"The Tardy Sheperdess," will be given tonight in the college auditorium. It is a beautiful spring operetta with catchy songs and attractive dances. The cast is composed of thirty girls from the high school and the O. C. W. The play is given under the direction of the MacDowell club.

Takes Post Graduate Course.
Dr. L. E. Emmanuel will leave Chickasha for New York, Saturday, May 13, to be absent for some time. Dr. Emmanuel will, upon his arrival in New York, enter the Polytechnic Post Graduate School of Medicine, and take the regular course. Attends Mission Meeting.
Dr. Lawrence L. Cohen, Jr., left this afternoon for Tuttle, Okla., to attend the district meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society, of the West Oklahoma conference. He will preach the annual sermon on "Woman's Place in the World's Work." He has recently been invited to preach the commencement sermon for the high schools at Amber, Okla., and at Rush Springs.

Refuses to Be Interviewed.
William (Billy) Cloud has returned from an extended one day visit to Ardmore and Agawam. The most strenuous efforts resulted in naught in the matter of securing an interview from Mr. Cloud. Standing upon his constitutional rights this morning, he reiterated his original statement that he had nothing to give out regarding his mission to the two cities above named.

Putney-Dikeman Marriage.
Mr. Simmie S. Putney of Oklahoma City and Miss Maud Dikeman, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Dikeman, 1092 Colorado St., on Sunday afternoon, by Dr. Lawrence L. Cohen, Jr., pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church. The bride and groom left the same day for Oklahoma City, where they will make their home in the future. Only immediate friends of the family were present at the ceremony.

Chases Coyotes in Car.
Saturday afternoon Boone Wall, of Minco, and Undersheriff W. C. Rucker, drove from Chickasha to Minco in an auto. Both parties reported having had a pleasant trip, which was enlivened by the puncturing of the atmosphere by Mr. Rucker, in futile attempts to kill, cripple and disable with his trusty six gun, sundry and numerous coyotes, which were frolicking about the scenery traversed by the auto. Rumor averred that Rucker succeeded in frightening all the coyotes out of the north end of Grady county.

Dillon Drives Car.
James Dillon has become the proud owner of an automatic traveling machine. It has four rubber-tired wheels; a bagle, or horn, or some other named noise maker; an exhaust which barks like a dog, tones clear-cut and vindictive; a steering apparatus and gears. Mr. Dillon has been trying to learn to run his machine for several days and has progressed so well that he has demolished two telephone poles, one rear mud guard and a large stock of choice bad language, while his life insurance agent has ordered the cancellations of his $500 policy.

PRETTY ROW IN POLICE FAMILY

There have been hot ords passed and cold feelings engendered in the "happy family" composed of Chief Phillips' sturdy patrolmen. Through idle words, thoughtlessly spoken about the gun practice of certain members of the force, by other members of the force, the dove of peace has been caused to flit, frightened away from police headquarters while an air of armed neutrality is the best which may be said to hover about the head of each separate blue-clad guardian of the public peace.

And it all came through a stray dog. It came about through the stray canine, which Bob Boles, one of the finest, attempted a few days ago to can with his trusty six-gun. It was all had enough for Bob to miss the dog a couple of dozen consecutive shots, but it was sort of rubbing it in when the balance of the squad came around and insinuated that the dog was tied fast to a fence post, at the time Bob put on the pistol practice.

Bob has attempted to square his marksmanship by filing counter charges against those who claimed the dog was first tied and then murdered, claiming some of the boys drew the loads from his gun and replaced the ball cartridges with blanks. The other boys offer to show tell-tale bullet marks on the sides of houses and barns in the neighborhood wherein the dog resided, as evidence that Bob is suffering from a pipe dream.

In evidence that he is a better marksman than Bob, Lee Tuck offers to show the bullet wound in his own leg, received while he was valiantly trying to assassinate a dog, some weeks ago; that he is a better shot than Bob, Halcy offers in evidence that he has never missed a dog, although he also has never shot at one; in evidence that he is a better shot than Bob, Baird offers his revolver in evidence, fully loaded and ready for a stray canine; in evidence that he is a better shot than Bob, Looney gravely points to his 24-centimeter shot gun and smiles.

And Bob goes out into the alley behind the police station and communes with himself and uses bad language and expresses his opinion of the truthfulness of his brother officers, a L. Teddy Roosevelt, while the dove of peace flits in frightened circles away from the vicinity of the police station.

INDIAN PAYMENT SOON.

Charles S. Merrill, an attorney of Washington, D. C., writes Judge Eugene Hamilton a letter in which he states that the Indian appropriation bill has been finally and fully agreed upon and will become a law during the next few days. This means, the letter states that the apportionment of Indian moneys in this section will very shortly be made.

NOT TO BE BOTHERED AGAIN

Why Simon Mish Had the Chief Cause of His Trouble Taken Out of the House.

Simon Mish (an extremely busy man) was enjoying his first bath of the year. He splashed luxuriously, enjoying the unwanted sensation. Suddenly the telephone bell rang. Simon Mish was alone in the house. The telephone bell continued to ring.

"Bother!" swore Simon Mish, and got out of the tub and went and answered it. "Hello," said a strange voice. "Does Selig Wiffleshank live here?" Simon Mish slammed down the receiver and went back to his bath. (He was alone in the house.) Five minutes later the bell rang again. Again Simon Mish left his bath to answer.

"Hello," said a second strange voice. "Is this the Mickentootle residence?" Simon Mish positively nurlled down the receiver and went back to his tub. A minute later (he was alone in the house) it rang again. For the third time Simon Mish deserted the tub and answered the telephone, and a third strange voice said: "Hello, may I speak to Rhudorf Wislawasher?"

That evening Simon Mish had the thing taken out of the house. No, gentle reader, not the telephone; the bathtub.—Buffalo News.

Straight Lines.
"Your work is imperfect," said the master, bending over a student and his work. "That line is not straight, and it ought to be perfectly true."
"I can straighten it," was the careless answer, and the student put out his hand toward the eraser, and put his pencil behind his ear.
"Do you not know that a straight line does not need to be straightened?" said the master gravely. "Perhaps you can straighten that crooked mark, but it will take time and skill, and how much better in any case to make a line in the first place that needs no correction. It is very hard to rub out a crooked mark, to make a place for a straight one."
How true this is in regard to a line of conduct. How wise and fine and every way better it is to do well in the first place, to do what cannot be questioned, and needs no "straightening out."

Shipping Precaution.
To ship a mirror without breaking the glass, paste narrow strips of paper diagonally across the glass. This breaks the vibrations and prevents the damage that often results.
One way or getting results—Daily Express want ads.

GRANDMOTHER'S MEDICINES.
Our grandmothers were wise in the virtues of the herbs of the field. They used to gather and store roots and herbs and use them to cure the ailments of their families—wormwood, thoroughwort, sage, rue, camomile—the list might go on and on of the healing plants with which they made us familiar.
Now their grand-daughters get the extracts from just such good old roots and herbs, from the nearest druggist, ready prepared for use. One such medicine, which women find best for their own ailments, is the well-known Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Adv.

NEW TYPE OF FALCON DEVELOPED
Immelmann, by this time, had winged out of range and, performing a circle, he landed his machine to render what assistance he could.
Lieutenant Slade's letter described how the German airman behaved in such a kindly manner toward his captives that he won their admiration. The letter concludes:
"He is a gentleman, and if we ever capture him, I hope he will be treated as such."

VISIT CLUBS AT FRIEND.
Agricultural Agent O. C. Cooper, Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Martin Coryell and Mrs. E. B. Black, visited the clubs at Friend school house yesterday afternoon. The clubs were found to be in flourishing condition, all the boys and girls taking great interest in the work. The girls club, under the management of Miss Winnie Reynolds, president, and Miss Jewel Bailey, secretary, is progressing nicely. Mrs. Coryell stated this morning.

RETURN FROM TEXAS.
