

Two Valentines.

When the Arizona papers announced that John Trimble, of 234 South Broadway, this city, had been fortunate enough to draw a tenth share in the $50,000 prize of the Louisiana State Lottery, it was not generally believed, but this name John Trimble is probably to-day the most coveted name in Arizona, for he has in the bank the snug little sum of $4,995, the profits of his investment in the lottery. The remaining $5,005 went for expenses. Mr. Trimble was seen by an Express reporter and acknowledged that he had received a check for the above amount, and stated that it was his intention to use the money in his new business, he having lately purchased the eat store business of Isaac Edwards in this city.

The lucky ticket which drew the $50,000 prize was number 78,185. Mr. Trimble had a tenth interest in this ticket for which he paid one dollar. He took his good luck very coolly and philosophically. This is not the first time that he has patronized the lottery, but although he has never before drawn a very large amount, he claims that what he received before his big haul paid back all the tickets had cost him.

George C. Osgood & Co., druggists, Lowell, Mass., write to the undersigned as follows: "Mr. Lewis Dennis, No. 130 Moody street wishes to recommend St. Jacobs Oil, and desires especially to say that: "Ours, Roxbury, of Granville, Mass., a boy of 12 years, came to his home in the summer of 1887, walking on crutches, his legs being bent, and could not get over two feet, and could not be bent back. Mr. Dennis had some St. Jacobs Oil in the house, and gave it to him to rub on his knees. Six days he had no use for his crutches, and in a week he was well, without them, as he has been ever since."

Serravallo and Convolutive Testimony. Lowell, Mass., July 8, 1887.—Gentlemen: Mr. Lewis Dennis has just called upon me and informs me that the boy Orin R. Robinson was a poor cripple on crutches, and was cured by St. Jacobs Oil in 1881; the cure has remained permanent. The young man has been and is now at work at manual labor. The case certainly proves the efficacy of St. Jacobs Oil.—Dr. Geo. C. Osgood, M.D.

AMERICAN FLOUR MILLS.

They are decreasing in number while increasing in capacity. The following table, compiled from Cawker's American Flour Mill and Grain Elevator Directory, shows the number of flour mills in the United States at the beginning of the year 1888. Although it shows a decrease of about 900 mills in the country, or approximately 13,817 as compared with 16,722 at the beginning of 1886, a close perusal of the directory shows an increase of capacity as compared with 1886. Comparison shows a numerical increase of mills in Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Dakota, Florida, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon, South Carolina, Utah, Washington Territory and Wyoming. In the other twenty-eight states and territories numerical decrease is shown. The figures for Canada show a small decrease compared with the figures given two years ago. The work which has been compiled by Col. E. Harrison Cawker, editor of the United States Miller, from reliable sources of information, contains the names and post-office addresses of the flour mill owners in the United States and Canada. Following is the table:

Table with columns: Location, 1886, 1888, Inc. Dec. It lists flour mills in various states and territories, showing a general decrease in the number of mills but an increase in capacity.

At this juncture the Coroner desired to show to the jury the course taken by the ball, and for this purpose produced the coroner worn by Mrs. Burkhardt at the time of the tragedy. "You see," said he—and he drew the coroner under his waist with the lace in front—"the ball must have gone in here from behind. No, that can't be, either, for the doctor says the ball went in front. Confound it, I've got it on wrong. Ah! this way." (Here the Coroner put the coroner on upside down.) "Now you see," pointing to the hole in the garment, which rested over his hip, "the ball must have gone in here. No, that can't be, either, for—"

Here Mr. Mather, the handsome man on the jury, broke in. "Dr. Stillman," he said, "you've got the coroner on wrong." "Here, Dr. Stillman blushed like a pearly opal," said he, "I've been married twice and I ought to know how to rig a coroner." "Yes," said Mr. Mather, "but you don't. You had it right in the first place. The strings go in front, and the ladies clasp them together at the back. Don't you know? I think I ought to. I've been married. If you doubt it look here." (Pointing to the fullness at the top.) "How do you suppose that's going to be filled up unless you put it on as I suggest?" "That?" said Dr. Stillman, "why, that goes over the hips. No, it doesn't," said Mr. Mather; "that fullness goes somewhere else—this way," and here Mr. Mather indicated where he thought the fullness ought to go.

Here another jurymen discovered that Dr. Stillman had the coroner buttoned side up. "Doctor, said he, 'put it on the other way.'"

Then the doctor put it on in reverse order, with the laces in front. This brought the bullet holes directly over the tails of his coat.

"I don't think said Mr. Mather, 'that the bullet went in there, Doctor.'"

"I don't think it did," was the reply. "Confound it, it's mighty funny—six married men in this room and not one that knows how to put on a woman's coroner."—Toronto Globe.

Prettiest of Parisian Models. The prettiest model in Paris to-day is Alice Van—, daughter of a Belgian violinist, who died when she was about fourteen, and left her father a fortune of $100,000. The electric kite is the latest form of amusement in the highest circles of the east. The lady and gentleman shuffle about on the carpet until they are charged with electricity, when they walk in the dark and make the sparks fly for the entertainment of the on-lookers. It is said the shock is very delightful under these circumstances. It is a fact that can not have a very long run, however. After a young lady has practiced it a while it will be almost impossible to shock her.—Chicago Times.

New Jersey has the crank of the century, a Prohibition crank, to whom a monument, representing a big bottle with a cork, should be erected, even while he yet lives, and when he has a being. He has introduced a bill in the Assembly to prohibit any man from growing any crop from which any intoxicants can be made. With such a bill as a law the Jersey apple and peach and cherry trees would have to be cut down as cumberstoes of the ground, all strawberry plants, and all berry bushes of any description rooted out, all corn and wheat and barley and rye fields laid waste. The denizens of the Jersey-lighting State would thus be compelled to resort to the champagne diet, and let their neighbors live on wind as well.—Vincennes Times.

Teach Your Children the Proper Use of Money. Many parents permit their children to spend for candy or toys every cent that is given them. Others are continually instructing their children to save all their pennies. In either case the parents evince a deplorable ignorance of the true uses of money; namely, spending with discretion, saving, and giving. Even very young children can be taught, to a certain extent, the real value and best use of money. Wise parents will ever strive to impress upon their children the necessity of forming prudent habits; of spending money to advantage so that some article of utility or value is always obtained for it; the duty of exercising systematic and judicious charity; and that the purest happiness that can be experienced upon earth springs from the practice of benevolence.

We have in mind a little one who, like most children, lost no time in visiting the candy or toy store after he received a penny. If his parents had allowed him to continue in this habit he might have grown up a spendthrift. By judicious training, however, this tendency was checked, and he was made early to understand the most judicious ways of using his money. The possession of a bank book aroused his business instincts and made him ambitious to add to his little capital from time to time. At the same time he was encouraged to occasionally buy a toy of the kind best calculated to furnish occupation or amusement for a considerable length of time. He always remembered "the poor children" in his prayers, so strongly were his sympathies excited in their behalf, and unlike too many adults, his sympathy did not begin and end in prayers.—American Agriculturist.

The Best of Them All. An English general in reviewing a corps of cavalry suddenly stopped before a splendid-looking fellow, and asked abruptly: "Which is the best horse in the regiment?" "No. 40, sir."

"What makes you think it is the best horse?" "He walks, trots, and gallops well; is a good jumper; has no vice, no blemish; carries his head well; is in his prime."

"And who is the best soldier in the regiment?" "Tom Jones, sir."

"Why?" "Because he is an honorable man, is obedient, tidy, takes good care of his equipment and horse, and does his duty well."

"And who is the rider of the best horse?" "Tom Jones, sir."

"And who is Tom Jones?" "I am, sir."

The general could not help laughing, but he gave a sovereign to his informant, who received it without moving a muscle.—John Bull's Army.

Makes the Weak Strong

If you feel tired, weak, worn out, or run down from hard work, or if impoverished condition of the blood or low state of the system, you don't take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The peculiar tonic, purifying and vitalizing qualities of this medicinal preparation, will restore the entire system, expel disease, and give quick relief to every organ. It tones the stomach, clears the appetite, and causes the liver and kidneys to perform their duty. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla to make me feel like a new man. I was so weak and run down that I could not do any work. I have now a good appetite, and my health is excellent compared to what it was before. I have not had a headache since I began to use it. I have also had a good sleep, and my mind is clear and active. I am now in the best of health, and I am able to do all the work that I wish to do. I am now in the best of health, and I am able to do all the work that I wish to do.

Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla to make me feel like a new man. I was so weak and run down that I could not do any work. I have now a good appetite, and my health is excellent compared to what it was before. I have not had a headache since I began to use it.
