Care of the Bull Calf.

At the age of five to six months the bull calf must be separated from the other calves. From this time on he must receive regular exercise and be gently handled. When he is ten to twelve months of age he may be given light service, possibly one cow every three or four weeks. From the age of twelve to sixteen months this service may be increased to one cow per week.

Alfalfa Needs Lime.

Probably no other field crop requires time to such an extent as does alfalfa, and, with the exception of rather limited limestone areas, practically all of the soils of the United States east of the ninety-fifth meridian require liming for the best development of this crop.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
