Editor Gazette—The Gem State Fair having closed and the city of Boise presenting no new attractions it became necessary for your correspondent to take to the road. This he did the following day. He concluded to learn the west and travel east in search of light. He was fortunate in having as traveling companions two university professors who had also attended the above mentioned Fair and were seeking new worlds to conquer with fine grade cattle and hogs.

Your correspondent will not attempt to describe the luxuries of modern travel for this is a trite subject. The traveller simply goes to bed at such time as he may choose and wakes up in a new world. He is considerably called to his meals and there enjoys not only the necessities but the luxuries of life while passing through the country at the rate of 60 miles an hour. Yes, modern travel has its compensations and is preferred to the ox-teams of our forefathers.

One of the modern innovations that stands out conspicuously as one rushes along through eastern Wyoming and Nebraska is the "Lincoln Highway." It answers the demands of the automobile. It is as level as the railroad and as smooth as a billiard ball. The travel over this magnificent thoroughfare is immense. All kinds of vehicles are seen including the "Prairie Schooner." Before leaving Idaho it was supposed that the Gem State utilized the entire product of the Ford factory but this was clearly an error.

It was the intention of your correspondent to keep his eyes and ears open to political conditions as he passed through the country so that the Gazette readers might have some first hand information as to the status of the present campaign but between Boise and the hustling city of Omaha we never heard the names of either Wilson or Hughes mentioned.

Omaha is in the midst of a week's celebration. It is known as the Festival of Ak-sar-ben which is spelling Nebraska backward. The crowds of people that throng the streets are enormous. The hour is arriving for the Industrial parade. An advantageous position is secured and the privilege of studying the masses as they go surging by is amply afforded. A glance at the crowd as a whole clearly indicates that scientific methods have not been used in mating the human race. The professors before referred to would blush with shame if they secured no better results in the brute creation. Surely this was a motley crowd abounding even in freak specimens.

Why are there so many homely women in Omaha? No answer has yet been found. We have never been concerned with the manner in which women clothe themselves but if we lived in Omaha and belonged to the legislative department we would enact a law compelling women to pass a physical examination before allowing them to use their own discretion in wearing skirts so ridiculously short at both ends.

The parade was a wonder. It took 45 minutes to pass a given point. The Gas Co. had eighteen Fords in line. The farther east the more Fords. The whole exhibition showed a lot of genuine business activity. Ingenuity brought out the fact that Omaha was never so prosperous as now. It is surely not the Omaha we used to know. There are only three modern "sky-scrapers" noticeable. These are 18 stories high but the city is wide awake.

Here we also find a lot of political activity. Wilson's picture appears in fully two thirds of the business houses. We have not seen a picture of Hughes since coming to town except in the cartoons of the daily press. We are offering no explanation only stating facts. Hughes has made no impression on Omaha to date. There is no telling what he may do before the campaign closes but it is all Wilson now." That is the best information your scribe can get at this time.

From an agricultural standpoint the Potlatch country is probably one of the most favored spots in the world. Although the beginning of the 1916 season looked very unfavorable for all kinds of crops, the farmers in this section have harvested one of the best crops in the history of the country. The winter wheat crop was lighter than usual but the large acreage of beans has more than made up the difference. And so it goes, one season with another, the farmers of the Potlatch have very little reason to complain. A fail crop is unknown and the farmer who uses scientific methods and farms consistently, can be more than reasonably sure of harvesting a good big crop every year.

Anyone going thru Kendrick on the train certainly gets a very poor impression of the town. Some of the back yards along the railroad right-of-way are horrible to look upon. They give the town a black eye with everyone. Kendrick has a clean-up day once a year but that does not seem to be often enough. In the spring we clean up the town to get ready for the summer season. Why not do the same thing in the fall and put our yards in shape so they will look reasonably decent during the winter?

Our street commissioner has cleaned up the streets so that they look better than they have looked for years. It is now up to the property owners to clean up their back yards.

The giant size posters of Moses that face you on nearly every sign board in Idaho are evidence to the fact that the governor, as a practical business man, knows the value of advertising. Whether the announcement at the top of the posters, that he is "the man who has kept faith with the people," is true or not, it will at least be convincing to the large majority of voters who do not think for themselves.

A great many of the Gazette subscribers are taking advantage of the opportunity that is always gladly extended by ye editor to pay their subscriptions.

It has been estimated that out of the 24,000,000 horses in the United States only 224,000 are of the type suitable for military purposes. It is a fact worthy of note that Russia, Germany, France and Austria-Hungary have for many years bred horses with a view to "preparedness" in case of war. Germany at the present time is fighting England with the produce of Galtee, for whom she paid England $66,000, and Ard Patrick, which cost her $100,000.

Russia excepted, the United States is the greatest producer of horses in the world, yet New York Police Department is forced to scour the country annually to find seventy-five horses of the type desired, due to the fact that we have neglected the protection of pure blood in the medium and light weight horses.

Thanks to members of the Jockey Club, the Government is giving some attention to the subject and has established remount stations in Virginia, Vermont and Iowa. A bill has been introduced in the House and is now pending, calling for an immediate appropriation of $200,000 and an annual appropriation of $100,000 thereafter for the purpose of extending the army remount system. Preparedness in this direction does not depend upon ultimate war for its justification. The benefits of this work will be just as great should we remain forever at peace.—Agricultural Digest.

In the spring many people eat a few meals of the leaf crops such as spinach, lettuce, and dandelion, and then forget that these or similar crops should be grown and eaten throughout the summer and canned for winter use.

When warm weather makes the spring crops woody or bitter, the tops of cabbage and beets may be used and still later chard or New Zealand spinach may be used because they are able to stand the hot weather. They should be started early in spring, usually about the time cabbage is set out.

Chard is sown at the rate of one or two seeds per inch in drills at least 18 inches apart and when the plants begin to crowd they are gradually thinned out so that they finally stand 6 inches apart. The plants so removed are cooked and used much as spinach is. The leaves of those that are left to reach a larger size may be cooked in the same way and the stems "creamed" and served as asparagus is. The leaves and stems may be canned either together or separately as greens are needed even more in winter than in summer to vary the restricted diet.—Better Farming.

Republican Rally

L. J. Purcell, a prominent republican editor of southern Idaho, addressed a small crowd at the Barlow Theatre Wednesday night, on some of the live political issues of the day, the main issue being Governor Moses Alexander. A number of Latah county candidates attended the meeting.

Local News

Mrs. Chas. Chandler of Juliaetta spent Monday in Kendrick.

Mrs. Henry Roberts of American ridge left for Nampa Thursday.

The funeral of Miss Abrahamson's brother was held in Moscow yesterday afternoon.

F. C. McGowan of Moscow was in Kendrick Wednesday to attend the republican rally.

The prices received for stock at public sales this fall have not been very high, probably due to the fact that everyone has been too busy to attend the sales. The late sales will no doubt bring better prices than the earlier ones.

George Tannihil of Lewiston was an arrival in Kendrick from Lewiston yesterday. He was the attorney for the Village of Kendrick at the meeting of the utilities commission held at the town hall yesterday for the purpose of fixing water rates. Frank L. Moore of Moscow was retained by the Kendrick Water and Power Company as their attorney.

L. G. Peterson went to Moscow yesterday. From there he expects to go to Cornwell, Bovil, Deary and other points in the interest of his campaign.
