SETS HIMSELF ON FIRE.

Some Past and Prospective Experiments of the Electrician Nikola Tesla.

Mr. T. C. Martin, editor of The Electrical Engineer, writing on the work of the Serbian-American electrician, Nikola Tesla, says:

Mr. Tesla has advanced the opinion and sustained it by brilliant experiments of startling beauty and grandeur that light and heat are produced by electrostatic forces acting between charged molecules or atoms. Perfecting a generator that would give him currents of several thousand alternations per second and inventing his disruptive discharge coil, he has created electrostatic conditions that have already modified not a few of the accepted notions about electricity.

It has been supposed that ordinary currents of 1,000 or 2,000 volts potential would surely kill, but Mr. Tesla has been seen receiving through his hands currents at a potential of more than 200,000 volts, vibrating a million times per second and manifesting themselves in dazzling streams of light. This is not a mere tour de force, but illustrates the principle that while currents of lower frequency destroy life these are harmless. After such a striking test, which, by the way, no one has displayed a hurried inclination to repeat, Mr. Tesla's body and clothing have continued for some time to emit fine glimmers, or halos, of splintered light. In fact, an actual flame is produced by this agitation of electrostatically charged molecules, and the curious spectacle can be seen of puffs of white, ethereal flames that do not consume anything, bursting from the ends of an induction coil as though it were the lamp on holy ground.

With such vibrations as can be maintained by a potential of 3,000,000 volts Mr. Tesla expects some day to envelop himself in a complete sheet of lambent fire that will leave him quite uninjured. Such currents as he now uses would, he says, keep a naked man warm at the north pole, and their use in therapeutics is but one of the practical possibilities that has been taken up.—Century.

Weak, Tired, Nervous Pains in the Stomach—Nine Years of Suffering How It All Ended.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "For 9 years I have had a pain in my stomach besides nervousness, weak spells and constant tired feeling. For the first five years I did not doctor much but gradually growing worse, came to this state for the benefit of my health. I was treated by several good physicians but continued to grow worse. For the last year I have been confined to my bed nearly all the time. I became so weak I could stand but a few minutes at a time. I could eat but a little and I fell off in weight from 130 pounds to 80.

About four months ago I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and from that time I have steadily improved in health and gained in weight.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

strength. I also had a bunch on my neck as big as a hen's egg which bothered me to breathe. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla that has disappeared. During the past year my husband's body became bloated and he was unable to work. He took two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is feeling as well as ever." Mrs. ANGIE THOMAS, Sodaville, Oregon.
