Farm Letterheads

Appropriate farm letterheads come next in importance to a farm name in advertising and publicity value. The farmer of today is engaged in a business that requires a great deal of buying and selling. The use of printed stationery puts him in a class with other business men. One of the essentials in all business is publicity and it must be of the right sort. The tumbledown fences and appearance of disorder, untidiness, which is occasionally seen on the farm devoted to the breeding of pure bred live stock, is just as truly advertising the breeder as does the printer's ink he uses. The adoption of an appropriate farm name points the man out as being a little more progressive than his neighbors. Just as truly does the use of a farm letterhead establish the business standing of the man who uses it. Printed stationery is the most valuable means of obtaining the right kind of publicity. The man who writes a business letter on scraps of cheap paper, perhaps describing a very fine pure bred animal he is offering for sale, is creating right in the start a most unfavorable impression of his business. A letter written on a letterhead having a design setting forth the particular type of farming being conducted, is indication that the business will be unconsciously made in the mind of the reader. A good deal of thought should be given to the selection of the letterhead used. The design should contain the name of the owner with his correct address. Signatures are frequently hard to decipher and the use of a letterhead in business transactions is worth what it costs in insuring the proper addressing of return letters. The expense is not great and when once adopted the use of the letterhead is not likely to be discontinued.—Kansas Farmer.

ABOUT SMALL FRUITS.

Hurry the picked berries into a cool place out of the sun. Keep your eye on the currant and gooseberry bushes; often there is a second brood of the currant worm pest. Don't pick wet berries for market. Wait until they dry off. Wet berries are soft and do not ship well. Light one inch mesh fish netting makes an excellent covering for ripening berries that attract the birds. Scarecrows and strings often fall; netting is sure and not expensive for small areas. Spray the grapevines with the bordeaux-arsenate of lead mixture, the first application soon after the fruit sets, the second about ten days later and the third about two weeks afterward. This helps to prevent rot, wormy grapes and other troubles. A further help is to put paper bags on the grape clusters when the berries are the size of small shot and leave them there until harvest time.

QUALITY and SERVICE Versus CHEAPNESS

Competition has as its basis cheap prices, without regard to quality. We propose "Comparison" as the true stimulator of trade, to the advantage of the consumer, who, desiring to purchase articles of genuine merit, can only assure getting such by comparing the standard sold at a fair price with those sold at a seemingly low price. The result is always in favor of the higher priced article. Try this when next in need of cigars—Ice Cream—Stationery—Candy—Toilet Accessories, in fact anything which a first class drug store deals in.

SUMMER LIGHTNING.
Summer lightning is beginning to take its toll from the farm houses and barns. Farm fires usually show a marked increase with the coming of summer, due to the lightning from thunderstorms. There are two ways of meeting the danger—the fire protection in the way of fire extinguishers and farm water systems can be made adequate or the right type of a lightning rod system can be installed. There are reputable firms making lightning rods that will give protection, and most insurance companies make a lower rate for farm buildings protected in this way.—Farm Progress.
