

EXPENSE OF RUNNING FOR OFFICE.

It is generally conceded that under the provisions of the blessed primary law which now prevails in Idaho, no poor man can hope to succeed to a state office, and particular the office of governor. Strength is given to this impression by the fact that while there are numerous worthy citizens who would like to run for governor, and who have all the necessary qualifications to fill the position with dignity and ability, there are only three candidates and these rank among the wealthiest men in the state. They can afford to make up the campaign, while the others, in every respect as capable and deserving, cannot afford it even if election was a certainty, because the salary of governor does not justify the outlay. Discussing this phase of the recent election in Boston, an exchange says: "A candidate for the mayor's office reported, as election expenses are paid by himself over $100,000. There has been no hint of bribery of any kind in the spending of the money. The candidate could afford to pay a high price for the privilege of serving his fellow citizens. His character is good, his reputation unblemished; but the fact remains that after spending more than $100,000 he was not elected to office. The fact also remains that the common opinion is emphasized, and illustrated in this case, that no poor man need apply for office and that men will be put forward as candidates in vain unless they are willing to pay a high price for the luxury of good government. Now for the relief of candidates and to give everybody a square deal and a fair show, why is it not desirable to make the payment of money by a candidate a penal offense? There are a few, but not many, legitimate electioneering expenses. Most of the money expended by rival parties would do the public quite as much good if it were dropped into a manhole in the nearest sewer. Most of it goes, in many cases, into moral sewers where it breeds corruption."—Wallace Press.

The postal savings bank bill went through the senate by more than two to one. Senator Aldrich kept his word with the President. Now would it have been wise for the President to follow the advice of a lot of people and "fight Aldrich?" Or does the country want results in the adoption of the Taft-Roosevelt policies?
