That Tired Feeling

Means danger. It is a serious condition and will lead to disastrous results if it is not overcome at once. It is a sure sign that the blood is impoverished and impure. The best remedy is

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

Which makes rich, healthy blood, and thus gives strength and elasticity to the muscles, vigor to the brain and health and vitality to every part of the body. Hood's Sarsaparilla positively

Makes the Weak Strong

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for indigestion, that tired feeling and loss of appetite. I feel much better and stronger after taking it. I earnestly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I call it a great medicine." Mrs. C. E. BRANTFORD, 1318 Cambria St., Philadelphia, Pa.

THE CITY COUNCIL

Bridge and Weir Dam to be Constructed.

NEAR MOUTH OF CANYON

At Sharp's Point--County to Pay $1,025 and Bench Residents to Build Approach--Mayor Holbrook Recommends Further Reduction of Salaries of City Officers.

The city council met last evening, President Keeler presiding; Councilors Holdaway and Hoover were absent. A communication was received from Mayor Holbrook relating to water rates at the cemetery. He recommended the reduction of rates from $3.50 for full lots to $2.75; $2.50 for half lots to $1.75; $1.75 for quarter lots to $1.25, and that the distributing pipe line be removed from the main aisle to be the first 8-foot aisle south in order to make room for vehicles.

The mayor also recommended the amendment of the ordinance reducing salary of policemen to $50 a month and that of the marshal to $60 a month, the salary of chief of fire department from $30 to $15 a month; and that the ordinance be amended so that the offices of superintendent of waterworks and assessor and collector of water rates may be combined at the discretion of the council, at the salary of $60 a month. Referred to the committee of judiciary.

Ex-Sexton J. P. R. Johnson petitioned to have credit given him for a deficiency of $14.45, shown in his report to be due for fees uncollected, explaining that some of the parties had moved and that others would pay in labor. Petition granted, and the account ordered transferred to the present sexton.

A petition was presented from R. S. Hines, and many others to have bridge across mill race on seventh street extended south to the foot bridge. Temporarily laid on table to come up when the report from committee on streets and alleys was presented.

The committee on judiciary reported a graveling ordinance for districts 1, 2 and 3. Report accepted.

The committee on finance reported that the report of the treasurer and recorder had been examined and found correct. Report accepted.

The committee on streets and alleys reported in favor of instructing P. L. M. & B. company and Ward & Sons to make some improvements by way of bridges across the mill race on H street, and that the Provo Wooden Mills company and the Excelsior mill be instructed to build bridges across the race in the northern part of the city, and that other improvements be made by the city.

Councilor McEwan moved to refer the report to the committee on judiciary for the purpose of learning whether the companies could be compelled to make these improvements.

Councilor Halladay claimed that the companies who had the grants on the race were compelled under their grant to construct and keep bridges in repair and read from the city ordinances to that effect.

The committee had also received advice from the city attorney to the effect that the companies could be compelled to do this work.

Several members were opposed to the reference. Councilor McEwan replied that if the city attorney gave this opinion he would withdraw his motion. The report was recommitted for further investigation, as to cost of the work recommended to be done by the city, and the petition of R. S. Hines and others was taken from the table and referred to the same committee.

The committee on irrigation recommended the suggestion of Water Commissioner Booth to have a weir dam constructed in Provo river near the mouth of Provo canyon at Sharp's point be adopted. Plans and specifications were presented; the construction is estimated at from $2,081.02 to $3,084.84. The county court intended to build a bridge and had agreed to pay the city $1,025.00 to construct weir dam and bridge. The cost of weir dam and bridge built together was estimated at $2,463.75 to $2,767.25. The county court also turned over to the city about $300.00 worth of labor subscribed by citizens to be applied on road at each end of the bridge.

DRESSING LIKE WOMEN.

A Time When Feminine Styles Were Preferred by Men.

In point of fact, the early medieval man and woman looked as much alike as the fin de siècle wheelman and his bicycle girl. Take the king and queen in a pack of cards. They are early medieval. Notice the surprising similarity in their costumes--the same wide robes and angular folds, the same stained glass stiffness. Novices at cards may be excused for being at a loss sometimes, at least until they have learned to look for the king's head.

With the wane of the age of chivalry there came a singular exaggeration in the toilet of men. They deliberately imitated the women. They allowed their hair to grow long, cultivated curls by the hot irons and ointments and actually wore chaplets, like diadems, to curb their flowing locks. In the texture and color of their garments they showed the same effeminacy, for they began to affect brilliant reds and blues and to wear costly trimmings and jewelry.

This, too, was the age of the sighing, weeping lover, fainting at his mistress' feet. Every knight who could write or sing posed as a minstrel and rehearsed his love affairs. At every gathering of the nobility there was a childish prattle of love, cloying and monotonous for very sweetness. The sexes seemed to have changed places. It was the lover who was a shy wallflower, who blushed and went about woeful and woo worn from his secret passion.

As we look over the poems of the minstrel-singers, those bards of love, the lady seems always unapproachable, listening with contemptuous mien to the gentle man's gentle advances. While the encumbrance to nervous exhaustion she poses about her business perfectly healthy, either indifferent or cruelly conscious of her power.--W. D. McCracken in Lit Digest.

Hohenlohe's Peculiarities.

The New German Chancellor Always Cooks His Own Coffee.

Prince Hohenlohe, the new chancellor of the German empire, is cast in a different physical mold from his two stalwart predecessors. He is far from being so impressive in appearance as Bismarck or Caprivi. He looks more like the headmaster of a school in a middle sized town than like a statesman. Although of a more noble lineage than either of the ex-chancellors, he looks much less like the traditional aristocrat. His early life was, however, passed amid comparatively humble surroundings, and his birth helped him little. He practiced law until 1846, and, pitted against young men of the middle classes, never distinguished himself. In the year mentioned he succeeded to the dignity of schillingensfurst and took his place as a hereditary legislator in the Bavarian reichsrath.

The prince is remarkably active for a man of his age. His excellent health he attributes to the facts that he spends as much time as possible in the open air--especially in the hunting field--and cooks his own coffee. Coffee he considers the principal cause of a meal, although he likes good things to eat and employs one of the best cooks in Germany. When in his palace at Strassburg, he always prepared his own coffee. Even when he travels he carries the coffee machine with him and uses it to make his favorite beverage at least three times a day.

In the course of years he has become an expert, and few cooks can equal his brew. His guests flatter him on his art, as a matter of course, and there is no better way to reach his heart than by eulogy of his coffee. Like many other men who have no completed considerable in this life and love praise and their hobbies, he would rather hear praise for his "drink which comforteth the brain and heart"--to use the language of Bacon--than for his political wisdom.--Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

The slab to cover the grave of Robert Browning in Westminster abbey has just been completed in Venice. It is of the oriental porphyry of which the poet was particularly fond. It has been put into a frame of Sienna marble, and the whole, though rich, is of the greatest simplicity. The inscription will consist only of the name and the dates of birth and death, with an English rose at the head and a Florentine lily below.

Miss Annie H. Wharton and Miss Annie H. Wharton, have adopted historical research as a profession and have formed a bureau of ancestral research. Miss Wharton is the historian of the Colonial Dames and author of "Through Colonial Doorways" and other works bearing upon the same period. She and Miss Cresson are specially expert in seeking out and arranging ancestral records in the Historical society documents and other archives.

Good Advice to Farmers. It is a well established fact that farmers who sold their potatoe crop last season through the Utah County Fruit & Agricultural society got from $10.00 to $20.00 more for each carload than those who sold otherwise. Be sure and see us this season before you sell. Do not contract your potatoe crop unless the party contracting same pays down at the time the agreement is made at least ten cents per bushel. Call on us and we will tell you why. U. C. F. & A. SOCIETY, F. J. GOVEY, Secretary and Manager.
