TOMMY MURPHY, NEW KING OF REINSMEN

New King of Reinsmen and Peter Scott.

(By FRANK G. MENKE.) Tommy Murphy has supplanted "Pop" Geers as "The King of Reinsmen" by his wonderful achievements during the 1915 trotting season. Murphy, by winning $116,588 this year eclipsed the $116,370 record established in 1902 by Geers, and incidentally he set a mark for single season harness earnings that never may be equaled. Of his winnings, Murphy secured $107,336 in regular purse events and only $9,252 in special match races. Geers, in 1902, won $68,370 in regular races. The other money came when he piloted Lord Derby, 2:05 1/4, to victory over Borloma, 2:05, in a $50,000 match race in Hartford. Murphy's phenomenal success on the turf during the past season was not surprising—nor was there the slightest element of fluke about it. For many years he has ranked among the greatest reinsmen in the world, and this year he jumped to the fore as the peer of them all. Murphy's winnings in 1914 went above the $100,000 mark. His earnings for the seven-year period from 1909 to 1915 inclusive, reach the amazing total of $548,588, an average of nearly $80,000 a year. Murphy's greatest coup this season was in San Francisco where he gathered in $26,200 during the campaign there. His next best winning was in Lexington, Ky., where he won $14,470. At Columbus he won $12,170, while in Syracuse he took into himself $9,027. His smallest winning was at Youngstown, Ohio, where he earned $500 during the "minor league" meet.

LOVES BILLIARD GAME

Noted Player Also Has Decided Inclination to Painting.

Ora Morningstar Has Never Used His Artistic Ability as a Source of Revenue—Has Originality in His Methods.

Ora Morningstar, until recently widely known as one of the foremost billiard players of the world, was uncertain for many years as to the profession he would choose. It was a toss-up between billiards and painting, and his inclination was decidedly towards the artistic career. The result has been somewhat of a compromise, for while Morningstar is famous as a billiard player he is also closely wedded to painting. About a year ago Morningstar was compelled to seek a more congenial climate for his wife, who was in very poor health and located in Arizona. This wonderful cue artist is never happier than when at his easel. His real genius lies in the creation of landscapes in oil, and some of his best works have received much favorable comment at art exhibitions. Morningstar has never used his artistic ability as a source of revenue. He paints for the love of the work, and his pictures adorn the walls of the homes of many of his friends to whom he has presented them. He may be said to belong to the modern school. There is originality in his methods. During the summer of 1914 this versatile gentleman made a number of beautiful sketches along with those two celebrated artists, M. B. Leisser and Richard Swartzweider. Each succeeded in obtaining several excellent subjects, which will undoubtedly increase their fame as artists. It was by chance that Morningstar became a billiard player. Early in life he obtained employment in the billiard hall of Maurice Daly in New York. Being thrown into such close association with the game he developed an unusual ability with the cue and attracted wide attention in New York. He was soon recognized as championship caliber, and more than once has held the 15.1 and 18.2 titles of the billiard game. His open table play made him a master of the new style game of 14.1. Billiards is more of a reality to him than art, although he loves art the more.
