The Democrats Here Have Joined With Those of Other Precincts in the County Organization and the County Will Join With the Territorial.

On the 10th day of June there will be held at Salt Lake a territorial democratic convention for the purpose of electing a territorial democratic central committee, and for the transaction of such other business as may come up—a convention of organization and for the purpose of getting things in readiness for the setting of the campaign and for setting the ball rolling that will roll up another democratic majority at the polls in November next.

On Saturday next at 12 o'clock noon, in the county courthouse there will convene in Provo a convention to elect delegates to attend the Salt Lake convention and to elect a county central democratic committee who will have charge of all matters democratic in the county from Saturday on, and of the coming campaign, and for the purpose of transacting such other business as may come up.

All of the precincts in the county have elected their delegates to this convention and have also elected their precinct committees, certain members of whom it is understood will be made members of the county committee.

Last evening a goodly number of the democrats of Provo precinct met in the courthouse and elected delegates, alternates and a precinct committee. The meeting was an interesting one. A. D. Gash was chairman and Walter Scott was secretary. Hon. W. M. Dusenberry has the matter in charge of organizing democratic societies—the educational branch of democratic organization—and he will call a meeting to convene at some early date.

NIGHTINGALES.

"Beautiful must be the mountains whence ye come,
And bright in the fruitful valleys the streams
wherefrom:
Ye learn your song.
"Where are those starry woods? Oh, might I wander there,
Among the flowers which in that heavenly air
Bloom the year long."
"Nay, barren are those mountains and spent the streams.
Our song is the voice of desire that hants our dreams."
A throe of the heart
Whose pining visions dim, forbidden hope
No dying cadence nor long sigh can sound
For all our art.
"Alone aloof in the captured ear of men
We pour our dark nocturnal secret, and then,
From these sweet springing muses and burning blights of May,
Dream while the innumerable choir of day
Welcomes the dawn."
—Robert Bridges.

A Turkish Wedding.

An artistic mistress of the ceremonies, being congratulated on the success with which she had managed the details of an English wedding, remarked impatiently that there had been one blot on the scene—namely, the bridegroom. She only wished it could have been arranged for him and his black coat to remain outside in the brougham till the thing was over.

Had she received an invitation to a Turkish wedding, as once by good luck did a party of English ladies, among whom was the writer of the present sketch, her wish might have been gratified, as it is quite possible to attend such a function without even catching a passing glimpse of the crimson fez of the husband elect.

The latter spends the hours of his bridal day in getting married to himself—that is, he visits the priest and the notary, takes out and signs his marriage contract, attends a religious service at the mosque, partakes of a sumptuous breakfast with his friends, and as the ceremonies cover a considerable portion of the week it should not be surprised to hear that during the time he even goes on a wedding tour in solitude and on his own account.

SPLIT IN KELLY'S CAMP.

An Attempt is Being Made to Get Coxey Out of Jail—Two Montpelier Citizens Arrested for Assisting Dealers to Steal a Train are Discharged.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., May 30.—The entire day has been spent by the miners on Bull Hill, anxiously awaiting the arrival of governor Waite. The chief executive of the state spent from 5 o'clock a. m. to 3 p. m. in traveling from Florence to Victoria, a distance of twenty-four miles. On reaching Victor, his excellency was hastily put into an express wagon, the only vehicle that could be had, and transported to Blue Hill. Here he met the officers of the union in secret session. The word "secret" is used, because all day long it has been impossible for a newspaper man or a person not a member of the union to tarry in the vicinity of Blue Hill. In fact, he was permitted to reach the summit for longer time than five minutes. The governor was in the best of temper. It is understood, and he insisted that nothing like oratory should be practiced upon him and in consequence a statement of so-called facts were submitted to him. What the governor said in reply it is impossible to learn but it is given out as a fact that at the conclusion of the conference he was given full power to act in behalf of the miners with the mine owners.

Governor Waite left Victor over the Florence & Cripple Creek railroad tonight in company with President John Calderwood. It is understood that his excellency and the representatives of the miners' union are to have a conference with the mine owners at Colorado Springs some time tomorrow.

The galling gun ordered from Chicago is expected to arrive tomorrow.

150 MORE DEPUTIES.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 30.—At a meeting of prominent citizens today, it was resolved that the time for arbitration at Cripple Creek had passed and that the miners must lay down their arms and give the owners possession of the property. One day's sworn in by the sheriff, composed of leading citizens. One hundred of these are to serve as a home guard. Among the active deputies are such men as Percy Hager and Judge Harrison.

KELLY HAS A SPLIT.

St. Louis, May 30.—This being a holiday, thousands of people visited the camp of the commonwealers. "Commander" Kelly had planned to leave tomorrow, but will probably do so as a result of a split in the ranks, caused by dissensions of long standing.

Olonel Speed, of Sacramento, has succeeded in getting companies N, E. C. H. and D, representing the California contingent, to follow him and some other route than that taken by Kelly. The army left camp this evening, and after being joined by several local assemblies of the Knights of Labor, marched to Twelfth street in the vicinity of the Grant monument where an immense crowd had assembled.

Kelly and a number of labor leaders addressed the meeting after which they marched back to camp.

COXEYS IN BOISE.

BOISE, Ida., May 30.—Judge Beatty this morning discharged John O'Connor and Charles Haxey, two Montpelier citizens, who have been on trial for contempt for encouraging the Coxeyites to steal a train at Montpelier on May 14th. Dick Williams, Jake Love and Jack Westfall were remanded to jail pending the final argument. The trial of the Coxeyite case proper is now in progress.

ONLY ONCE LUCKY.

A Millionaire Tells How He Lost $37 When a Boy and Found It Again.

"What is the luckiest thing that ever happened to you?" somebody asked of the millionaire.

"Do you mean sheer, unadulterated luck, something that just happens without any seeking on your part?" replied the millionaire, throwing away a half smoked perfecto and taking another out of his case.

"Well, yes, let it go at that."

"I am generally accounted a very lucky man by the thousand and one people who know more about me than I do myself. But, on my honor, what I call a genuine piece of good luck happened to me only once in my life. It didn't amount to much, though it meant much to me at the time. It was when I was filling my first job—that of an errand boy at $3 a week—and I tell you I have never since felt so rich as when I carried home my first $3.

"I had been given a check to cash and a bill to pay. After paying the bill I had just $37 of my employer's money left. I had just crossed the roadway when, happening to look back, I saw two men fighting in the street. I was enough of a boy then to take a keen interest in anything like a 'scrap.' I retraced my steps to see what it was all about. To my amazement and surprise I discovered that the two men were fighting about the $37 and the receipted bill, which in some mysterious fashion had dropped out of my pocket. A policeman happening along at that moment, I was able to prove that I had a better right to the property in dispute than either of the two combatants and recovered it forthwith. They had each grabbed for it at the same time, and each was bound to get all or none—luckily for me. I have often speculated upon what might have happened if they hadn't quarreled. I should never have recovered the money, and in consequence I should certainly have lost my situation. That might have changed the whole current of my career, and instead of being a rich man I might today have been a poor devil, or I might have been twice as rich as I am. Who knows? Anyway I regard that as the most remarkable piece of good luck that ever befell me. But any Tom, Dick or Harry that you chance to meet will be able to tell you lots of luckier things that have happened to me—some of them things that I had worked at for years."—New York Herald.

Earthworms.

Darwin says in "The Formation of Vegetable Mold": "If a man had to plug up a small cylindrical hole with such objects as leaves, petals or twigs he would drag or push them in by their pointed ends, but if these objects were thin relatively to the size of the hole he would probably insert some by their thicker or broader end. The guide in his case would be intelligence." He then goes on to show reports of actual experiments that the method pursued by earthworms. Not only do they adapt the leaves of the trees of their own country to their needs, but the leaves of foreign trees are dealt with in a similar way. The following words of Mr. Darwin are remarkable: "If worms are able to judge, either before drawing or after having drawn an object close to the mouth of their burrows, how best to drag it in, they must acquire some notion of its general shape. This they probably acquire by touching it in many places with the anterior extremity of their bodies, which serves as a tactile organ."

"It may be well to remember how perfect the sense of touch becomes in a man
