Newspaper Dynamited Many Employees Killed

(Herald Special.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 1.—Between fifteen and twenty-five men are believed to have been killed outright and more than a score injured when an explosion wrecked the plant and building of the Los Angeles Times shortly after 1:30 this morning, just at the time the big morning edition of the newspaper was being printed.
As a result of the warfare waged for years between union labor and General Harrison Otis, owner of the Times, friends of the publisher openly charge that the building was dynamited. Fire followed the explosion, completely destroying the plant.

The loss will exceed a half million dollars.

At 8:30 o'clock this morning it was estimated the number of dead would reach twenty-five or thirty. The police report the arrest of two men in the Broadway tunnel, two blocks from the Times building. They are being held pending an investigation.
Chief of Police Galloway announced at noon that he had positive evidence that the explosion in the Times building was due to dynamite. During the day the force of the Times, including the editorial, business managers and mechanical forces, were assembled for roll call, and it was then announced that at least sixteen persons were dead, sixteen missing, and twenty injured. Most of the dead were employed in the composing and stereotyping and mailing rooms.

Publisher Died From Shock.
Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 1.—At 10:30 the Times received a message stating that General Otis, publisher of the paper, had died from shock on a train en route from Mexico to Los Angeles. News of the explosion and disaster had just reached him.
