SELF-CONTROL COMES FIRST

Man Must Be Able to Rule Himself Before He Can Be Allowed to Rule Others.

The other day a man who makes his living by fighting was struck by an undersized man, and instead of returning the blow he walked away from his diminutive assailant.

This man exhibited much more self-control than the majority of people. Men who class themselves as being on a higher plane than this fighting man would have mixed immediately with the hot-headed individual.

What would you have done? The chances are that you would have rushed at the fellow with all your might; you would have permitted your savage instincts to rule you.

This proves that you have not as much power as you should have over your impulses. You may boss other people, but you are not boss of yourself.

Maybe you wonder why others are forging ahead of you as leaders of men.

It is because they have a check rein on themselves. They have schooled themselves that they may be able to guide others. Self-control is the attribute of a leader.—Chicago American.

GERMS INJURIOUS TO HEALTH

Decayed Teeth One of the Most Potent Causes of Disease in the Human Family.

A hole in a tooth is due to decay. The animal matter of which the tooth is composed is decaying. In that mass of decaying matter the germs of all kinds of disease find a hotbed of fertile soil in which to thrive and multiply and grow strong.

Swarms of them go down into the stomach with every swallow, some of them being destroyed by the action of the stomach juices, but some passing into the blood and being distributed to organs of the body, where they lodge and cause tuberculosis, pneumonia, sore throat, appendicitis and many other diseases.

In fact, it is difficult to pick out a single disease to which we are subject that may not enter the body by way of a decayed tooth.

Decayed and broken-down teeth prevent proper mastication of the food, and this in turn causes malnutrition or poor nourishment of the body, which means physical degeneracy, and physical degeneracy means mental and moral degeneracy.

Breaking It Gently. Speaking of breaking the news gently, the story is told of a well shooter who operated in the oil fields in southwest Kansas ten or twelve years ago.

While he was going from one well to another with a load of nitroglycerin the wagon fell over the side of a bridge and landed on the rocks fifteen feet below. The well shooter, his wagon and his team were immediately distributed over the surrounding country.

A friend, who happened to see the accident, felt that he ought to notify the unfortunate well shooter's wife, but he wanted to break the news as gently as possible. He called her up over the telephone and said: "My opinion is, Mrs. Loop, that your husband won't get back home in time for supper, and I reckon you might as well not wait for him."

"Which way did he go?" asked Mrs. Loop.

"Well, ma'am," said the tool sharpener, who was breaking the news, "he was goin' purty nigh straight up when I last saw him, though I think he was headin' a trifle to the northeast, and I should say at the rate he was travelin' that it won't be possible for him to make it back by supper time."—Saturday Evening Post.
