

3 BIG THINGS to remember when medicines are needed

DRUG QUALITY

The quality determines the value of any drug. We know this as well as the doctor. He knows what quality you require. We know what quality he must have, so we exert our greatest power in selecting drugs of the very highest quality.

Accuracy of Compounding

Knowledge and experience and care all go into the compounding of your prescriptions. Doubt's checking methods are employed to guarantee the accuracy. No drug store in existence can will or does exert a greater influence to give you accurately compounded prescriptions.

Safety of Medicines

Our label on any prescription package absolutely guarantees the contents to be exactly as the doctor ordered, without imitation, substitution or duplication, and without any fear of misinterpretation or disregard for your safety. It is always safer to bring your prescriptions to us

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a writ of execution issued out of the clerk's office of the district court of Grady county, Oklahoma, on the eighth day of November, 1915, in an action therein pending wherein the Perkins Window Glass Company was plaintiff, and M. L. Skelton, F. P. Bentley and E. H. Donahue were defendants, commanding me to levy upon property belonging to said defendants sufficient to satisfy a judgment rendered in said action in favor of said plaintiff and against said defendants for the sum of $448.05, after allowing all credits thereon, I have levied upon certain lands and tenements belonging to said E. H. Donahue, not exempt from sale under execution, for want of goods and chattels of the said defendants, to-wit: The entire interest of the said E. H. Donahue, the same being an undivided one-half interest, in and to the following described real estate situated in Grady county, Oklahoma—The northeast quarter of the southeast quarter; the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter; the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter; and the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 7, township 4 north, range 8 west, and have duly caused said lands to be appraised according to law and filed a copy of said appraisal with the clerk of said district court; Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the commands of said writ, I will offer for sale and sell for cash to the highest bidder, the entire interest of said judgment debtor in and to said lands and tenements, or so much thereof as will satisfy the said judgment and costs, on the seventh day of January, 1916, at 3 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the front door of the court house in the city of Chickasha, in Grady county, Oklahoma. Witness my hand this seventh day of December, 1915.

HER LADYSHIP DECIDES

By IDOLA FORRESTER.

It would be dull for Wanda back in London. She had worked hard through the winter and needed a change. Generally she came as the guest of Mrs. Towne, his mother, but it was Courtney who shouldered the full responsibility.

"I haven't seen Peggy since she was married. She says they are going to put in at Pinehurst just tomorrow at ten and I am to motor over with you. She would love to have Mrs. Towne and you come, too, Courtney."

"My mother doesn't approve of Peg."
"No." With lifted brows. "She's perfectly dear, and now she's married she's settled down wonderfully. I think I shall go, Courtney."

Courtney said nothing. He agreed quite pleasantly to drive her over the next morning. Mrs. Towne was disappointed and some way Wanda managed to coax her into acquiescence.

It was a cool, windy morning the next day, when they started for Pinehurst. Courtney had chosen his own car, a low, two-seated French machine. He seemed rather silent as they swung out along the shore road.

"It isn't far, is it?" Wanda asked lightly.

"About eighteen miles. I'm going to take the short cut."

Once outside the little seaside village, he turned off the main road and took the one through the pine island. Wanda stole a glance at him again, at the clean-cut, almost stern profile beside her, and then at his hands and the way they gripped the wheel.

"You don't really mind my going, do you, Courtney?" she asked tentatively.

"Not at all now," Courtney returned cordially.

"Halbert's very fond of Peggy. I think he might have married her himself some time if she hadn't chosen Captain Mintram."

Courtney smiled at the ribbon of road unrolling before them. His eyes were half closed. He knew every inch of this road. And every mile was taking them from Pinehurst and the boat landing. Yet he wanted to make sure. It was at the fourteenth mile that he slipped a lever wrong and the machine stopped.

With a quick apology he sprang out and started to tinker away at the car. Her ladyship chattered for a few minutes, waiting expectantly, but as the minutes flew by she glanced around curiously at the unfolding hills.

"Courtney, are you really trying to fix the car or just—"

He sat up in the road, his cap on the back of his head, and smiled at her.

"You're not fixing it at all, are you? That's what you call it over here, isn't it, fixing instead of repairing? Won't it go at all?"

He shook his head contentedly. She stepped from the car with dignity, delightful dignity he thought, considering.

"I think I shall walk until I find some sort of a conveyance."

"You can't, because we're about seven miles at least from the last house. I'm going to stay here until—" he glanced at his watch thoughtfully—"until 10:20. They will have called by then, don't you think so?"

Wanda's dark eyes were bright with anger.

"I don't see how you dare to do this, Courtney Towne. They are my friends and if I choose to go with them it is absolutely my own affair."

"Dear, you are not quite nineteen," said Courtney gently. "Halbert put you in my care and I can't conscientiously let you chase down the coast with Peggy and have her marry you off to any other crowd."

"You mean Kent?" The color rose in her face quickly.

Courtney nodded.

"I know the whole thing, Wanda. I heard Kent bet that he would marry you before you returned to England. You know as well as I do that old Halbert is in debt to him badly. It was part of his game to make him so. It gave him a surety of his consent to his winning you, and I couldn't stand that sort of thing."

Wanda stood before him, white now, her hands clenched at her sides. It had all been a lark, her wanting to go with Peg. She had not really cared, but when he had made an issue of it, it had amused her to win the point over him. Even though she knew Kent Paxton was going, she had not realized what it might mean.

"You see, dear," he went on slowly, "it isn't just for Halbert's sake, either. It's for your own. You know that, don't you, Wanda? I haven't been able to get word out to your brother yet, but there's been a little bit of luck for him, some money out of a Mexican deal that has seemed dead. We are both in on it, and I sold out our interest last week. There's enough to pay up Kent. You needn't catch the boat."

She caught the underlying bitterness beneath his words and stretched out her hand to him.

"Oh, Courtney, I do need you—"

"Of course, if you really want to go yet," he added unsteadily, "the machine isn't really out of commission. I can get you there. But I want you to come back with me."

Her hands were laid against his lips firmly. Courtney met her gaze with eyes that told all that was in his mind, and Wanda laughed softly, her own glance wavering.

"I've decided to go back," she said. (Copyright, 1915, by the McClure News-Paper Syndicate.)
