THURSDAY, JAN. 15, 1914.

Attorney O. C. Nelson has been in Salt Lake for several days now, but up to the time of going to press has not succeeded in breaking into print in the Zion dailies. "Matter pop!"

There has been much building of residences during the past two years but the "biggest little city" has been unable to build fast enough. Houses are as scarce as a Plymouth Rock's incisors. Every available dwelling place is rented and the constant demand is for more.

One thing greatly needed in Price is proper signals from the power plant whistle to let the people know in what locality a fire may be. Mayor Gunderson has the matter under consideration and in the immediate future will have signals arranged to designate the different sections of the city.

Col. A. H. Stevens, general agent of the Price line, says that Utah is the most prosperous state in the country. No armies of unemployed men are marching from town to town in Utah. The Beehive state has never been over-hounded, hence there is no chance for a reaction. Utah is a good place in which to live.

The astrotatic action of Governor West in defying the courts of Oregon probably meets with popular approval in his state as his offense is directed toward minimizing the evils of the liquor traffic. But what a precedent in this connection the Herald-Hoppleville recalls the farewell address of the first president wherein the immortal Washington counseled the new republic to beware of such usurpation of power. "For," said he, "though this is one instance may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed; the president must always greatly overbalance in permanent evil any partial or transient benefit which the use can at any time yield."

An interesting compilation of facts and figures by Senator Theodore E. Burton on government appropriations is contained in the Saturday Evening Post of January 24. While our population since 1789 has only been multiplied by twenty-four, our appropriation for the current year is three hundred and sixty times as great as it was in 1789. In the ten years just preceding the outbreak of the Civil War our expenses averaged about sixty million a year, which is less than one-half of what we are spending each year on our navy. During the war, when government expenditures assumed enormous proportions, the total expenditure during the four years from 1861 to 1865 was only $3,542,810,000. During the last four years of unbroken peace we have spent $229,000,000 more than during those four years of frightful warfare. During the current fiscal year our appropriations amount to $1,099,678,788, which is more than the cost of prosecuting the Civil War during its last year, when every nerve was strained to crush the Southern armies.

According to all reports the so-called Eugenic marriage law is a failure in Wisconsin. The law, it was supposed, would safeguard marriage by preventing all but those physically and mentally perfect from becoming man and wife. It has now been discovered that the law is not worth the paper on which it is printed, for so-called common law marriages can be recorded for ten cents each and are quite as valid as any other.

INCREASE OF MINE ACCIDENTS IN 1913

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 13.—Alarmed by the increase of mine accidents during 1913, when 2360 deaths were recorded in the United States, the greatest number since the federal bureau of mines was created, John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America; Vice President Hayes of the union, Secretary Lane of the interior and Dr. John A. Holmes, director of the federal bureau, conferred here today to discuss the probable cause of the increase and a possible remedy.

This was the first of a series of conferences to be held at the interior department with the miners' representatives, mine operators, the state mine inspectors and federal authorities participating.

A statement issued by the interior department said:

"The special subject for discussion at today's conference was 'What can be done by miners toward improvement in safety and health conditions in coal mine operations?' Among the special features discussed were the following:

"The co-operation of miners and mine operators, mine inspectors and the bureau of mines in drawing up special safety rules and regulations.

"The co-operation of the miners with the mine management in the enforcement of rules and regulations.

"The co-operation of the miners' organizations with the bureau of mines in placing before the miners the result of the investigations conducted by the bureau, and in making more effective the bureau's safety demonstrations and educational work."

AMEN!

How dear to our heart is the steady subscriber
Who pays in advance at the birth of each year;

Who lays down the money and does it quite gladly,
And casts around the office a hero of cheer.

He never says, "Stop it; I cannot afford it;

I'm getting more papers now than I can read."

But always says, "Send it; our people all like it;

In fact, we all think it a help and a need."

How welcome his check when it reaches our sanctum,

How it makes our pulse throb, how it makes our heart dance!

We outwardly thank him, we inwardly bless him,

The steady subscriber who pays in advance.

With Apologies to Mr. Riley's "Orphant Annie."

Mister O. C. Nelson's come to our town to stay,
An' tell commissioners what to do, an' take our funds away,
An' get aboard the choo-choo cars, an' go to Salt Lake City,
An' tell the gov'nor 'bout doin' here, an' what an awful pity!
An' all us other residents, when Nelson he gets done,
We set around our fireplaces, an' has the mostest fun
A-listenin' to the tales what Nelson tells about,
An' the commissioners 'at gits you,

If you
Don't
Watch
Out!

One'd there was a lawyer who wouldn't vote for Teddy,
An' dressed up in his fightin' clothes, an' told 'em he was ready.
An' Progressives heard a holler, an' Democrats a shout,
An' when they counted up the votes, they found that Mac need out.
An' some people didn't like it, to think that he'd slipped in,
An' Joe, an' Bill an' Benton, too, all said it was a sin,
But we'll git him yet says Nelson, 'fore he knows what he's about
An' the commissioners'll gits you

If you
Don't
Watch
Out!

An' then they went to see the gov'nor and 'turney general, too,
An' Nelson he turned round and round, an' then he hollered "BOO!"
An' Allen Sanford an' Joe an' Bill took chips out in the game,
An' said the carryin' on down here was sure a burain' shame.
An' people here jest laughed an' grinned, it was so plain you see,
That Mac was not a Teddyite, but just a U. O. P.
An' so the joke is passed along, some wink and others shout,
An' the commissioners'll gits you

If you
Don't
Watch
Out!

An' they kept on perseverin', an' Nelson got some coin
To go right after Mac some more and snipe him thigh and loin.
An' this story's not yet ended, an' there won't be any stops
Until our county board decides to cut out Nelson's chops.
An' Braffet says offhanded like, that while the gittin' good,
An' no one yet is very scared nor takin' to the wood,
An' as it seems so plentiful, an' layin' all about
Some others may be gotten

If Someone
Don't
Watch
Out!
