ACT ON TOBACCO RAIDS

Indiana Legislature Will Take Action In Regard to the "Night Rider" Troubles In That State.

Special to the Herald.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 18.—Coming as it does on the eve of the election the proceedings of the Indiana legislature, which convened in special session today, will be watched with more than ordinary interest. The ostensible object of Governor Hanly in calling the extraordinary session was to provide for necessary appropriations to carry on the business of the state and, what is regarded as, of even greater importance, to take action in the "night rider" troubles of southern Indiana. The governor declares that the conditions that have existed there have bordered on a state of anarchy and he fears that the troubles are about to recur, as the season for cutting the tobacco crop is close at hand. Other subjects will be taken up by the legislature, however, and the politicians of both parties are speculating more on these matters of prospective legislation than on the action that may be taken in regard to appropriations and the tobacco raiders.

The democrats are preparing to make a fight for several measures, and their attitude toward the governor's bills probably will be determined by what the republicans concede to them. They will make a great play at the special session against so-called extravagance and waste in the state administration, and while it is not expected that anything will be accomplished in the matter the discussion may have an important bearing on the present campaign. The democrats will demand the repeal of the metropolitan police law and the enactment of a law guaranteeing deposits in state banks. As the democratic platform declares for local option with the township or ward as the unit, the democrats will oppose the county unit plan of Governor Hanly.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, causes nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Special to the Herald.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18.—The lobbies of the Southern Hotel resounded with political discussions today in which the men who work the year round with pen and brain in the interests of the democratic party in Missouri exchanged views on the outlook in the coming election. The men were the members of the Democratic State Press Association, and the occasion of the gathering was their fourth biennial meeting. Some business was transacted during the day, but for the most part the time was taken up with informal discussions on politics and topics relating to newspaper making. Great plans have been made for the banquet that will mark the wind-up of the convention. President J. T. Bradshaw of the association will act as toastmaster, and among the speakers will be several democratic leaders of prominence.

Theatrical Managers and Players Look For the Worst Season in Over a Decade, Says Report.

Special to the Herald.

New York, Sept. 18.—For theatrical managers and players the season of 1908-09 is going to be the worst that has been experienced in over a decade. This is the prevailing opinion among the members of the profession and though the season has just begun the prediction is already being borne out by the facts. While the depression that has existed since last fall appears to be lifting for other lines of business there has not appeared as yet any signs of returning prosperity in the theatrical business.

BARNES MUSIC CO.

Several Broadway shows that were put on for a run only a week or two ago have closed on account of poor business and the managers are hustling to find attractions that may meet with a greater degree of public favor. Many shows, of course, have started on the road with the opening of the season, but the number of players who have been unable to find engagements is still surprisingly large and it is predicted that before the snow flies the ranks will be increased through the failure of shows that will be unable to weather the season.

A Promise Unfulfilled.

O. Henry, the well-known story writer, once promised the editor of a magazine that he would deliver a short story to him on the following Monday. Several Mondays passed, but the muse was refractory, and the story was not forthcoming. At last the wrathful editor wrote this note:

My Dear O. Henry—If I do not receive that story from you by 12 o'clock today I am going to put on my heaviest soled shoes, come down to your house and kick you downstairs. I always keep my promise.

Whereupon O. Henry sat down and wrote this characteristic reply:

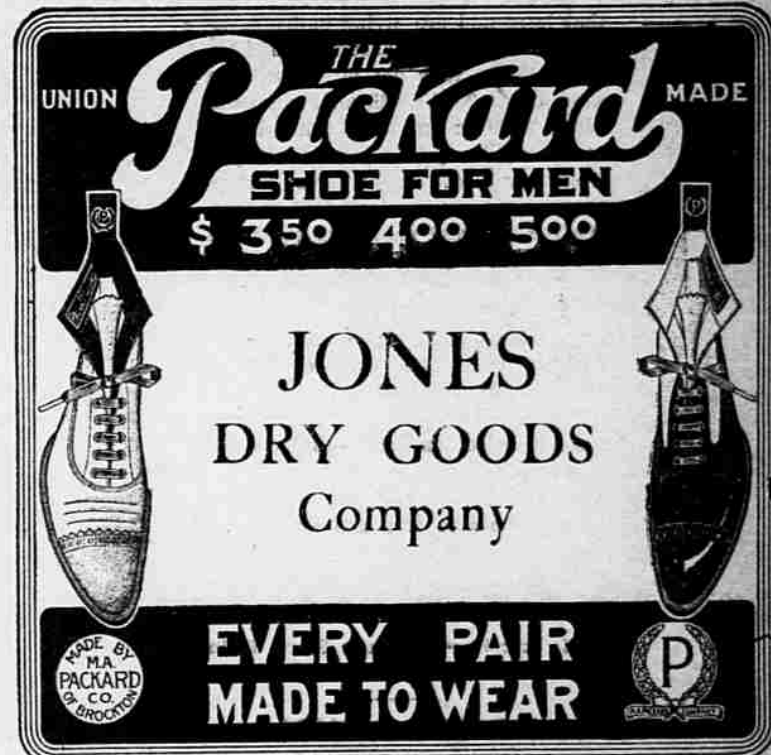

Dear Sir—I, too, would keep my promise if I could fulfill them with my feet. —Success Magazine.

A Defect.

A little girl was playing with a girl friend of her own age on the porch of her home. An elderly gentleman, her mother's father, and an elderly lady, her father's mother were sitting on the porch talking pleasantly with each other. The little girl had often wished her grandparents were of the same name, like other children's grandparents, and grandfather you have? "Oh, yes," she said, with a sigh, "but they don't match."
