RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Life is like a folded flower. And what it holds we know not
Till unwinding lear by leaf,
It shows God's secret hidden in its fols:
And bears its fragrant heart to visions brief, For when its beauty and significance.
Upon our earth dull senses break at last,
Back to its dust the flower turns
'Ere, perchance we have learned its meaning;
Life is past.

In the infinite wisdom of our beneficient Father, the Keeper of our souls has seen fit to call upon our beloved brother and councilor Thomas S. Roylance, to mourn the loss of his beloved young wife Goldfo. By such loss he is deprived of a loving companion, a faith is wife and a pillar of strength. Your brethren of the Council No. 428 deeply mourn with you in this great trial and your sad berea venient and say unto you, cheer up, for it is not within our power to restore to you your loss, but remind you of the fact that in the midst of life there is death. And as the poet has said:

There is no flock, however well protected, But some dead lamb is there: There is no fireside, however well guarded, But what has its vacant chair.

Now, dear brother, cheer up and look on the bright side of life. You have the good will and fellowship of all your brothers. Life is bright before you. And in your hours of meditation and thought think of these words:

The one remains, the many changes and pass; Heaven's light forever shines Earth's shadows fly, Life, like a dome of many colored glass, Stains the white radiance of eternity, Until death tramples it in fragments.

Here the poet leaves it like a broken vase. It was as far as his eyes could see. But the God who gave life to the poet and every living thing will again gather up the broken fragaments and remold them into a vessel of honor, a fitting resceptacie for the immortal flower that once filled it and was only transplanted for a season to paradise, and now restore the self same flower in the self same vase to bloom therein beauty and shed forth its fragrance torever. This is life. This is

BE IT RESOLVED, that a copy of these resolutions of respect be spread upon the minutes of our council and a copy be sent to our beloved brother.

Louis James the Favorite of Provo Gives Great Educational Play next Tuesday-First Time Masterpiece Ever Played in the West.

Louis James in "Peer Gynt" quisitely performs the task of tracing the development of a character from adolescence to the grave, in a manner eminently befitting the high reputation he possesses as the most cersatile actor in America.

It was Bernard Shaw that said of this protean character that to have it properly played "It required the greatest tragic, comie and character actor in the tworld" " and while Mr. James does not lay claim to the "The" he is certainly "One of the" greatest netors in the world.

The career of "Peer" begins as a pensant lad of the time when pensal unts wore costomes. He mingles Special excursion via San Pedro riotously in a rustic wedding foast, carries off the bride to the mountains, deserts her to clope with the Troll King's daughter, the two riding double across the stage on the back of a wild bear for a steed. Ontlawed for his sies by persunts and trolls alike, he flees to America and becomes a slave-trading merchant, in a suit of white flannel and Yachting shoes, who eruless in a yacht on the Mediterranean, and serves his guests with champague and cigars; Stranded in Africa he becomes a prophet of the desire in gown and turbar, and makes love to a damning: girl. Returning home in abtanced at a care be soffers shipwreek, and hen I had dingy frock cost of the modern world appears again among his own folk, themselves garbed in modernity. Such is the wonderfully interesting character study that Mr. lames will offer here Tuesday night, Nov. 17, when he will appear at the Provo opera bonse.

"A Cowboy's Girl," which comes to the opera house Nov. 14, is one of the greatest plays of modern; times, a play designed to meet the popular taste for pure unalloyed pleasure. A new story of the plains, A play that goes right down into the bamp of all, a play that you take home with you, a play that lasts forever, that you never forget. A play that causes real genuine pleasure to all.
