

COLORADO MINING TROUBLES

UNION MINERS FORCED TO LEAVE VICTOR, COLORADO.

"The Czar," General Bell of Colorado State Militia, Orders the Men Thrown Into New Mexico and Utah—Union Miners Cared for by Federation—Appeal to President Roosevelt.

Colorado Springs, June 13.—A special to the Gazette from Cripple Creek says:

"The Cripple Creek district experienced a quiet Sunday. General Sherman Bell and staff attended divine services and transacted no business except what was absolutely necessary.

"Another party of deported miners will leave Victor today, their destination being either New Mexico or Utah. This party will consist of about 100 men. A number of arrests were made today and the peace commission sat for a few hours and passed on several cases.

"The saloons are opened for the first time in a week. The closing of the saloons was one of the factors in bringing order out of chaos."

Miners Scatter.

Denver, June 13.—A Republican special from Holly, Col., says;

About 10 of the deported miners from Cripple Creek left here at midnight last night for La Junta, Col., Pueblo and Denver. The remainder are staying in town and are quiet and orderly and have been so since their arrival. They have paid cash for their meals and lodging and made their purchases at stores and seem to be well supplied with funds for immediate needs. They are worrying considerably over the welfare of their families who were left behind in Cripple Creek, and say that they are willing to leave the district forever if their wives and children are allowed to join them. It is probable that a considerable number of the exiles will go into the country to seek work on the ranches.

It is understood that all the big mines except the Portland will resume operations Monday morning with full forces.

Send in the Federal Troops.

Chicago, June 13.—Organized labor in Chicago Sunday, through its central body, the Federation of Labor, passed a resolution appealing to President Roosevelt to send federal troops to Colorado to restore order in the Cripple Creek district. The resolution, which declares that the lives of the miners are in danger under present conditions, was mailed to President Roosevelt.

In pursuance of another set of resolutions adopted by the federation, a telegram was sent to President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor tonight, suggesting that he confer with labor leaders throughout the country for the purpose of calling a general meeting to consider the Colorado situation.

A general committee was also appointed by the federation whose duty it shall be to procure legal advice and take whatever action it may deem proper to aid the Colorado miners.

Miners Not First to Fire.

Rockvale, Wyo., June 13.—Coal miners who were in the skirmish at Dunnville when John Carley, one of the Cripple Creek miners, was killed by the militia, deny the published report that the miners were first to fire. Neither were they entrenched behind rocks waiting for the militia, according to their statement, but they appeared on the scene and fled immediately when they were fired upon. The miners deny having fired a shot. They say it would have been easy for them to have completely annihilated the small squad of militiamen had they so desired.

A MARTYR PRESIDENT TRIBUTE.

Floral Wreaths Placed on Tombs of Lincoln and McKinley.

Simultaneously last Saturday floral wreaths of similar design were placed on the casket containing the body of the late President McKinley in the receiving vault of the Wesleyan cemetery at Canton, O., and on the tomb of President Lincoln at Springfield, Ill. The Lincoln league of St. Louis provided both wreaths, following an annual custom.

Heroic Fireman Saves Child.

Gus Engleke is today the hero of the San Francisco fire department. At the risk of his life he fought his way through flames and blinding smoke at a fire and rescued 4 year old Masso Lassetto, who had been left alone in the burning building.

He threw his own rubber coat over the child and saved it, though on returning to the street he fell fainting into the arms of his companions.

RUSSIA IGNORES BRITISH KICK

In Declaring Certain Foodstuffs Contraband of War.

St. Petersburg, June 15.—Russia will not heed the British representations in regard to the action of the Russian government in declaring rice and other foodstuffs to be contraband of war. The Russian position in relation to foodstuffs being contraband is as announced by the Associated Press when the declaration was issued. It covers only full cargoes, destined for Japan, where the assumption is that they are designed for the use of the enemy's army. In effect the Novoe Vremya contends that Russia's position is rather analogous to Great Britain's during the Boer war, notwithstanding Great Britain's protest against foodstuffs being declared contraband at the time of the Franco-Chinese war in 1885 and the Japanese-Chinese war in 1894.

The Novoe Vremya expresses pleasure at the statement from Washington regarding the submarine boat Protector (which was shipped recently from New York on board the Norwegian steamer Fortuna, presumably bound for Japan), saying:

"The United States, owing to the agitation in the press, is strictly neutral."

The Russian consul at Chefoo reports the persistence of rumors there of a sea fight near Port Arthur.

The Russian press, while displaying considerable interest in King Edward's visit to Kiel, expresses the opinion that it will not have political significance.

USE THE HALF ROUND TIE.

Railroads May Cut Down Big Item of Expense.

Washington.—After a study and research covering a period of many years the bureau of forestry has at last been able to announce the success of a new form of railroad tie, "the half round tie," which, it is claimed, will greatly minimize maintenance expenses and, in conjunction with the introduction of appliances known as screw spikes and screw dowels, bids fair to become a great blessing to the railroad industry of this country. Arrangements are already under way for the extensive introduction of the appliances, the need of which has been felt so pronouncedly of late.

The government report recently submitted contains some valuable information on this subject, and it says:

The annual consumption of ties on 203,132 miles of railroad track in this country is 114,000,000, and it is yearly becoming harder to meet this demand.

RUSSIANS WERE TRAPPED.

They Thought the Japs Were Retreating and Were Surrounded.

Newchwang, June 13.—Information was received here, through heretofore reliable channels that part of the Japanese force left at Huliantien to checkmate the Russians' southward movement to relieve Port Arthur, was attacked southeast of Shungmao. After slight fighting the Japanese made a false retreat, the Russians hotly following them, when the Japanese made a flank movement, catching the Russians in a trap. The Russians losses are placed at 800 men. They fell back on Kaichou and began to retreat along the Baimatgu-Tsaiichou road. About 2000 Russian infantry from Kaichou passed through Newchwang today, accompanied by a large supply and hospital train. The troops appeared to be flagged out and showed every indication of a long forced march.

Oregon Boy Is Best Orator.

Eugene, Ore.—Great was the rejoicing of the University of Oregon students when their champion, James W. Mott, '06, was awarded first place in the third annual interstate oratorical contest. The subject of the winning oration was "The Patriotism of Revolutionary Soldiers."

Mott was given a close race by J. L. Adkinson, '06, University of Idaho, with "Alexander Hamilton" as his subject. The man from Idaho has a forceful, winning delivery. Morris D. Scroggis, '05, University of Washington, also made a favorable impression. His subject was "John Howard, Apostle of Humane Spirit."

Endeavor Meeting at Spokane.

The Washington State Christian Endeavor meeting will be held in Spokane, June 23 to 26 inclusive. The principal speakers will be Dr. J. W. Field and Rev. R. H. Waggener of Kansas City, Mo. Other speakers will be present including Dr. Edwin L. House of Portland, Ore., and Prof. Penrose of Whitman College.

Raisuli Is Unable to Sleep.

The London Mail's Tangier correspondent says Raisuli has received the sultan's letter concerning his demands and that, unless the bandit formulates fresh conditions, the release of Perdicaris may be expected soon.

"I learn," says the correspondent, "that Raisuli is suffering from nervousness and insomnia, and is greatly depressed by the desertion of two adherents."

IN A CHICAGO NIGHT SCHOOL

Difficulty of the Lipping Urchin in Rendering Shakespearean Lines.

A certain night school is in session three evenings a week in a cavernous building on the river front. One mounts a draughty staircase, gropes through bleak passages that echo to the tread and enters a gas-lighted, odorating classroom, where the air is filled with a murmur like the sound of rain on the roof; it is the diligent scratching of a hundred pens on a hundred copy books. Boys of many nationalities, of many ages, ranging from 12 to 30, and of many degrees of griminess, toil stoically at their copying. The "smallest boy" is very small and particularly grimy. His head droops devotedly above the work, and his fingers are fairly paralyzed with the rigidity of his grip on the pen. "Truth crunched to earth shall rith again," he whispers to himself, repeating the copy book text as he laboriously transcribes it. Nothing has been able to break the "littlest boy" of lipping. It is the lisp of nervous childishness, and in astonishing contrast to the astuteness of his vocabulary on occasion.

Along the walls stretch blackboards, where dusty processions of straggling sums and conjugated verbs trail like caravans across a desert. In one corner the blackboard blossoms into an oasis, a roll of honor in colored chalk, with the "smallest boy's" name at the top.

When copy books are put away there is the ordeal of mental arithmetic, and after that the reading class. To-night the selection is Shakespearean, a part of the second act of "As You Like It." The boys read in turn, up one aisle and down the next, their earnestness and the admonitions of the master redeeming the performance from ridiculousness, though Orlando's impassioned address is delivered in a Dutch brogue, and Jaques is variously a Swede, an Italian and a Jew. The "Seven Ages" are accomplished in triumph, down to the "justice," full of wise saws and modern instances, and now it is the "smallest boy's" turn to read. Rising, he bawls out the lines that follow with breathless eagerness—as one who knows his lesson well:

The thirteenth thirf
Into the lean and thlippeder pantaloon;
With th-thpectacleth on noth, and pouch on thide;
Hith youthful hoth, well-thaved, a world too wide
For hith thrunk th-bank, and hith big many voith,
Turning again to childith treble, pith
And whithleth in hith thound.

She Was Kissed.

The bride and groom sat side by side. "Dearest," he said, looking up into her eyes, for he was smaller, so that he really and truly looked up and into her eyes.

"Yes, love," she responded in soft, frightened mouse tones.

"If I had known that tunnel was that long I would have kissed you."

"Didn't you kiss me?" she asked with much surprise.

"No," he replied.

"Well, somebody did."—Cleveland Leader.

Her Opportunity.

Nell—Miss Speltz has been talking about you again.

Belle—Yes, I was delighted to meet her at a bargain sale this morning.

Nell—I shouldn't think you'd be pleased to meet her at any time.

Belle—I was this time. During the crush I found a chance to give her a few good pokes on my own account.—Philadelphia Ledger.

There Is Hope.

"I came to speak to you about my boy," said Mr. Popley. "He is only 12 years old, but he writes poetry that—"

"Only 12, you say," interrupted the editor. "Cheer up, man! He's young enough to be cured. Consult your family physician."—Philadelphia Ledger.

HE KILLS TWO WOMEN.

Pueblo Man Also Tries to Commit Suicide.

Filbert P. Dodge, a livery keeper, shot and killed his wife and Mrs. Mau McKinney on the principal business street of Pueblo, Col. Dodge dismounted from a horse on which he was riding, shot one woman in the head and the other in the heart and then tried to kill himself, but did not succeed before being disarmed by the police. In a statement Dodge said he meant to kill his wife and her companion because his wife had been untrue and the woman with her was responsible for leading his wife astray.

Old Soldier's Story.

Sonoma, Mich., June 13.—That even in actual warfare disease is more terrible than bullets is the experience of Delos Hutchins of this place. Mr. Hutchins as a Union Soldier saw three years of service under Butler Barke in the Louisiana swamps and as a result got crippled with Rheumatism so that his hands and feet got all twisted out of shape and how he suffered only a Rheumatic will ever know.

For twenty-five years he was in misery, then one lucky day his druggist advised him to use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Of the result Mr. Hutchins says: "The first two boxes did not help me much but I got two more and before I got them used up I was a great deal better. I kept on taking them and now my pains are all gone and I feel better than I have in years. I know Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Rheumatism."
