COL. RALPH E. TWITCHELL.

He Writes Some Timely Paragraphs About New Mexico.
Ralph E. Twitchell, formerly of Kansas City and the Kansas university, but now attorney for the Santa Fe at Las Vegas, N. M., sends us the following clipping from the Albuquerque Citizen:

"The other day the Pajarito public schools took up a collection for the McKinley memorial. The school is composed of 100 Mexican children, and every one of the little ones contributed 5 cents each to the fund. Senator Hanna has contributed $5,000 to this fund. Out of his great wealth this sum will not be missed; therefore the gift of the little poor children of Pajarito is much greater, because they gave all they had to honor the memory of the martyred president."

And commenting on this, Mr. Twitchell says:
"Similar collections have been made all over the territory in the public schools. The mute appeal contained in this recognition of true American citizenship is more potent to me than all the formal speeches made by the advocates of the admission of New Mexico. Pajarito is a small village about twelve miles from Albuquerque, on the Rio Grande. Storekeepers here in Las Vegas have told me that the Mexican people have been very lavish in their purchase of pictures of the martyred president."

"I think all should take careful notice of these contributions by so-called 'Mexican' children. It demonstrates that the influences of father and mother are good. It also proves the character of the teachers whom we employ in our schools. If the United States had sent train loads of teachers into New Mexico, as it has done in the Philippines and Porto Rico, this population would rank with the very best in the United States. They are entitled to the more credit, owing to the fact that the United States government has never given one cent to the education of the people who came with the territory under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo."

It seems to us that Mr. Twitchell has little left if anything to be said in comment. His assurances that the Mexican children are being educated in a way to induce love of country is something which suggests its own comment and that of a most gratifying kind. It probably has been believed by people living far from New Mexico that little or no progress had been made by the Mexican population which came to us under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo. Possibly it is a surprise to many that these Mexicans are patrons of free schools, and that they have ceased in any degree to be aliens to the Anglo-Saxon civilization. The trouble with most of us is that we have skurried through New Mexico on the railroad train and accepted the "dobe" huts covered with red peppers as typical of all there was in the Mexican population. But Mr. Twitchell, who is a keen observer, shows us something more; he shows us that the time is coming when the Mexicans within our borders will be citizens in fact as well as name.—Kansas City Journal.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. Sold by A. E. Howell, Socorro; W. M. Borrowdale, Magdalena.

GEN. MILES' ABDOMINAL WOUND.

It is Related That a Minnie Ball Gave Him Injuries Like the Late President's.

Soon after the attempt upon the life of the late President McKinley at Buffalo some army officers were discussing in the office of Lieut. Gen. Miles the percentage of recovery from abdominal wounds, when the general took part in the conversation. "I presume," he said, "I am one of the few persons so wounded that ever recovered. On May 3, 1863, while beating back at the head of my regiment, a rush was made by Anderson's men on Hooker's left wing near the Chancellorville house. I was struck by a minnie ball, which penetrated my abdomen an inch and a half to the left of the navel, tore through the intestines and lodged in the muscles of the back. When the surgeon of the regiment reached me I asked him how long I had to live. In a tone which I thought was very unconcerned he replied, 'About forty-eight hours.' I doubted the veracity of the surgeon on the spot, and told him that I did not think it was as bad as that. He refused to argue the matter with me, and with the aid of an assistant proceeded to probe for the ball and then sew me up. Left to my meditations, I determined to fool the doctor. As the days passed my temperature subsided, the wound healed up as nicely as could be expected, and in three months' time I was on my feet again. The 'Medical History of the Civil War' has a full history of the case, which is set down as a most remarkable recovery from an abdominal wound."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Rheumatism
Rheumatic pains are the cries of protest and distress from tortured muscles, aching joints and excited nerves. The blood has been poisoned by the accumulation of waste matter in the system, and can no longer supply the pure and health sustaining food they require. The whole system feels the effect of this acid poison, and not until the blood has been purified and brought back to a healthy condition will the aches and pains cease.
Mrs. James Kell, of 707 Ninth street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes as follows: "A few months ago I had an attack of sciatic rheumatism in its worst form. The pain was so intense that I became completely prostrated. The attack was an unusually severe one, and my condition was regarded as being very dangerous. I was attended by one of the most able doctors in Washington, who is also a member of the faculty of a leading medical college here. He told me to continue his prescriptions and I would get well. After having it eleven weeks without receiving the slightest benefit, I declined to continue his treatment any longer. Having heard of S. S. S. (Swift's Specific) recommended for Rheumatism, I decided, almost in despair however, to give the medicine a trial and the effect of this acid poison was able to bubble around on crutches, and very soon thereafter had no use for them at all. S. S. S. having cured me sound and well. All the distressing pains have left me, my appetite has returned, and I am happy to be again restored to perfect health."
There are no opiates or minerals in it to disturb the digestion and lead to ruinous habits.
We have prepared a special book on Rheumatism which every sufferer from this painful disease should read. It is the most complete and interesting book of the kind in existence. It will be sent free to any one desiring it. Write our physicians fully and freely about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

Her Brother.
A pathetic incident recently occurred in connection with a biograph scene in one of our Western cities, says Popular Science. The instrument was one of the large ones used to throw a moving picture on a screen for public entertainment.

Some of the views showed incidents of the occupation of Peking by the foreign troops. One represented a detachment of the Fourteenth United States Infantry entering the gates. As the last file of soldiers seemed to be literally stepping from the frame to the stage, there was a scream from a woman sitting in one of the front rows.
"My brother! my brother!" she cried. "There is my dead brother Allen, marching with the soldiers!"
She had recognized the figure as that of a man who had mysteriously disappeared several years before, and had been regarded as dead, no word having been received from him.

The woman wrote at once to the War Department, and in time learned that the man who had been so strangely discovered to her was indeed her brother.
