JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY'S LATEST POEM.

It came about in this way: At a Chautauque luncheon at Mrs. J. H. Lowell's in Roswell a lady said: "What is the date of the death of James Whitcomb Riley? I can't find it." Someone answered "He is living"—others took sides and Mrs. Lowell suggested that a vote be taken and added "the losers must give a feed to the winners." When the votes were recorded—behold! There were just ten on each side. Then began the search for evidence. But those who believed him dead were hard to convince. At last Mrs. Mary D. Rockwood, with characteristic enterprise, wrote to James Whitcomb Riley himself, explaining the situation, and begging for the desired proof that he is still in the land of the living. The following is his reply:

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.

Dear Friends:

I'm not a-workin' now!—
I'm jes a-hayin' round—
A-lettin' other people plow—
I'm cumberin' the ground!—

I jes don't keer!—I've done my sheer O' sweatin'! Anyhow,
In this dad-blasted weather here,
I'm not a-workin' now!

Faithfully yours,
JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

To Mrs. Mary D. Rockwood, Roswell, Idaho.

The winners are uncommonly jubilant as it happens that the losers are considered the literary lights of Roswell and they are not likely to be on the wrong side again. The banquet will be given Thursday at one o'clock with Miss Ella Kallman, hostess, at the John Steele home in Roswell Park.

Few, indeed. Few married couples are "too proud to fight."

THE LATEST COMBINATION.

For the past season lingerie has been cut with full, slouchy effects. This is the newest design to meet the needs of the fitted in waist, the trimmer figure. Fashioned of sheer tulle, this handmade garment has tucking, dashes of embroidery, ribbon and val insertion as trimming. The woman of nimble fingers can use this excellent cut for a more durable material, like finest quality of longcloth, dimity or a good quality of crepe de chine either white or flesh color. Indeed, experts say that this latter material, carefully laundered, outlasts cotton.

A CORRECT JUVENILE.

Another redingote back is featured in this modish design of midnight blue broadcloth. Black silk soutache is effectively used to give pannier effects on the hips. The smart vest of blue and green duvetyin plaid, buttoning snugly at the waist line and merging into a high, slightly rolled collar, is the distinct feature. Sought richly braids the front, and the skirt has a boxed hem.
