honored by the managers of the great St. Louis World's Fair. The management has already announced that July 7th, next year, is to be 'Osteopathy Day,' and it will be so printed on the official program."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch in commenting on this matter stated "that no manipulation was required in getting the Osteopaths a World's Fair day."

Give Osteopathy a chance at your ailments and eight chances to ten you will get benefits when all other treatments have failed.

You need not have faith in the treatment to be benefitted, for results come by the treatment, and not through your faith.

So let us lay aside our prejudices and investigate, and to that is good hold fast, and that is of no benefit lay aside.

Remember only those who are afflicted suffer by non-investigation and not Osteopathy.

THE PAPAL CONCLAVE.

Cardinal Gibbons Describes the Election of Pius X.

HE PLEADED AGAINST PROMOTION

With Tears in His Eyes, Cardinal Sarto Implored His Colleagues Not to Choose Him as Successor to Leo XIII.—Absolute Freedom and Fairness Marked the Election.

At a service of thanksgiving for the election of the new pontiff, Pius X., recently held in the cathedral at Baltimore, Cardinal Gibbons, who preached for the first time since his return from Rome, gave an impressive description of the conclave and of the new pontiff, says the New York World. He said in part:

"The conclave marks a new and important era in the annals of the American Catholic church. This is the first time in the history of the Christian religion that the United States or any part of this western hemisphere was ever associated with the other nations of Christendom in selecting a successor to the chair of Peter.

"I should not be at all surprised if in the next conclave the Catholic church of the United States will be represented by several members of the sacred college, so that the number of cardinals from our country may be commensurate with the population, the grandeur and the commanding influence of the nation, and may be in keeping also with the numerical strength of our hierarchy and laity and the splendor and progress of our religious and charitable institutions.

"I was present at the conclave and took part in its proceedings, and without revealing its secrets I can most positively assure you and the American people that the election of the pope was conducted with absolute freedom, with the utmost fairness and impartiality and with a dignity and solemnity becoming the august assemblage of the sacred college and the momentous consequences of their suffrages.

"I have witnessed debates in the British parliament, in the French chambers and in both houses of congress, and I must candidly say that in sobriety of language and in courteous deportment of members toward one another the college of cardinals surpassed them all. And this is the more noteworthy when we consider that some twelve different nationalities, swayed by as many national characteristics, were represented in the assembly. On leaving the Sistine chapel at the conclusion of the conclave and contemplating the overruling action of the Holy Ghost on these heterogeneous elements I exclaimed, 'The finger of God is here!'

"The votes for Cardinal Sarto steadily increased from the first to the seventh ballot, on which he was elected. When the cardinal observed that the suffrages for him were augmenting, he was visibly disturbed, and in a fervent speech he implored his colleagues not to regard him as a candidate. Contrary to his wishes the votes for him increased. He then became alarmed, and in a second speech in most pathetic language he again besought the cardinals to forget his name, as he could not accept a burden too heavy for him to bear.

"All were moved by the modesty and transparent sincerity of the man. When he resumed his seat, his cheeks were suffused with blushes, tears were gushing from his eyes, and his body trembled with emotion. It was only after some of the leading cardinals entreated him to withdraw his opposition that he finally and reluctantly consented to abide by the will of God and accept the sacrifice. Never did a prisoner make greater efforts to escape from his confinement than did Cardinal Sarto to escape from the yoke of the papacy. With his Divine Master, he exclaimed: 'Father, if it is possible, let this chalice pass from me. Nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done.'

"When his election was officially announced, his florid countenance assumed a deathly pallor, and restoratives were applied to save him from fainting. So little did Cardinal Sarto expect to be the choice of his colleagues that on setting out for Rome he purchased a return ticket to his home in Venice.

"Pius X. is in his sixty-ninth year. The virtues of humility, sincerity, candor and benevolence are stamped on his features. I can characterize him in one sentence by saying that 'he is a man of God and a man of the people.'

A Club to War on "Hiawatha."

An organization to be known as the Anti-Hiawatha club was launched in Portsmouth, Va., recently for the purpose of suppressing the overpopular twopenny "Hiawatha," says the Philadelphia Record. Each member of the club swears that he will not whistle, sing or dance to the tune of the played out melody; that he will pay no visits to young ladies who have the ear-enervating piece on their piano racks, and he will leave a dance hall or theater at the first strains of the piece from the orchestra. Whether the members will celebrate their organization with a torchlight procession, soiree of carnival has not yet been decided; but, at any rate, they are to meet to effect an organization.

His Wish.

"An ounce of radium," said the statistical individual, "would suffice to drive a motor car around the world at the rate of thirty miles an hour."

"Gee!" retorted the hard loser. "I would be content to have a grain, then. I'd inject it in the veins of the next horse I bet on."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

UNCOOKED FOOD FEAST

Elementary Pabulum Advocates Enjoy a Novel Dinner.

TO COOKS AND STOVES, FAREWELL

A Ten Course Dinner in New York Including Twenty-seven Dishes, Prepared Without the Aid of a Fire—Eugene C. Christian, Physical Culturist, the Host—Nut Dishes a Feature—Sun Cooked Corn, Etc.

Simple diet is best, for many dishes bring many diseases, and rich sauces are worse than even heaping several meats upon each other.—Pitt.

Probably the most unique dinner ever held in the United States was enjoyed in New York by a large number of guests recently at the invitation of Eugene C. Christian. Mr. Christian, president of the Physical Culture Association of America, is well known as an advocate of correct living. He believes that most of the ills that flesh is heir to are the direct result of faulty diet, a diet in which predominate meats and heavy pastries and which are other foods frequently overcooked, and the aforementioned dinner was held to demonstrate the feasibility of living on uncooked or elementary foods, thus solving the problem of emancipating the housewife from the evils of the cook stove. In the entire ten courses, consisting of no less than twenty-seven dishes, not a single dish was cooked in or on a stove, and not a vestige of meat or pastry appeared. Notwithstanding these features, all present found rare enjoyment in the repast and averred that their hunger had been entirely appeased.

Many of the women, who, like the majority of housekeepers, had suffered for years the bondage of the kitchen and had experimented with cooks galore, vowed unhesitatingly that their season of serfitude was now ended and that henceforth they would by following in the path blazed by Mr. Christian enjoy a glorious freedom never even dreamed of by housekeepers of the past. Then, too, the health of their families, the elementary foodists believe, will improve vastly through the introduction of the new dietary system, thus awarding them a double reward.

The menu placed before Mr. Christian's guests was as novel as it was interesting and was as follows:

- Cream of Corn.
- Unfried Wafers.
- Ripe Olives.
- Celery.
- Tomato Salad.
- Stuffed Peppers.
- Blanched Almonds.
- Macerated Cereal Dates.
- Whipped Cream.
- Sun Cooked Corn.
- Pecan Meats.
- Brazil Nuts.
- Egg-nog.
- Unfried Bread.
- Sweet Butter.
- Fruit and Nut Medley.
- Ginger Pudding.
- Whipped Cream.
- Turkish Full Figs.
- Spanish Pezsimmons.
- Pignolia.
- Cream Cheese.
- Date Butter.
- Unfried Fruit Wafers.
- Ice Cream.
- Nut Fruit Cake.
- Cereal Wafers.

The dishes were chosen with due regard to their combining qualities, and, in spite of their large number, no discomfort was caused. The cream of corn was served in cups and was made by extracting the juice from fresh green corn and combining it with milk and the proper seasoning. The unfried wafers and the unfried bread were distinct innovations even to those folk that considered themselves somewhat experienced in uncooked food affairs. On being questioned, Mr. Christian stated that they had been placed in a cabinet lined with electric lights, giving a temperature of about 140 degrees F., and dried. This process gives the wafers and bread a peculiar whiteness.

The sun cooked corn was cut from the cob about two weeks before the dinner and dried out of doors. To prepare it for use it was soaked in milk. On a page of the menu was a quatrain expressing sentiments distinctly appropriate for the occasion. It read: We may live without poetry, music and art; We may live without conscience and live without heart; We may live without friends, we may live without books; And civilized man may now live without cooks.

—Apologies to Owen Meredith.

In a speech Host Christian stated that the dinner was but one of a series that he purposed giving. He thus hopes to spread further the gospel of elementary foodism. By a series of exhaustive experiments he has demonstrated that uncooked food, the food "that grows in the sunshine, among the breezes and the green trees," is man's natural food, and he is of the opinion that the closer we adhere to nature and her simplicity just so much further will we have advanced toward the solving of the all important food question and its relation to health.

Among the guests were several men and women having rank as authorities on dietetic matters. Albert and Dr. W. R. C. Latson, publisher and editor respectively of a well known health magazine, were among the speakers and expressed interest and delight at the unqualified success of the dinner. One of the women, who is an advocate of elementary foods, told of the envy her comparatively care free life had aroused among her sister housewives. A neighbor recently said to her: "Why is it that your home life is so simple? You do not even have a cook, and yet you yourself never seem overburdened with work."

"Well," was the reply, "for breakfast I eat a bunch of grapes, and my husband drinks a quart of milk."
