NEW CURE OF DIPHTHERIA

European Hospitals Practising a Method of Blood Inoculation. So many thousands of children are annually carried off by diphtheria, the sufferings caused by the disease are so agonizing and the remedies hitherto so inadequate that the news of the introduction into the Berlin and London hospitals of a new and efficacious cure for this fell malady cannot be regarded otherwise than as a matter of public interest.

Very little has been heard about this remedy, owing to the fact that the distinguished bacteriologists engaged in its discovery have been unwilling to subject themselves to the same disadvantage as Dr. Koch, whose cure for consumption has been unjustly prohibited that love of plastic art of which his father was also a professor of anatomy and before it was ready for medical application. The new cure, briefly speaking, is one of inoculation, with this difference—that, instead of injecting the poison into the system of the patient, one injects the blood of an animal which has been inoculated with a weak culture of the diphtheria bacillus, the virus of the latter being, however, so weak a character that it does not affect the animal with the malady, but merely renders it immune thereto.

Repeated experiments made of late have shown that a few drops of blood from a horse or any other animal thus rendered immune injected into a human being suffering from diphtheria are sufficient to arrest and cure the disease. Of course it is too soon as yet to quote the statistics of the few hundreds of cures which have been effected in Berlin and London by this treatment, which is to be fully discussed in all the complicated scientific aspects at the forthcoming international congress of hygiene in September at Budapest. But whatever the ultimate result of its application, it has at least one advantage over all other forms of inoculation hitherto discovered—namely, that the matter injected into the system of the patient is free from poison and consequently harmless.—New York Times

Chaired by a Snake. Snakes reveal a good deal on their reptilian character. They seem to regard all animals so they become helpless. We all know this to be a fact. And then when they get in a tight place with a man they try to run a bluff on him. A lawyer in our town once met a rattlesnake down in the Ozarks and began to experiment, or rather to let the snake experiment, to see if there was anything in the snake charming theory. He said that the snake's eyes got brighter and brighter, and his body seemed to swell up a little thicker, and the whole outfit became so engrossing that he finally ran away from the snake in a dead scare and didn't get over it for a good while after. He told me that it was his belief that if he had kept company with that snake much longer he would have lost his wits.—Frost and Stream.

Of the action of certain members on the Massachusetts legislature in forming themselves into a committee to canvass the home against woman suffrage, the Springfield Republican says: This procedure is disagreeable, no doubt, but woman suffragists must not mistake about its nature—it is simply politics. It does not involve moral turpitude.

Ballard's Snow Liment. This wonderful Liment is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Lakes to the Gulf. It is the most penetrating Liment in the world. It will cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Cuts, Sprains, Bruises, Wounds, Old Sores, Burns, Scalds, Sore Throat, Croup, and all Inflammation, after all others have failed. It will cure Barbed Wire Cuts, and heal all wounds where proud flesh has set in. It is equally effective for animals. Try it and you will not be without it. Price 50 cents. Sold by Smart Drug Company.

Quotation Marks. "Quotation marks are not infrequently misused in signs," said a stroller, "the marks being placed about names, as, for instance, the name of a place, or about some one's distinctive phrase in a sign, though the word or the phrase may really not be a quotation at all, but I am never surprised at any misuse of quotation marks, for I cannot forget a very singular idea concerning them that I had myself in my earlier days. I used to think that single quotation marks about anything meant that the words enclosed were sort of partly quoted, more or less, whatever that may mean. Perhaps that isn't a very distinct statement, but I remember well that that quotation mark were not signs to be used at the fancy of the writer, but might properly be used only to indicate actual quotations."—New York Sun.

Witness the factious instructions of Governor Calver to Colonel Price to bring certain articles to Fort St. Inigo's for the use of the soldiers: "And upon motion of seek the said governor bids him bring sack, if he found any." In the early records of the province there is more sack than Falstaff's drawer ever scored. The colonial gentry dispensed excellent spirits at funerals and dined the sack cup at christenings, and they affected signet rings with their leather breeches and boot hose. Cattle stealing was not in fashion. Only a sheriff of Kent was once charged with that offense, while a governor of Virginia was convicted. Neither was there ever an execution for witchcraft in the province of Maryland.

A new wrinkle in designs is the "Telly" wrist, which is trimmed with close bands, laid over the fullness of a plaited or gathered bodice. Trilly herself wore only two of these decorations, which crossed in front, and this adherence to the model is absolute, other forms of trimming filling up deficiencies and making the crossed bands appear like decoration.—New York Advertiser

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by restorative treatment of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed the deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh; which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

MARY THORNYCROFT, THE ARTIST MOTHER OF ARTISTS.

High Praise For Mrs. Donlap Hopkins. All Women Love Irish Point Lace.—The Fashionable Wrap.—The Vanishing Work-bags.—Hints to Mothers.

Born at Thorham in Norfolk in 1814, the venerable widow of the late Thomas Thornycroft, sculptor, who passed from among us on the 1st of February, leaves behind her the sweet savor of a life of talent and industry, coupled with the warm regard of all her friends. Daughter of John Francis, who died in 1861 at the same age as his daughter, Mrs. Thornycroft early exhibited that love of plastic art of which her father was also a professor of anatomy. There is one of his works in the National Portrait gallery—a bust of the Duke of Wellington—that is a fair example of the skill that found its author sitters among more than one crowned head and many of the most distinguished persons of his time. Working in her father's studio, with the gentleman as a fellow pupil who subsequently became her husband, the young lady made rapid progress in her profession and soon commenced exhibiting busts and other works at the Royal academy, where she continued to be represented for many years. Leaving Norfolk for the metrop-

Mrs. Mary Thornycroft, who married Mr. Thornycroft and went with her husband to Rome, where her earnestly enthusiastic nature was more than gratified with the splendid ideals of ancient art. There also she met with Thorwaldsen and Gibson, who were struck with admiration at the talent her work exhibited. Subsequently Gibson, when asked by the queen to model some of the royal children, responded by recommending Mrs. Thornycroft as being even better able to do justice to the task than himself.

This led to a series of commissions from her majesty and the prince consort, the results of which are to be seen at Windsor, Osborne and Buckingham palace. It is scarcely necessary to enumerate more than a few of Mrs. Thornycroft's very numerous works. In 1844 she had in the Royal academy a marble bust of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales. In 1859 she exhibited likeness of the Hon. Miss Stanhope and Lord Clan naire, and in the next year her majesty the queen and of H. R. H. the Duchess of Gloucester, then in her seventy-seventh year, and in 1855 of Viscount Petrossham.

Mrs. Thornycroft's two sons, John Isaac Thornycroft and Hamo W. Thornycroft, R. A., are distinguished in their vocations. The former is known throughout Europe as a highly scientific constructor of torpedo boats, while as to the latter he is our great sculptor, and will undertake to say there is not an artist among us who is not proud of him. And in order that the artistic faculty may not be wholly limited to the male sex at least one of the daughters, Miss Helen Thornycroft, who has just been elected vice president of the Society of Lady Artists, has long been in the first rank both as a flower and landscape painter.—London Globe.

the Fashionable Wrap.

When Dame Fashion announced that very large hats and full sleeves would be worn, it was a foregone conclusion that caps would remain in favor. writes Isabel A. Mallon in an exquisite illustrated article on "The Early Spring Wraps" in The Ladies' Home Journal. All women who have experienced the difficulty of getting a full bodice sleeve into even a full coat sleeve will be glad to hear that the vogue this spring is given to the cape, which is so easy of assumption and so many in its styles. Sometimes it is nothing more than a full collar reaching to the shoulders, while again it comes to the waist or below it. Velvet alone, velvet and cloth, cloth and satin or crepon are the materials favored for the spring capes.

Trimnings are almost invariably beads, ribbons or laces. The average woman is apt to think that jet trimmings are expensive. Of course this is so if they are purchased with the heavy cut pendants or elaborate spangles attached to them. But if a simple trimming is bought, and one is industrious enough to sew more beads on it to spangle it heavily and to form out of single beads the pendants, a rich trimming may be obtained at the expense of a little time, a little money and a little patience.

FRAGRANT VANITY FAIR CIGARETTES. THE AMERICAN WIFE OF THE FAMOUS ENGLISH STORY WRITER.

FRAGRANT VANITY FAIR CIGARETTES. THE AMERICAN WIFE OF THE FAMOUS ENGLISH STORY WRITER. This Year's Showpiece—The Wedding Gown. Dr. Parkhurst on "The New Woman." The Lark in Wall Paper—Nellie Bly. Council of Jewish Women.

Mrs. Rudyard Kipling is a slender little woman with soft brown eyes, dark hair and a very sweet expression. She is not "a new woman" and does not care for any society except that of her household, and she and her husband are so congenial in tastes and ideas that they live all the year around in a little farmhouse 15 miles from Brattleboro, Vt., and never even think of being abroad. It seems curious that such a bit-for American later as Kipling should have an American wife and a home in the heart of Yankeeedom, but he seems perfectly contented with both. Mrs. Kipling was Miss Carolyn Balesier, with whose brother, the late Wolcott Balestier, Mr. Kipling collaborated for several years. The third member of the family is Miss Josephine Kipling, who was 2 years old last New Year's day, and from the stories one hears of her must be so precocious as that typical American child whom Papa Kipling lately declared in bitterness of heart: "Boo-hoo! My papa tells lots of stories and gets money for 'em, and I tell one little woe story and got spanked Boo-hoo!"

Female Gold Hunters. Misses Anna K. Welds, Eugenia Armstrong and Maggie Farrelly of Ellensburg, Wash., left Tacoma March 31 to seek their fortunes in the goldfields of Alaska. These young women, who have been schoolteachers, have in their outfit a small sailboat, in which they will make the trip up the Yukon river to Forty Mile creek, a distance of over 1,700 miles. Miss Farrelly's father has been in the goldfields of Fortye Mile creek more than a year and sent for his daughter. The other girls were eager to seek wealth and so joined her.

AN IMPORTANT OFFICE. To properly fill its office and functions, it is important that the blood be pure. When it is in such a condition the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs bring on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood, removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this, but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme.
