

Story of a Windmill.

[Max Adler.]

We went out to Slaymaker's in June to spend the summer, but we have been obliged to leave. Slaymaker had a small stream near his house, from which he used to pump water into the tank in his garden. It occurred to him some time ago that it would be a good idea to put on a windmill which could do the pumping for him, so he built one at a cost of $200. The first day it was set to work it frightened Slaymaker's best horse so that it ran against the fence and was killed, and the arms were so long that they nearly brained Slaymaker's oldest boy, who was standing beneath watching the machine, when it suddenly stopped and refused to move an inch. Slaymaker accordingly pumped the tank full, and just as he stopped the mill began to pump like fury. Slaymaker, in alarm, propped a rope and tied one of the wings to a tree. When the tank was empty he tried to make the windmill fill it again, but the concern was immovable. Then Slaymaker waited for a couple of weeks, and carried the water up to the house in buckets, because he was afraid to fill the tank, when the mill might get to work at any moment. Finally, as there seemed to be no hope of the machinery getting all right again, he did pump the tank full, and then went to bed. That night there was the first hurricane ever known in that neighborhood. The windmill made about four revolutions a minute, and left the bed of the stream below it completely dry, while it poured nearly six hundred gallons an hour into Slaymaker's garret. The boards all swam out the windows, and spent the rest of the night in the barn, while Slaymaker took to a tree, from which at daylight he had a magnificent view of the falls as they poured picturesquely from the attic windows, every minute or two bringing out with them a chair or a hair trunk, or one of Slaymaker's shirts, or a washstand. Mrs. Slaymaker will not clean house this summer, but Slaymaker has a windmill that he is anxious to sell. He will probably close it out cheap to a purchaser who wants to take it away right off.

Roundabout of the New Orleans Times, is disposed to have his own way, and like a fractious horse, he either went on all, or he kicked out of the harness entirely. He don't want a convention of the anti-Kellogg elements. He thinks the whole case being laid before Congress, and that nothing more can be done that will add any strength to the fusion cause. Herein Roundabout is squarely on the platform of the State Register. We believe and preach the same doctrine on this point. We have long taught that nothing could be said or done that would improve the prospects of the fusionists. And now Roundabout, like a sensible man, as he is agreed with us. We believe he agrees with us still further, and we expect him to say so one of the faintest shadows of a hope left, and that Kellogg, and Antoine, and Fields, etc., are not to be set aside, except at the expiration of their terms of office. Roundabout knows this as well as we do, and he would acknowledge it just as readily, but for the fact that the patrons of the Times are not so well accustomed to the truth, as the readers of the State Register, and they would certainly kick a row, if Roundabout would tell the whole truth at once.—[La. State Register.]

What the Garter Does.

Here is something from the Book of Beauty that is strictly local here or anywhere else. Women should read it: "A handsome leg is a rarity, we had almost said an impossibility, among American women. The reason of this is the place where they wear the garters. No French woman, no English woman of cultivation, now-a-days wears her garters below her knees. It is ruinous to the shape of the calf. More than this, it has serious consequences of another kind. The principal vein of the leg, the vena saphena, runs just beneath the skin until it nearly reaches the knee, when it sinks beneath the muscles. Now, if this is obstructed at its largest point by a tight garter, the blood is checked in its return to the heart, the feet are easily chilled, and more liable to disease; the other veins of the leg are swollen into hard, blue knots; become varicose, as it is called, and often break, forming obstinate ulcers. This is a picture which a physician sees nearly every day. With the garter fastened above the knee all this pain and deformity is avoided, but it is still better to wear no garter at all, and to suspend the stockings by tapes around the waist. In this case, however, a well fitting stocking is needed.

A Bad Boy

They say that the chief astronomer at the Washington Observatory was dreadfully sold a few days ago. A wicked boy who Sunday School experience seems to have made him more depraved, caught a firefly, and stuck it, with a bit of some mastic, in the centre of the largest lens in the telescope. That night, when the astronomer went to work, he perceived a blaze of light, apparently in the heavens, and what amazed him more was that it would give a couple of spurts and then die out, only to burst forth again in a second or two. He examined it carefully for a few moments, and then began to do sums to discover where in the heavens that extraordinary star was placed. He thought he found the locality, and the next morning he telegraphed all over the universe that he had discovered a new and remarkable star of the third magnitude in Orion. In a day or two all the astronomers in England and America were studying Orion, and they gazed at it for hours until they were mad, and then they began to telegraph to the man in Washington to know what he meant. The discoverer took another look and found that the new star had moved about eighteen billion miles in twenty-four hours, and upon examining it closely he was alarmed to find that it had legs! When he went on the dome next morning to polish up his glass, he found the lightning bug. People down to Alexandria, seven miles distant, heard part of the swearing, and they say he infused into it much whole-souled sincerity and vigorous energy. The bills for telegraphic dispatches amounted to $2000, and now that astronomer wants to find that boy. He wishes to consult him about something.—[Max Adler.]

FISH JEWELRY.—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette gives the following description of the fish jewelry which Denmark contributed to the Vienna Exposition: This jewelry is made exclusively of the bones and scales of fish. It is just as dear as if it was made of gold, and it is as highly esteemed by the ladies of Copenhagen. It is in many respects the most beautiful class of fine work we have seen. There are ear-rings, bracelets and crosses, made of fine, delicate fish bones, white as the driven snow, and carved fine as pommaweb, and embellished with beautiful bright red and crimson fishes' scales. There are also large cases of fish jewelry, such as knives, forks, spoons, ladies, etc., carved in the most exquisite patterns out of fishes' bones and ornamented with fishes' scales.

Lantern-jawed people may be light eaters. Bolting politicians are apt to be flowery in speech. Doctors are supposed to thrive on ill-gotten gains. Not all men who brag of their descent are decent men. It is a good memory that remembers the poor. Get a trumpet when the damn of your ear is destroyed. An oyster is not affectionate, but its shells are very much attached to each other. A servant girl in Montana gets sixty dollars per month in gold, with the use of piano and sewing machine. A good farmer put up a notice at his garden gate which reads as follows: "Boys, don't take these melons, for they are green, and God sees you."

Louisiana Institution for the Deaf and Dumb.

BATON ROUGE, July 1873.

To the Police Juries, the Municipal Authorities and Friends of the Deaf and Dumb in Louisiana:

The Trustees of the La. Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb, call your attention to this unfortunate class, and the provision made for them by the State in this Institution. All the Deaf between the ages of eight and twenty-five, of sound physical and mental constitutions, will be admitted and provided with instruction, board, lodging, medicine and medical attendance at the expense of the Institution; and all those in such indigent circumstances as shall appear by a certificate of any member of the police jury of the parish, or mayor of the city, where they reside, to render such aid necessary, will also be furnished with clothing and traveling expenses to the Institution. The Institution also affords a mechanical department in which instruction is given in such trades as may be best suited to render the pupils self-sustaining citizens. The education of the deaf is of peculiar importance to them and to the State; but from want of information, indigence or other reasons on the part of parents, less than half in the State avail themselves of the privileges afforded. This is all wrong; hence the Trustees earnestly call the attention of all proper authorities to the duty of seeing that all the deaf in their respective parishes or cities, are informed of the privileges provided, and that in cases of indigent circumstances, means be provided for conveying such to this Institution. Proper provision will be made for both white and colored.

In case of any deaf known at this Institution to be in your city or parish, the names are appended to this letter. Should you know or learn of others, their address is earnestly desired.

Gov. W. P. KELLOGG, ex-officio, Hon. J. H. BURCH, H. NEWELL, Esq., L. SCHWEN, Esq., L. BERHEL, J. McVAY, Esq., Superintendent, J. A. McWHORTER, ex-officio. Trustees of La. Institution for Deaf and Dumb.

ASSASSINATIONS

IN FRANKLIN AND RICHLAND PARISHES.

Proclamation by the Governor

STATE OF LOUISIANA, Executive Department, New Orleans, September 10, 1873.

WHEREAS, Information has reached me of the cowardly and brutal assassination, by a gang of desperadoes, of Hon. T. S. Crawford, Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District, and Hon. A. P. Harris, district attorney, on the night of the eight instant, in the parish of Franklin, while quietly proceeding to hold court in accordance with law.

Whereas, Information has also reached me of the cruel and unprovoked murder of Thomas Archibald, Esq., by two unknown men, while standing at the gate of his house in Richland parish, on the night of the second instant; and

Whereas, The perpetration of these and similar cold blooded outrages in the northern portions of this State, brings disgrace upon Louisiana, and tend to keep away capital and emigration from our borders—

Now, therefore, I, William P. Kellogg, Governor of the State of Louisiana, have thought fit to issue this my proclamation, offering a reward of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS for the apprehension and conviction of the murderers of Judge T. S. Crawford and A. P. Harris, district attorney, and TWO THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS for the apprehension and conviction of the murderers of Thomas Archibald, to be paid respectively upon the production of the certificates usual in such cases.

And I hereby call upon all good citizens, without regard to politics or race, to aid the officers of the law in bringing to speedy justice the perpetrators of these heinous and atrocious crimes; and I warn all persons against harboring or screening, or in any way aiding or abetting the murderers aforesaid.

Given under my hand and the seal of the State hereto attached, this tenth day of September, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and seventy-three, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-seventh.

WILLIAM P. KELLOGG, Governor.

P. G. DESLOUXE, Secretary of State. Sept. 21-1873.
