KENDRICK IDAHO

Times in Kendrick are changing and the public is demanding it. Towns of this size, as well as larger ones have the time in their existence when they have been flourishing then comes the time when they apparently die and the people in them loose all ambition for business and all turn to the old game of kicking and knocking the town, their neighbors and everything in general. For some time past this has been the existing circumstances in this little burg, but, Now the time has come when people have begun to come to themselves and have found out that that kind of business policies do not pay and they are the loser and have begun to cut it out and all work for a better cause. "Make a better Kendrick". It can be done and must be done. If every one of the citizens of this town will speak a good word for the town and their neighbors, times will brighten up, everybody will be more cheerful and the town will move forward instead of backward. This town is surrounded by the best farming country on the face of the map and the land is farmed by the best lot of farmers that exist on the earth.

What more do you want as far as the country part goes. The merchants are a good set of men and they handle a superior grade of goods. Now comes the thing, let the farmer and the merchant get acquainted and become warm friends and learn each other and when this is done that business confidence will be formed that it takes to make a country and a town. Without the country the town cannot exist and without the town the country can not prosper. Land values decrease, social life fades away, life as a whole is nothing but one day like another and you merely exist. Come in line and size the problem up from both sides and see if the Potlatch country and the town that is the center, Kendrick, cannot become as one and work for the great end, what is good for my neighbor is good for me, that being so, your town is your neighbor and the country is your neighbor.
