A BIG DEFICIT.

The Territory Must Get Some Money Somehow.

TAXES TO BE INCREASED.

The Pool Killer Missed a Man in Spanish Fork—Salt Lake Puts Out a Feeler on the Capital Removal and Gets Bit—Other Matters Considered.

The financial report of the territory was presented in the house yesterday by the committee on ways and means. It states that during the sessions of 1888, 1890 and 1892, appropriations were made in excess of revenue amounting in all to $740,000.04, and that to meet these deficits bonds to the amount of $700,000 were issued, leaving an unpaid balance of $40,000.04. The deficit for the next two years, it is estimated, will amount to $295,000, without taking into account any expenditures for militia, repair and erection of public buildings, bounties or university supplies, and even after road appropriations are cut down to $10,000 and salaries and expenses lopped off $10,000. They do not favor the issuance of any more bonds, but recommend that the taxes be raised to $4 mills. They recommend the issuance of $200,000 in bonds, $125,000 to be used in the erection of a wing to the capitol building and the remainder to be used to tide over the time between the appropriation of moneys and return of taxes.

Douglas earned everlasting notoriety by presenting an absurd petition from George O. Hicks, evidently a dependent resident of Spanish Fork, who craves about issues dead four years ago. There is some merit created over it, the ridicule to which it was subjected, and some remarks to the right effect. This took up most of the day.

The amendments of the council to a eight-hour bill were concurred in. It will be sent to the Governor. A bill to regulate the procedure in presentation of guardians' reports a bill to relieve William J. Jelds from a judgment were unanimously passed. No new bills were presented, but a number of petitions and claims came on.

In the council the afternoon was spent almost wholly in debate and but little was accomplished. The bill to give women places on boards of directors of public institutions met with some opposition on the ground that the proposed action would be contrary to the laws of Congress in such case made and provided, and the bill was finally recommitted. The measure appropriating $2,000 to be used on the capitol grounds for the relief of needy and deserving laborers, was taken up, discussed and a great deal of opposition having developed, referred to the capitol committee. This measure is viewed as a favor by Salt Lake to learn how the legislators stand on capital removal. A bill to have spiritualist articles so stamped that the unsuspecting housewife may know whether she is buying butter or oleomargarine was passed and on the eleventh day of the month his maiden speech, in which he allowed forth the smooth eloquence of a Demosthenes and the oratorical force of a Webster. A bill to exempt the libraries of lawyers from taxation was ruthlessly killed, because it would discriminate.

The judiciary committee scored first blood in the fight against taxation of mortgages by bringing in a report unfavorable to Varian's bill, but the measure was not reached on the calendar. Several bills of minor importance were introduced.

Progressive High Fives.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob Irvine and Miss Ella Davis gave a progressive high five party at the home of H. W. Davis last evening, which proved to be a very happy social affair. Prior to manipulation of the cards a short musical program was carried out which consisted of the following numbers:

Piano solo, Mrs. Irvine.
Violin solo, Professor Christensen.
Vocal solo, Venice Pike.
Violin solo, Professor Coleman.
Vocal solo, Mr. Irvine.

Prizes for the high five were awarded as follows: Lady's prize, a handkerchief case, Miss Venice Pike; Gent's prize, a volume of Browning, Professor Christensen.

Lady's booby prize, paper weight, Miss Hines; gent's booby prize, doll, Dick Aley.

Guests present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Olson, Edith Beck, Daisy Moore, Miss Raybould, Lillie Gates, Venice Pike, Miss Richards, Miss Strong, Clara Dusenberry, Florence Pemberton, Blanch Davis, Herman Martin, Richard Aley, Samuel A. King, C. H. Gunter of Salt Lake, E. Williamson of Salt Lake, Harry McGraw, Thos. E. McGraw, Alex. Hesquist, Professor Christensen, Walter Coleman, Felix Bachman, David Westwood Bert Olson.

THE STORM KING.

He is Raging Violently All Over the Southern Part of Our Fair Territory.

A fearful blizzard has been sweeping over Illinois and other states in that vicinity the past two days. The storm in fact seems to have reached across the entire continent, and Utah has had its share of it. Yesterday the great storm north of Salt Lake and in Sanpete was reported in these columns. Today a special to the Salt Lake Tribune among other things says:

"At noon on Saturday, the stage with the Salt Lake mail, left Beaver for Milford, reaching Minersville with great difficulty between 3 and 4 o'clock, where the storm was raging worse than here. Leaving there before 4 p. m., and about five miles northwest the snow was falling so thick, the blizzard whirling snow in every direction that the horses refused to face it, the driver lost the road and about dusk dropped into a gulch eight or ten feet deep, full of drifted snow. After a while he got one of his horses loose and got back to Minersville at 10 o'clock the next morning. When starting back to his abandoned horse, buggy and mail he learned of two Salt Lake druggists that had also got lost and spent the night in the bed of the river, sheltered by the banks, one of them having both feet badly frozen. The driver found his horse alive, and mail all right, and reached Milford at noon. Here he learned that the driver that should have left Deseret Springs on Saturday morning for Milford had not yet arrived or been heard of, and it is certain that if he had started he got lost and perhaps perished in the storm, which, if possible, was worse at Milford and Pioche than east."

News of the same violent storm is received from Ingersville, Cedar City, Parowan, Kanosh, Fillmore, Seple and other settlements in various parts of southern Utah.

PROF. GILES and his talented choir are working hard on a grand oratorio concert to be given on the Saturday following Washington's birthday, selections from a number of Wagner, Beethoven and other great composers are included in the repertoire. The Coleman Christensen orchestra have been secured, as also have all our best local talent signified a willingness to assist. Rehearsals are being held three nights every week and great interest is being taken, insuring this affair to be the crowning musical event of the season.

A related Newspaper.
A curious instance of delay in delivering a newspaper by post has been brought to light at the general postoffice. Some alterations are being made in the newspaper department, and on the removal of an iron girder which had supported the roof a few papers blackened with age were discovered. One was a copy of the Wakefield Journal for Aug. 17, 1866. It was addressed to Buckingham Road, De Beauvoir Town, and as it was posted long before the halfpenny stamp was invented it bore the old red penny stamp. The paper had evidently reached London "in course of post," and by some unexplained chance had got into the hiding place where it had lain all these years. It has now been sent for delivery, but whether the address has been found after the long interval does not appear. Perhaps he or she, like the paper itself, has in the meantime died; at any rate, the Wakefield Journal has no place in recent press directories.—Blackburn (England) Times.

Boston's Gilded Dome in Danger.
Hartford's gilded dome is believed to be all right, but there are disquieting reports about the other and older dome that crowns the Sam Adams statehouse on Beacon hill, Boston. The statehouse superintendent reports that the life of the supporting timbers is gone, signs of dry rot have appeared, the whole dome structure has settled perceptibly from its original position, and in his opinion something should be done immediately. The suggestion is that unless something is done the gilded dome may tumble in presently on the legislators' heads.—Hartford Comment.

Grafted Chicken Claws For Finger Nails.
Frederick Stoga, a well known resident of Burlington, N. J., has been successful in performing an operation of great interest to medical men. A short time ago he clipped off the tops of two fingers with a pair of shears. In experimenting for a remedy he successfully grafted chicken claws on his disabled fingers. A couple of weeks ago the claws, which had been carefully bandaged to his fingers, began to grow, and since then they have shown a decided development. Stoga can now use his new fashioned finger nails with considerable effect.

TECHNICALLY GUILTY.

R. S. Hines Fined the Sum of $10.00 for Selling Alcohol in His Drug Store.

Shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon R. S. Hines appeared before Justice Wedgwood and pleaded guilty to the charge of selling alcohol in his drug store without having previously taken out a license permitting him so to do.

The complaint was sworn to by Policeman Buckley and G. H. Roberts, the man to whom the half pint of alcohol was sold, was present in court. E. E. Corfman represented Mr. Hines and J. W. N. Whitecotton represented the people of Provo.

Mr. Hines stated to the court that he had no remembrance of the sale, but that if his honor, or the marshal, or the policeman, or any one else, had come into his drug store and asked him for liquor of any kind he would have sold it without hesitating, believing that he was doing a perfectly legitimate act. When he sold the alcohol, or any liquor, in his drug store he did it with no intent whatever of violating an ordinance of the city. He held a retail liquor license permitting him to sell in his saloon, separated from his drug store only by a short hallway. The attention of previous marshals, policemen and prosecuting attorneys had been called to the matter and while they all admitted that his practice of selling liquor at retail in the drug store was a technical violation of the license ordinance, yet it was so technical they did not care to prosecute it, and he had continued his practice unmolested for years. When he was informed by the present officers that he must cease, he removed all of his liquors to the saloon and would keep them there in the future, and Mr. Hines assured the judge that he would not violate this nor any other ordinance again.

Prosecuting Attorney Whitecotton stated that he believed all that Mr. Hines had said was absolutely true, and that it was not the purpose of the city to be vindictive. All that is wanted by the city is that its ordinances be respected. In view of all the circumstances he recommended a light sentence, not merely nominal, but sufficiently light so as not to be oppressive.

The judge said that in his opinion these offenses should be severely punished as the sale of intoxicants must be strictly regulated, yet in view of all the mitigating circumstances that had been set forth and which were undisturbed by the prosecution, he felt that a fine of $10.00 would answer all purposes, and imposed that fine.

The object of the complaint, so says Marshall Knight, in all likelihood another case—a test case—will be brought.

Lost a Leg

Blood Poisoned by a Slight Accident

But Hood's Sarsaparilla Purified, and Restored Health.
"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Gentlemen:—Three years ago a file penetrated one of my legs just above the knee. I was some distance from a doctor and the wound was not properly dressed. Failing to receive the necessary treatment,

Blood Poisoning set in. I became so weak and my system so much run down that I could not turn in bed or help myself in any way. After seventeen months' confinement, my wife took me to Walla Walla, Wash. Here the surgeons amputated my leg half way between the knee and the hip. Following this my health improved slightly but several remedies were tried but did not give me relief. Finally Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended.

I could See a Change from the first. Gradually I have improved; I am growing stronger and the painful gatherings have disappeared and I am about cured of my

THEIR NAMES IN HISTORY.

A List of the Eminent Dead of the Year Just Closed.

Among the men who have died during the past year, whose names will figure in history, are: James G. Blaine, late secretary of state; Alexander of Battenberg, once the prince of Bulgaria; ex-President Hayes, General Benjamin F. Butler, Justices Lamar and Blatchford, Hamilton Fish; Beauregard and Smith, Confederate generals; the Earl of Derby; Miribel, chief of the French general staff; MacMahon, ex-president of France; Jules Ferry; Senator Stanford, the founder of Leland Stanford university; Sir A. T. Galt; Sir John Abbott, premier of Canada; Uncle Jerry Rusik; Tirard, a former premier of France; Admiral Tryon of the Victoria, first of English naval officers of the day, and Ferdinand de Lesseps.

This group, in its various members, has lost Phillips Brooks, who is claimed by the church universal; Dr. A. P. Peabody, Dr. Philip Schaff; Frederick Evans, the Shaker; Bishops Kip and Bissell and Brother Azarias.

The ranks of the men of letters show few breaches, but among these are places once filled by Taine, Francis Parkman, Guy de Maupassant, John Addington Symonds, Lucy Stone, Mrs. Maria Lamb, founder of the Magazine of History; De Mille, Lucy Larcom, Professor Jewett and Dr. William Smith, the lexicographer.

Among the scientists who have been taken away the names of Tyndall, Charcot and Professor Horsford of Harvard are the most prominent. Others of this class are Craven, the inventor of the submarine cable; Lichtenthaler, the conchologist and marine botanist; De Candolle, a French botanist; Captain Anderson, who commanded the Great Eastern when laying the first Atlantic cable; Joseph Francis, the inventor of the lifeboat; Colton, the map publisher; Viner, the meteorologist; Stephenson, builder of the first street car; Rae, the great arctic explorer; Harvey, the inventor of the armor plate.

Few men have died in 1893 whose loss has been more severely felt and whose names have been more widely honored than General Armstrong, founder of the Hampton institute and friend of the negro and the Indian. In this category, among those who did much for their fellow men, may be mentioned also Anthony Drexel, George I. Seney and Colonel Auchmuty.

Last, but by no means least, in the ghostly procession venote Edwin Booth, greatest of American actors and a very rare character; Fanny Kemble, J. E. Murlock, Gounod, the composer, and Tschalkowsky, the Russian musician.—Buffalo Commercial.
