THE establishment of Dunn & Co has now opened up, and the assignee Mr. Ed. L. Jones, announces that they are giving inducements to the trade, and special inducements on certain lines.

A BARBER looking at an electric car passing him while in Salt Lake the other day, exclaimed: "Boss, who made that?" "Oh, a Yankee." After pondering a moment the darkey exclaimed: "God bless de Yankees; just dey not de niggah free, and now dey freed de nule."

THE Enterprise restaurant is the finest place in Provo for a good meal, their 35 cent dinner being better than most of the hotels in the Territory furnish. For short orders they cannot be excelled. Cleanliness, something rarely met with in a restaurant, is what you see there. Strangers visiting Provo will find this the best place in town.

An outrage is reported from Summit Fork, where an old man, a Protestant, was shot by a Catholic named Mr. Barney, and is living two miles north of the town mentioned. Barney and wife drove to town in the morning, leaving the old lady at home. When they returned she was lying on the floor senseless, with her clothes torn and displaced. The officers have been notified and are in pursuit of the perpetrator of the deed.

THE coming June Festival, at the Tabernacle, at Salt Lake, will be the grandest affair of the kind ever given in Salt Lake, or in the west. The great bass, Myron Whitney, and the famous soprano, Emma Thursty, have been engaged, and will sing at each of the three performances. There will be over four hundred voices in the chorus, which will be assisted by the Tabernacle organ. Reduced rates have been given on the railroads for the event, and a section reserved especially for Provo.

E. C. DAVIS, the tinner, of this city, entered suit in Justice Brown's court, Monday, to obtain judgment against a Denver firm for the sum of $120. It would seem that the firm of James J. Wallace, of Denver, secured the contract for the tin and galvanized iron work on the Asylum, and that they subcontracted to Davis the work of covering the roof with tin. He completed the contract but the firm refused to pay him, as they claimed they had lost money on the contract. Justice Brown, after hearing the case, gave judgment for $100.

At 6 o'clock on Sunday last a meeting was held in the Third Ward, Provo, for the purpose of appointing a successor to Bishop Tanner, resigned, and the Presidency of the Stake were present. First, Smoot said that Bishop Tanner had resigned his office, and that this special meeting was called for the purpose of appointing his successor. Elder Richard S. Gibby was unanimously elected. He was ordained a High Priest, and ordained and set apart as Bishop of the Third Ward. The meeting house was crowded and an interesting and instructive meeting was had.

There are some who express a dread of a new order of things in politics in Utah, and who claim special consideration for their views because of their long residence in the Territory. Is it not possible that such have become so thoroughly increased in the shell of past conditions that they cannot see the change now in progress? That a change has taken place in all conditions and that it still continues cannot be questioned. There are some highly ridiculous assertions put forth against the organization of parties on the lines of national politics. They do not meet with the approval of any considerable portion of the gentle people, and they cannot be accounted for excepting upon the assumption that those who are responsible for them are tossing in uneasy dreams of the days that have passed away.—Times.

A GRAND SUCCESS.

The Feast of Music Last Saturday Night.

Prof. Giles Rewarded For His Hard Work With a Crowded House.

The festival held in the stake tabernacle on Saturday night last was a huge success. The building was packed, and it being lit up with electricity, it presented a pleasing effect. The chorus and orchestra presented a very nice appearance from the body of the building, and Prof. Giles and the managing committee received many deserved compliments for the arrangement of the choir.

The festival opened with "The Star Spangled Banner," by the combined choirs, bands and orchestra. This piece thrilled the audience and great applause followed it.

The Payson band rendered a fine overture, called "Village Life." The piece was well played. The band does well, and shows the advantages of constant practice.

Mrs. Maggie Hill rendered the solo in the chorus of "Land of the Trumpet and Spear," from the opera of "The Bohemian," very sweetly. She deserved the applause and encore that followed. The chorus was well rendered by the combined choirs and reflected credit on Prof. Giles.

Prof. John Held, in his solo of "Then You'll Remember Me," showed the power of the cornet to good advantage. The cadenza, as an introduction, was well executed, and his trilling smooth and even. He received a warm encore and rendered "Kiss-Bye." The crescendos and diminuendos were very fine and was appreciated by the audience.

Miss Laura Webb sang "The Lover and the Bird" with her usual sweetness. For an encore she sang Harrison Millard's "Waiting." This song, however, appears almost too heavy for her.

The favorite quartette, Boshard and Payne brothers, sang "O World, Thou Art so Wondrous Fair." Their voices blended sweetly, something which is hard to find in male quartettes, and although the piece is the hardest they have attempted, they sang it well, and were recalled and sang "The Soldier's Farewell." They were the recipients of an ovation in the form of four tier bouquets.

Prof. White Clive rendered his violin solo in an artistic manner, his execution being simply wonderful, and his expressive very fine. He was warmly recalled and played "Lily Dale," which "brought down the house."

R. C. Easton, our favorite "Rob." sang "Bless underneath the snow," and was twice recalled. His voice and style of delivery captured the audience, and the gentleman received round after round of applause.

Miss Dora Davis, the talented pianist, played a very difficult operatic selection, and was recalled. Miss Davis is a perfect wonder as a pianist, and a good sight reader, the most difficult compositions being found in her repertoire.

Mrs. Hill rendered John B. Marsh's beautiful recitative, and aria, "The Lord is my Light." This selection gave her voice a good range. The highest note is B, and this she held full and clear for four measures. The applause which greeted her at the end of the piece proclaimed her the favorite of the evening. She sang, as an encore, "The last rose of summer," with much feeling.

The Fourth Ward Glee Club, twenty-seven voices, rendered Stephen's "Invitation to harmony" in a finished style, showing excellent training. This is one of the prize pieces in the coming June festival in Salt Lake, and these boys bid fair to get the prize.

Ed. Olson played a cornet solo, "Washington Guard" and was recalled. The orchestra accompanied him in his second piece.

R. C. Easton sang the beautiful tenor solo from the "Bohemian Girl," "Then you'll remember me," and was loudly applauded and recalled.

The choruses, "Blessed are the men," "May-Day" and the closing anthem, "Blessed be Thou, Lord, God," were well rendered and Prof. Giles may well feel proud of the fruits of his hard labors, as every chorus was appreciated.

The orchestra, which accompanied each chorus, was one of the features of the night.

The program of sixteen numbers was laid out enough for the interest to be kept up throughout, and each number was so varied that no monotony existed. Prof. Giles labored hard, day and night, to make this a success, and he has succeeded, far beyond his expectations.

The six-page program, printed by THE DISPATCH, gave much satisfaction to the concourse of people, on account of the fact that the words to each chorus and anthem were printed in it in full.

The report of the Medical Superintendent was submitted and approved.

On motion of C. A. Allen the auditing committee was instructed to meet with the secretary and treasurer on Sunday, May 17, 1891, and make an examination of the secretary's books, and determine the exact balance of building funds in the hands of the treasurer and return to the Board.

Meeting then adjourned.

IN THE TOILS.

Sheriff Fowler and City Marshal Brown

Return From a Short Trip to Grand Junction, Colorado, and Bring With Them the Alleged Roberts' House Trunk Thieves.

Sheriff Fowler and Marshal Brown have returned from Grand Junction, where they have been in quest of the tramps who took a trunk from the Roberts' Hotel in this city on the night of May 14th, and who carried it down in the fields, broke it open, taking the most valuable goods from it. Sheriff Fowler was sent out after the tramps, and scoured the country, telegraphing in all directions. He received a telegram from Grand Junction to the effect that his men were there, and he immediately set out for them. On his arrival, seeing so many tramps there, he telegraphed for Marshal Brown. The Marshal went and identified four of them as having been in Provo about the date the trunk was stolen. Their names are Dan Brennan, John Ingrata, Thomas Bennett and Charles Ryan. They were before Justice Brown yesterday morning on a charge of grand larceny, and entered a plea of not guilty. Their hearing was set for three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. The officers deserve credit for their efficient service in this case, as they have worked unceasingly and have been successful.

LATER.—The examination was held this afternoon, and sufficient evidence adduced to warrant holding the defendants, which was done in $1,500 bonds. Being unable to give bail they were locked up.

A MAGNIFICENT EVENT.

Two World Famous Singers Will Head the June Festival.

The Salt Lake Choral society, headed by Mr. Evan Stephens, have made a move which has astonished the whole western musical world. This is the engagement of the famous singers, Emma C. Thursty, of New York and Myron W. Whitney, of Bos on, who will come across the continent to head the society's festival, which occurs in Salt Lake June 5th and 6th. The large tabernacle has been secured, and its great organ, with the 400 voices in the society, the select orchestra, picked from Salt Lake's best musicians, and the fifteen or twenty vocal soloists famous in Salt Lake added. To the two great stars that head the program, will make up a festival the like of which has never been approached in any city in the west, not excepting Denver, Omaha or San Francisco. Popular prices, 50c. to $1. will prevail, and as all railroads have given half rates, there will doubtless be a large attendance from this district.
