QUAKER CITY TO WELCOME THE ELKS

GRAND LODGE OF ELKS MEETS IN PHILADELPHIA ON MONDAY, 250,000 VISITORS TO ATTEND.

Special to the Herald. Philadelphia, Pa., July 13.—Although the Grand Lodge of Elks does not meet here until Monday, a large advance guard of visitors has already put in an appearance. Reports received from all parts of the country indicate that the number of strangers to be in Philadelphia during the coming week will be the largest entertained here since the Centennial Exposition in 1876. A conservative estimate places the number of prospective visitors at 250,000.

All arrangements for the big gathering were practically completed today. For months past the local committees have been hard at work, and as a result of their efforts the visitors will find nothing has been left undone to contribute to their pleasure.

The business section of the city is already blossoming out in a sea of flags and bunting, the official purple of the order predominating. The center of the decorative scheme is a court of honor, extending on Broad street from Spruce to Vine. Fifty thousand incandescent lights have been employed in this artistic creation. In addition to this, hundreds of electric decorations and arches of various descriptions have been placed in conspicuous portions throughout the central portion of the city.

The main army of the visitors is expected to reach the city tomorrow. All trains will be met by members of the reception committee, who will escort the visitors to their hotels. Ladies accompanying special delegations will be taken to their hotels in automobiles and trolleys.

Features of entertainment will occupy the greater part of Monday. The program will include a trip on the Delaware river, visiting Cramps' and other shipyards, League Island navy yard, the forts and other places of interest. A stop will be made at Washington Park, where luncheon will be served.

The formal opening of the grand lodge will take place Monday evening at the Grand Opera House, where the guests will be welcomed by the governor, mayor and other officials. At the same hour bands will discourse patriotic airs in Independence Square.

The grand lodge will begin its business sessions Tuesday morning at the Garrick Theatre. The chief entertainment feature of the day will be a shore dinner at Washington Park on the Delaware river.

Wednesday morning a trip will be made through Fairmount Park. At 11 o'clock a massed band parade of 2,000 musicians will take place, each lodge having a band of thirty or more pieces entered in this feature, and in the general parade receiving $100, besides having a chance to win the $300 special prize for the largest and best appearing band. In the afternoon there will be an excursion to Willow Grove and in the evening band concerts in Independence and City Hall Squares.

The big parade will take place on Thursday morning, and it is expected to be the largest and most magnificent spectacle of its kind ever seen in Philadelphia. Thousands of dollars in prizes will be awarded to those participating. The parade will last practically all day, and in the evening there will be special band concerts and illuminations. There are going to be some very elaborate costumes in the parade and some beautiful and bizarre floats. After it is over thousands of dollars' worth of prizes are to be distributed to the participants.

The Wyoming Lodge will have its famous cowboy band in line, and the Pueblo Elks are to bring one hundred little Colorado burros, whose riders will be dressed as cowboys. The float which will be entered by New Orleans is a promising prize winner. It will be filled with Panama canal diggers, who will distribute literature exploiting the exposition which New Orleans proposes to hold in 1915.

The official trip to Valley Forge is scheduled for Friday, and on Saturday the official excursion to Atlantic City will take place.

These are the main features of the week's entertainment program, but there will be any number of other events, including a flight of airships and a naval display on the Delaware. Scarcely less interesting than the entertainment in Philadelphia will be that provided for the Elks when they visit Atlantic City at the end of the week.

SIXTH NATIONAL CONVENTION

Of the American Federation of Catholic Societies at Indianapolis.

Special to the Herald. Indianapolis, Ind., July 12.—Distinguished clergy and laymen of the Roman Catholic church in America are arriving in Indianapolis to take part in the sixth national convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies. The convention will be formally opened tomorrow with pontifical high mass at St. Peter and Paul's Cathedral and a sermon by Archbishop Blenk of New Orleans. The business sessions will begin in Tomlinson Hall Monday and continue for three days.

Among the organizations belonging to the federation, all of which will be represented at the convention, are the Western Catholic Union, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Catholic Order of Foresters, the German Central Verein, the Catholic Knights of America, the Knights of St. John, the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America. Ten thousand Catholic Indians, as well as the Porto Rico and Hawaii federations, will also be represented at the convention.

Among the eminent prelates who will address the convention are Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee, Bishop McFaul of Trenton, and Rt. Rev. Mgr. Joseph Schrembs of Grand Rapids.

BRYAN'S VIEWS.

Says Japan is For Peace and That War Talk is for Appropriation.

Carthage, Mo., July 11.—"Japan does not want to make war on the United States," said William J. Bryan in an interview today. "Of course," he continued, "there is a lot of jingoism in this Japanese war talk, and the hurrying of a fleet of warships to the Pacific coast. To my mind, the object is not to repel an expected attack of the Japanese, but that the talk is being done by some alleged statesmen at Washington to influence congress to make a big naval construction appropriation."

"When I say Japan does not want war, I do so advisedly, for when I was in Japan I talked with the leading men of all walks of life, and I found only expressions of friendship for our country."

CRITICAL ILLNESS OF POPULAR DUKE

OF DEVONSHIRE HAS RESULTED IN A FLOOD OF STORIES ABOUT HIM IN LONDON PRESS.

Special to the Herald.

London, July 13.—The critical illness of the Duke of Devonshire, than whom few occupy a higher place in the social and political life of England, has resulted in a flood of stories and anecdotes concerning him in the London press the past week.

One writer takes occasion to point out that in no country in the world except England could such a man as the Duke of Devonshire be produced or continue, year after year, without any effort on his part, to hold a commanding influence among his countrymen. He is the very embodiment of the aristocratic instinct which ties at the core of the national character. It gives a good idea of the solidity of the English society to notice that the Cavendish family have been in the first rank for more than five hundred years, with very little change in their position, except their wealth has steadily increased and their position

The story that is told of his yawning in the middle of his speech in the House of Lords, exclaiming that he "really couldn't help it, it was so frightfully dull," is characteristic of the Duke. The only instance in his history when he is known to have spoken rapidly in public, or to have exhibited the slightest animation, was on the occasion of a speech in Yorkshire many years ago. Usually punctual to the minute, he did not appear at the meeting for a considerable time after it had been called to order. When he entered upon his address his friends were at a loss to account for his uneasy manner and hurried utterance. They only understood when, afterward he quite incidentally let it be known that on the way to the meeting he had been in a runaway, in which he and his brother (who afterward was slain by the Phoenix Park conspirators) had barely escaped with their lives.

The Duchess of Devonshire is quite an interesting personage as is her distinguished husband. Her life history has been a remarkable one, and she now holds what is perhaps, the proudest social position in the world. In 1822 she married the seventh Duke of Manchester, then Lord Mandeville, and became a widow in 1839. She had five children. Two years after her widowhood, she was the wife of the Duke of Devonshire, and for the second time a duchess. She is known in society by the expressive nickname of "the Double Duchess."
