THE CALDWELL TRIBUNE, OCTOBER 20, 1916.

WEEKLY, $2.00 PER YEAR

D. W. DAVIS TO SPEAK IN CALDWELL SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Hon. D. W. Davis, Republican nominee for governor, will speak at the Huree Theatre Saturday afternoon. The address will be delivered promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Davis is a forceful speaker and he has many things of interest to say to the people of Caldwell and surrounding country. The general public is urged to attend this meeting. The issues of the campaign will be discussed honestly, fearlessly and intelligently.

An especial invitation is extended to the women. The women of Idaho are voters and they should attend political meetings as well as vote. The women in other states are claiming the right of suffrage, and the women of this state should show that women are worthy of the right by their active participation in political affairs.

Mr. Davis has held big meetings in every part of the state. He will be the next governor of Idaho and every voter should know exactly where he stands and why.

Remember Saturday afternoon at the Huree Theatre.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

A very remarkable revival meeting has recently closed in our neighboring town of Notus. Over 100 persons were converted, many of whom are men of prominence. These men are anxious to tell other men of the great change they have experienced. For this purpose, the First Baptist church will be open to them next Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. They will also sing. Business men are invited to hear business men tell in a business-like way what religion has done for them. At this meeting a large number of the converts from these special meetings held at Notus will be baptized.

At the usual hour of the morning worship next Sunday morning, the pastor will preach the first of a series of sermons on "The Life of Faith." Everyone is asked to be present as no doubt the pastor will have something both interesting as well as instructive to say. You are invited, so come. Bible school at 10:30 o'clock. Every scholar is asked to be in place at the time the last bell stops ringing. The teachers are asked to come a little early so as to set the example for those who are sitting under their teaching. The young men's class is inviting every young man of the city without a church home to come out and meet with them. Remember the hour of meeting, 10:30 o'clock.

Young people's society at 6:30. We have a fine society now and are anxious that everyone know about it. We do not care to keep it to ourselves any longer and are thus out to a membership campaign. This is to invite all young people to come and meet with us. You will be made welcome.

Prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Everyone is asked to be present.

F. E. DARK, Minister.

A Fish Story From Headquarters

A three days' fish story of unusual proportions and unquestioned authenticity was enacted early this week out at the big artificial lake on Deer Flat. The big headgate was shut down cutting off the water from the main canal and leaving multitudes of the finny tribe stranded in the mud or struggling for life in pools large and small.

In order to save the game fish which would otherwise perish, Deputy Game Warden and a corps of assistants were on hand to rescue the desirable in size and variety, these to be re-planted in other waters. Some will be back into the Lower Boise, some into the Snake river, others to various sloughs throughout the valley. Some will be turned loose in small streams in Jordan Valley and the real tris-tracrats will find quarters suited to their superior needs in the Payette lakes.

Men from the U. S. R. S. camps and local sportsmen together with farmers in the Deer Flat section cooperated with the game warden in making the big catch which means much for the future of the finny tribe in this section, since the number captured alive has been variously estimated between one and two million. Containers and seines were furnished by the game department, thus facilitating the work. Monday and Tuesday were put in at the lower outlet, while the upper dam was the scene of operations on Wednesday. Crowds from Caldwell, Nampa and Boise watched and assisted in the conservation process, and the few who have not enjoyed a meal or two of fish this week must have been either sick or had not the means or the price of transportation to the reservoir. Only the perch and the bass were saved, some of the largest of the latter making a spectacular dash for liberty in deeper water.

The water was turned into the canal again this—Thursday—morning to aid in some construction work. When this is completed, it will be turned in again for a time. Another saving of fish will be effected with this final shutting off of the water.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schnabel and little son leave Saturday for Mitchellville, Iowa, where they expect to spend the winter. The trip is for the special benefit of Schnabel Jr., who insists on visiting his grandmother.

W. C. Bicknell was transacting business in Payette Saturday of last week.

Library Work Progressing

The work of cataloguing the books at the Carnegie Library is progressing nicely under the efficient management of Miss Ellinwood who has been directing and assisting in this work for the past few weeks. Classification of the books is practically completed and the work of listing in alphabetic order will next be taken up.

A new catalogue case has been ordered and is expected any day. The task of cataloguing is a tedious one and requires the services of an expert, a role which Miss Ellinwood fills to a nicety. When the work is completed, our library will be up to standard and a joy to those who frequent this literary stronghold.

Pantorium Changes Hands

This week the Pantorium, heretofore operated by H. R. Hammond, was purchased by Harold Hoobler, formerly of Meridian and Baker City. Mr. Hoobler will remodel the Pantorium and install the most modern equipment such as is used in the more progressive shops of this kind, and assures the people of Caldwell that he is in position to give them the best possible service in the way of tailoring, cleaning and pressing.

Mr. Hoobler has had years of experience in this line and with his advanced equipment, including auto delivery, will prove a valuable addition to the business institutions of the city.

Methodist Church

The pastor will preach Sunday morning on "The Leaven." In the evening he will preach on the topic "For Better or for Worse," an address to young people.

The Rally Day program was a decided success both morning and evening. Graduates from both the cradle roll and primary departments received their diplomas in the morning. The intermediate department was represented by Earl Elhart, Philip Paine and Ada Lee in the evening and Dr. Boone, of the College of Idaho, gave an address on Pioneers of the Northwest, which was highly appreciated.

Mrs. R. W. Oakes, who is now in Spokane in attendance at the Northwest Branch of the W. F. M. S., has been elected a delegate to the general executive meeting at Minneapolis, which meets next month. This is an honor deserved by her and appreciated by the Caldwell church.

Mid-week meeting Thursday night at 7:30.

Minister in Toils

Rev. B. W. Rice is serving an indeterminate sentence in Canyon hospital, sentence having been pronounced by a reputable medical authority on Monday and transfer to the institution being effected the same day. Rheumatism in the thirty-third degree with all possible variations was the charge, which was not denied by the accused who is suffering the penalty of an offense the precise nature of which has not yet been determined, but the doubt results of which are not to be doubted. The sentence imposed included a solitary confinement clause which excludes from his presence for a week all save his wife and son. Rev. Rice's many friends will be glad as he when this part of the order is rescinded and still more rejoiced when he is again able to go about his regular duties.

Fire at Fair Grounds

A fire of unknown origin wiced out the grand stand, the bleachers on the east, the judge's stand, and a number of the barns last Sunday afternoon at the Idaho State Fair grounds. The blaze evidently started in the straw used to lay the dust on the grounds during the fair in the present month. The unwise placing of fire hydrants in that vicinity together with a stiff breeze made it impossible for the fire department to control the blaze.

The loss is estimated at about $3500 and the insurance figures up in the neighborhood of $700 or $800. President Holt states that the Fair association was never in better condition financially, and though the loss is regrettable, it will in no way interfere with next year's fair.

Winner-Harding

A pretty home wedding was solemnized on Thursday evening of last week at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Wisner, when their daughter, Miss Pauline was united in marriage with Mr. Floyd Harding of Denver. The ceremony was performed at 6:30 by Rev. J. G. Cowden. The bride has many friends in Caldwell, the result of a ten years' residence and a capacity for friendliness. The groom is a young business man of Denver. Mr. and Mrs. Harding leave for Colorado's metropolis in about a week.

Births of Record

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lind of Caldwell, and to Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Turner of Greenleaf, October 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Crane are rejoicing over the advent of a son and girl October 13th, and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Salisbury were on the reception committee for a small daughter on the 16th.

A girl baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hanan south of the city, October 11th.

Card of Thanks

To the many friends who so kindly aided us in our time of great sorrow, we wish to extend our most heartfelt gratitude.

MR. and MRS. J. L. MAGEE.

Mrs. Jas. Harris and son, Tom, returned Tuesday from Portland where they were called a few weeks ago by the death of Mrs. Harris' father, Mr. Roberts.

Geo. Everett was over from Nampa Wednesday attending to business.

NAMPA DOCTORS HOLD ROSS IN RESPECT AND ESTEEM

Nampa, Idaho, October 16, 1916. Mr. Jno. Davis, Editor Caldwell Tribune, Caldwell, Idaho.

Dear Sir:—We notice in your paper of October 6, 1916, that you give considerable space to the case of E. V. Huntzberry, who was adjudged insane in the probate court of Canyon county by a board of physicians of which Dr. H. P. Ross of our city was a member. We notice that in editorial comment and otherwise you, possibly unintentionally, give the impression to your readers that the physicians in question were instructed in advance and lent their services to defeat the ends of justice. The true physician is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, factor in the prevention of moral as well as physical ills.

From our personal acquaintance with Dr. Ross who has practiced his profession in this community for about 12 years, we as physicians know him to be a true physician—a man of moral integrity—one whom we believe could not be persuaded to lend himself or sell himself to anything not in keeping with his judgment of the facts, and whose professional ability is well and very favorably known to us and whose judgment in a case of this kind we are quite willing to accept.

We certainly commend your righteous indignation at such terrible crimes and your efforts to bring the offender to justice but we positively condemn your unjust accusations against our fellow physician, and through him the medical fraternity of this city.

We feel that perhaps, in your zeal to bring an offender to justice, you have made these statements without due consideration of the accusation implied or the injury done to innocent and well meaning citizens.

You say that E. V. Huntzberry is accused of a heinous crime against nature. We believe that our great effort should be toward the prevention of such damnable practice in the future. Hence it is not better to confine such cases in our state insane asylum indefinitely than to sentence them to a term of years in the penitentiary to again be released to resume their terrible crimes?

We sincerely regret having to call your attention to this matter and ask you to give it your careful consideration and, if possible, space in your next issue.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. O. A. KELLOGG, M. D.
J. F. MURRAY, M. D.
CLYDE E. WATSON, M. D.

Night Schools a Possibility

In response to a number of inquiries from young people whose daytime duties preclude the possibility of school work in regular hours, Superintendent H. H. Clifford and the board of trustees are considering the advisability of putting in a night course with the same teaching force in charge. No age limit has been determined upon, the one requisite under consideration being an ambition that overrides obstacles and its circumstances to its own ends.

The inquiries received so far are along vocational lines and would mean the organization of classes in domestic science and manual training, though other subjects are not barred, the only requirement being that not less than ten may enroll in each class.

A nominal tuition fee would be charged to meet the extra efforts of the teachers in charge and to cover any other expense features of such an arrangement.

Night classes in large cities have come to be quite common, a natural outgrowth of broader ideas of what constitutes an education, and manifest a courageous effort on the part of young people—not always those of school age either—to get, through this adaptation of the public school system, the practical information and training which each needs. That Caldwell should line up with this progressive tendency is what might be expected, and reflects much credit upon the ambitious inquirers as well as upon the school board and the teachers whose work would be not a whit lightened by the instruction of night sessions.

War's Women which comes to the Huree Theatre, Thursday, October 26th, is the most daring bit of tense drama ever staged for the screen or dramatic stage. It deals with a terrible side light on the horrors of war, the despoliation of women. There is no denying the fact that the director and his great mast have made the lesson plain, terribly plain, and it hits and hits hard. Viewed as a dramatic production of the season it grips, holds and compels attention. The development is perfect with a tempo that builds from one tense situation to another. Frank Kennan has the greatest part he has ever touched on the stage or before the camera. He makes it truly terrible and most convincing in point of power and brutality. By all means see War's Women. But go prepared for tense, powerful, terrible frankness.

John C. Rice, candidate for Supreme Judge, returned home from the southeastern part of the state, Thursday morning.

Miss Helme, English teacher at the high school, was a Boise visitor Saturday.

SENATOR BORAH GIVEN WARM RECEPTION IN CALDWELL

Saturday of last week Senator Borah was in Caldwell for a couple of hours. He was tendered a reception at the Commercial club. The people of Caldwell showed that they were well pleased to see Senator Borah again.

After much urging Senator Borah addressed those present. He said: "My friends, I had not intended to make any speeches in this part of Idaho at this time, excepting the one for which I am billed tonight at Weiser."

As you know, I am speaking in this campaign under the auspices of the National Republican Committee and my time is fully taken up. I was glad, however, that it was made possible for me to again visit my home state even for a short period and I assure you it is always one of the great pleasures of my life to be permitted to mingle with my fellow citizens at home and to extend to them the hand of greeting and fellowship.

It is not possible in the few moments that I will be here to indulge in any extensive remarks, although I hope later in the campaign to be able to return and to address you people more at length.

We are all interested more or less in politics at the present moment and you naturally expect me, if I say anything, to say something along political lines, and I will devote just a few minutes to that subject, yet without attempting to discuss either national or state issues, which would be impossible within the time.

I am free to confess to you that I have not always been satisfied with the conditions existing in both the great political parties. Those at the head of these parties have at times been under the domination of influences that were, in my opinion, inimical to the welfare of the people of this country.

Occasionally, however, there have arisen men who have the moral courage to combat those influences and to bring about a more healthful political condition in the United States; and I want to say to you, my friends, that there is nothing that has occurred in some time that has given me greater hope of a purification of American politics than the nomination of the man who is today the standard bearer of the Republican party—Chas. E. Hughes.

As a citizen of New York and as governor of that great state he was most effective in fighting those interests that have exerted an unwholesome influence upon our politics. You will remember his courageous attack upon corrupt insurance company methods which resulted in a complete overhauling of an old and most damnable system and in the guaranty of a fair deal to stockholders and absolute protection to policy holders. This work attracted nation-wide attention to Mr. Hughes.

I have no time to go into the details of his public career but I want to call your attention to one fact that should impress upon your minds the splendid moral fibre of this man.

You all know that in this campaign New York is a pivotal state. Many believe, and I must agree with them, that as New York goes, so will go the presidential election. It is important, therefore, to control that state and a great deal of attention is being paid to it, but notwithstanding this situation, it was not over 24 hours after Mr. Hughes had accepted the nomination that he dropped over-board one of the most powerful and resourceful political bosses in this nation—Wm. B. Baines, Jr., of New York. He does not approve of Mr. Baines and his methods and would rather be defeated through loss of New York, by antagonizing Mr. Baines, than to be elected by his support, carrying with it a surrender to the methods employed by that powerful political boss. That was a courageous thing to do, my fellow citizens, and clearly indicates the high character of administration you may expect if Mr. Hughes shall be elected.

But have you heard of President Wilson dropping out of his organization, Tom Taggart, the Democratic boss of Indiana and owner of that great gambling establishment of French Lick Springs? Have you ever heard of President Wilson dropping from his organization, Roger Sullivan, the great Democratic boss of Illinois, or have you heard of President Wilson dropping from his organization, Murphy, the Tammany boss? You have not. It requires the highest type of moral courage to antagonize such powerful political influences, and few men possess it. Mr. Hughes possesses it and he uses it.

Now, with relation to the Republican state ticket, I want to say that I, as a Republican, can give it my most hearty support, because it is composed of clean, representative citizens who, if elected, will give the people of Idaho an efficient, practical and economical administration.

We had our preferences in the primary campaign, which was a spirited one although fought on a high plane. Strong and capable men competed for the places of honor. The result has given us a ticket for which all Republicans can stand and which we can aggressively support.

In this campaign, the Republicans of Idaho are again united. The factional differences of 1912 have been laid aside. We present a solid front to the opposition. This is naturally a Republican state and all that is necessary at the present time in order to carry Idaho for the Republican National and state tickets is for Republicans to take an active interest in the campaign and to go to the polls and vote.

EDITOR TRIBUNE HELD TO ANSWER IN COURT

Preliminary Hearing Held Friday and Saturday Last Week.

J. L. Davis, editor of The Tribune, was held to answer in the district court at the preliminary hearing held before Justice McVey at the city hall, Friday and Saturday of last week.

The hearing started Friday morning and was not concluded until late Saturday afternoon. Mr. H. A. Griffiths was the complaining witness and he was represented at the hearing by Mr. Frank Martin, former attorney general. Mr. Davis was represented by Mr. W. A. Stone, one of the leading lawyers of southern Idaho.

Mr. Stone's address to the court on the legal questions involved was a masterly but unavailing effort. He reviewed the law of libel, the interpretation of the courts and the rulings applicable, but the defendant was held to answer in the district court.

The defendant was placed under bonds in the sum of $100.00 which were furnished. Messrs W. H. Redway and B. M. Holt are bondsmen.

Furnishers-to-be Investigate

Miss Ruth Wood accompanied the domestic science class of the high school on a trip of practical investigation to the Platt-Peckham Furniture Company's establishment last Tuesday. The twenty-five or thirty young ladies of the class were instructed in matters pertaining to economy, harmony of color and line, good taste and other elements which enter into the matter of house furnishing. This is another of the many practical phases of modern education. Every one of these girls will in all probability be called upon to furnish a home of her own some day, and a few lessons in the art will enable her to do the trick with a far greater degree of intelligence.

Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Botkin entertained at the 7:30 dinner Monday evening at their home on upper Dearborn. Covers were laid for the following guests: Messrs and Meslames Holt, A. I. Myers, Parker, Flynn, E. Boone, and Doctors Gue, Miller, Cole and Blomdell.

Auction bridge was indulged in at the conclusion of the dinner, the winners being Mrs. Parker and Mr. Boone.

Forward Club Dance

The committee in charge of the club dance scheduled for the evening of October 30th is planning for a record attendance and a correspondingly better time than ever. The armory, with Halloween decorations which will be elaborate, will be a fitting background for an evening of fun.

Mrs. Starling of Horseshoe Bend is visiting with her daughters, Mrs. Jas. Gipson and Mrs. Guy McGee of this city.

Rev. Francis Cook, the new pastor of the Christian church, was called to Payette rather unexpectedly last Sunday, and Dr. Boone of the College gave a most enjoyable sermon at the morning service in his absence.

Curtis Herrington of Boise was the guest of Mrs. H. K. Hartley this week.

MURDER MYSTERY "NOT MY SISTER"

How a woman, in protecting her sister from a frightful fate, incurs the jealousy of her husband, and finally has to bare a dark chapter in her own life, is told in Triangle's drama, "Not My Sister," starring Bessie Bariscale and Wm. Desmond, to be seen at the Bungalow Theatre, Thursday, October 26.

Grace Tyler, played by Miss Bariscale, helped out the declining fortunes of her family, when a young girl, by posing for a sculptor, Michael Arnold (Desmond). This young artist, falling violently in love with his model, takes advantage of her trust in him and wrongs her grievously, one day when they are alone in the studio.

The girl goes to her home, grief-

CALDWELL TEAM SHOWS STRONG IN FIRST GAME

The high school football eleven showed up strong in their first game with Ontario, clearly out-classing their opponents at every stage of play. During the first quarter the Caldwell boys played the most consistently of any time throughout the game, being able to pierce the enemy's line at any time, in spite of the fact that Ontario's line greatly outweighed Caldwell's. It was unnecessary at any time for the home team to open up any of their special devices for ground gaining, while Ontario was continually forced forward in their goal. They were especially successful with their passing during the second quarter, and the inexperienced Caldwell players didn't know how to break up their plays. It was through this that Ontario got away for their touchdown, though they failed to secure a position or kicking goal through the fumbling of an easy catch on the kick-out.

Houghton's Advice Fails Passes. At the end of the first half Coach Houghton put in some well directed advice, on the smashing of forward passes, and from then on Ontario failed to get within striking distance of Caldwell's goal. They succeeded in getting away for one good gain on an old time trick play but they were held for down and Cook booted the ball out of danger.

Only two of Caldwell's players had seen in more than one quarter previous to this game it is said, and considering this Caldwell fans are decidedly optimistic with regards to prospects for the season.

Caldwell Forelets to Ontario. On account of the fact Caldwell used Connors who was ineligible at the time of play—Caldwell authorities have forfeited the game to Ontario. Dugan Lewis who played left half back for Caldwell was taken from the game on account of a sore heel. Although he played half of the game under the strain, Coach Houghton removed him in order to prevent dangerous developments in the injury, putting Connors in his place. However, Ontario had been notified several days before the game that this might be necessary. On account of the inexperience among Caldwell players it was impossible to make any other shift and permit the game to continue. At the present Lewis is on crutches.

Will Play Payette Saturday. The Caldwell team will go to Payette to play this coming Saturday. Payette defeated Nampa a couple of weeks ago, and a good snappy game is anticipated.

COURT HOUSE HAPPENINGS. Miss Z. Fay Fowler is out of the running in the race for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, having decided to take up a different line of work, the nature of which she is not yet ready to make public. Miss Fowler has been busy for several days filling out notices and checks to winners of fair prizes.

Miss Margaret Knowlton, who is Miss Fowler's successor in the race for County Superintendent of Schools on the Democratic ticket, was a business visitor at the court house, Saturday.

Mr. Clarence Hill, the Parma attorney, attended to business in the county seat Wednesday of this week.

Probate Judge Meek spent Monday in Boise attending to juvenile matters under his supervision.

Marriage licenses were issued by the county clerk during the past week as follows: Oct. 11, Warren E. Mount of Wilburness, Ida., and Cora Edna Teardard of Caldwell; Oct. 12, Harry Ruch, Portland, and Willa M. Drumm of La Grande, Ore.; Floyd D. Harding, Denver, and Pauline Wisner, Caldwell; Oct. 18, W. J. Crawford and Stella Dunster, both of Ontario Ore. Robert J. Shelton and Florence Williams, both of Parma, secured a license on the 17th and emerged from the probate judge's office one in name.

County Clerk Knowlton and Mr. Persons attended to official business in Fruitland, Saturday.

Judge Bryan set a number of cases for hearing today—Thursday.

stricken, and tells no one. She does not see Arnold again for several years. In the meantime she has married happily. At a reception which she and her husband attend, the sculptor is a guest. He asks Grace's youngest sister, Ruth, to pose for him. The girl, her mother and Grace's husband, John Marshall, all urge Ruth to accept the offer, as Arnold has become a man of note.

Grace, rather than reveal to her husband the disgrace she has suffered, allows her sister to accept Arnold's offer, and goes with Ruth each time she poses. Marshall becomes jealous and finally quarrels with his wife. Driven to desperation, she confesses, whereupon Marshall rushes to Arnold's studio, with murder in his heart. For the first time, Ruth has gone alone, and her brother-in-law is close upon her heels.

Arnold is found later, stabbed to the heart. Marshall is arrested, and conviction on circumstantial evidence seems assured, when Ruth confesses that Arnold attacked her, and she killed him in self-defense. Franklin Ritchie, a leading man of prominence on the speaking stage, makes his first Triangle appearance as Marshall.
