Opening Day of Big County Fair

Given it and the same recorded, is turned over to the "reception committee," who strip it and turn it into the hands of the examining corps of doctors. After the child has been bereft of all raiment, clad in its pristine loveliness alone, it passes from doctor to doctor and its different measurements, its height, its weight, its chest expansion, the condition of its teeth—if it has yet "sprouted" teeth—its heart beats, its pulse, its respirations, all, everything is carefully noted, and fitted down on the score card, after which the little fellow once more is arrayed like Solomon in all his glory, and permitted to join the tiny play fellows on the floor. The examining corps of physicians, under the supervision of Dr. Thraill, is composed of the following well known practitioners. Drs. Antho, Dawson, Crose, Boone, Cook, Fester, Bowman and Thraill. The judges are Drs. Gerard of Ninnekah, Barry of Bradley, Hampton of Rush Springs, Martin of Pecosset, Hume of Minco.

Livestock Coming In.

The live stock pavilion is the only section of the grounds wherein the exhibits seem to have been slow in coming in. All live stock sheds are immediately along the roadway at University park. Here a fair line of cattle, some Jerseys, some Herefords, some Durhams, and quite a few horses, Jacks and Jennets have already been placed in their stalls. Mr. Cooper, agricultural agent for the county, states that he is expecting quite a few more entries in the live stock department this afternoon.

R. M. Evans, at the poultry pens, M. H. Shepard at the board of education, numberless ladies at the baby tent, Commissioner Robinson at the agricultural exhibit, O. C. Cooper and R. M. Cavette, everywhere, are all particularly busy. Mrs. Coryell, in looking after the domestic science exhibits, also has her hands full, but all are doing their share in an able manner to bring order out of chaos and the opening day of the big fair is proving a big success in every way. Even the attendance is far above what might be expected from the first day's history of the average county fair.

Sunday witnessed scenes of hustle, bustle and confusion—well-ordered confusion, however, at the fair grounds at Shanon Springs. Hundreds of exhibits poured into the grounds and were arranged in their respective spaces, despite the threatening aspect of the weather. O. C. Cooper was one of the busiest of the busy men. All day he worked, like a shirt-sleeved Trojan, in picking up and loading out the exhibits which have been on display, for the past several days, in the rooms of the Grady County Commercial Farm bureau, in transporting them to the grounds and in loading them at the grounds and transferring each separate item to its respective place in the large tent given over to agricultural exhibits. Employees at the grounds and officers of the fair association were all, also, busy—busier than the busiest, in taking care of the arrivals of the county products other than those which have been in the bureau's rooms down town. While the bulk of exhibits were not in place until noon today, yet a big lot were received yesterday. Many of the leading townships had their choice exhibits on hand before noon yesterday. And those in charge of the exhibits from the different sections are particularly proud of the products which they are placing before the eyes of all who may visit the fair. Grady county's citizenry may feel assured that there will not be another county which will excel in the diversification of farm products shown at its fair, that there will not be another county which will excel in the matter of fine stock, in fine chickens and in "better babies." And it is an open secret that not another county in the entire state can show a class of citizens, from every section of the county, who have taken greater interest in a fair and worked in more harmonious unity than have those of Grady county. Textile Exhibit Attracts Attention. The textile exhibit, placed in the window of the Eagle Saturday afternoon by Mesdames Johns, Pyle and R. M. Evans, attracted more attention and elicited more favorable comment Sunday than has probably any other one thing in this city during the past several months. All days passers by the store, strangers and home folks alike, were stopping and gazing with admiring eyes upon this truly artistic display. Comments were many and freely expressed—comments, all of which teemed with honest complimentary phrases. The hard work of Chickasha's ladies in the matter of making the Grady county fair a pronounced success, has been with unity of spirit and free from envy, each contributing her quota to the whole, and the textile display will take its place with the numerous other marks of hard and tireless work of the ladies of the city, as one of the many successes which will make the fair one big success.

Remember! If you ask a favor you must be prepared to grant one.

Three Cigarette Faults to Avoid

First, avoid cigarettes that don't just suit your own taste. Second, avoid those that bother your throat or tongue. Third, avoid those that make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

We mean what we say—for, when it comes to the taste, Fatimas can't possibly please every body—no cigarette can do that. But Fatimas do please more men than any other cigarette costing over 5c.

That's one reason why you should try them. Another reason is because they are so SENSIBLE—so free from any "after-feeling."

If you want to know exactly what a "sensible" cigarette is, just try Fatimas by these two tests. Do that little thing today—you'll be glad.

Advertisement for Fatima cigarettes. Includes text: 'TWO TESTS FOR ANY CIGARETTE'. 'The taste of the cigarette—according to a leading tobacco journal—is up to the smoker. But there are other qualities that you should look for in the cigarette that may help the average smoker to choose more wisely between different kinds of cigarettes. The first test is for coolness, which means more comfort to the throat and tongue. Light any cigarette. Draw in a cloud of smoke—a small, ordinary puff is not sufficient to make this test. Hold it in your mouth for a few seconds. Let it "float" around against your tongue and throat. Now blow out the smoke. If the cigarette contains a high grade of mild tobacco leaves, combined to just the right proportion, it will always feel COOL and smooth both to your throat and to your tongue. On the other hand, if the proportions are not right and if the cigarette contains inferior grades of tobacco or hidden strands of rank, oily leaf, you will feel a burning sting at the tip of your tongue or that "sandpaper" tickle in your throat. Test number two—How do you feel after smoking all day? If the tobaccos in the cigarette include a correct proportion of mild grades—and if all of the various grades have been properly blended by age—and if they have been so blended as to neutralize any unpleasant qualities in each of the different types of tobaccos, you will be able to smoke practically all day without feeling any effect from it. But with another cigarette in which the blend is less skillful, even though the tobacco are of the highest grade, you will find along towards the end of the day that you are likely to have that feeling of having "smoked too much."
