100,000 INSANE PERSONS

In the State of New York, According to Authority on Diseases of the Mind—Facts and Figures.

New York, Oct. 14.—According to the latest official figures the total value of taxable property in New York state is $9,821,620,555. Of this quite respectable sum New York City has $7,042,339,104, leaving for the rest of the state only $2,778,281,451. New York county, containing the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, has real and personal property of the value of $5,262,388,703. The increase in the value of taxable property in New York City has been enormous since 1870, when the total was a little below the billion mark. The annexation of territory in creating what is known as Greater New York accounts to some extent for the phenomenal increase in values, but the natural growth in itself was tremendous. In 1880 the total value was $2,637,869,238; in 1890, $3,683,653,162; in 1900, $5,461,302,752; in 1909, $9,666,118,618.

It is only natural that in a state of the enormous population and the fabulous wealth of which New York can boast, all statistical figures are upon a large scale. An example is furnished by the figures concerning the number of insane persons in the state of New York and the cost to the state of providing for their care and maintenance. The latest statistics show that there are 30,490 insane

BUILDING IS FINISHED

Contractor Turns Silliman Building Over to Owners Today—Silliman Hardware Co. Moving In.

Today Contractor J. B. Rountree turned over to Mr. J. H. Silliman the new building to be occupied by the Silliman Hardware company, and the firm is already moving in some of the stock. This is one of the handsomest and one of the most spacious business houses in the city, and will make an ideal home for this firm's business.

persons in the various state hospitals of New York, not including those in private hospitals and the 1127 inmates of the two hospitals for the criminal insane. The twenty-three private hospitals have in all only 1049 patients. The total amounts to a little more than 31,500, enough to populate a good sized city of the third class. The figures, although official, are by no means complete, however, as there are many thousands of lunatics in New York City and in other parts of the state, who are not confined in any public or private hospital. Only a year ago a certain authority on diseases of the mind made the statement that in New York City alone there were at least 100,000 persons of unsound mind, who should be placed under medical care. Cynics are inclined to consider this estimate as altogether too conservative.

Ambitious Plan Abandoned.

New York, Oct. 14.—There seems to be no longer any doubt that the ambitious plan of spanning the Hudson river by a magnificent bridge, connecting New York City with the Jersey side of the river, will have to be abandoned. The experts, who have been making trial borings on both sides of the river have given out the statement that the plan of building a bridge within the limits of Greater New York is unfeasible, owing to the fact that bed rock, upon which the foundation of the bridge must necessarily rest, cannot be reached at less than 150 feet from the surface. If the bridge plan has to be abandoned, it is quite probable that a plan will be proposed to build a large tunnel under the river, instead of a bridge over it.
