

Record Cow Idaho Product

Star-Mirror: Segis Peterje Prospect, the Holstein which recently broke the world's record for milk production, is a cow of Idaho birth according to Prof. H. P. Davis, head of the department of animal husbandry at the University of Idaho.

"The animal may truly be classed as an Idaho cow," said Prof. Davis today, "since she was born in this state and lived here during her early months. She was born on the farm of George V. Leighton, near Boise, and although her record was made on the Carnation stock farm in Washington, Idaho dairymen may feel a just pride in the fact she comes from this state.

"Her sire, King Segis 10, headed Mr. Leighton's herd for some time and many of his offsprings are still in south Idaho. At the Caldwell substation experiment farm, a son of King Segis heads the Holstein herd.

King Segis Matador Walker, the son of Matador Segis Walker, already a famous bull, and the grandson of King Segis 10, the sire of the record breaking cow, headed the University of Idaho dairy herd for a time. His daughters are just coming into milk and look quite promising.

"Various dairymen in both north and south Idaho are known to have stock which can trace back relationship to King Segis 10 and hence to Segis Peterje Prospect. From this it appears that enough of the blood of King Segis 10 remains in the state to materially help the Holstein breed."

The champion cow made a record of 37,884.1 pounds of butterfat in one year. This is 3,000 pounds more than the next best record and an average of 47.74 quart of milk daily. She is not of exceptional size for a Holstein weighing but 1650.

Each wagon has a capacity of about 3 1/2 yards of dirt, making the combined capacity of the two about 7 yards. They are constructed so that they can be pulled from either end.

The price paid for both wagons was $900 delivered to Pullman. This is approximately what one would cost new, delivered from the factory. They will be used extensively for hauling crushed rock and can also be used advantageously during the process of grading to haul dirt for fills, etc. The tires are eight inches wide and the other parts of the wagon are correspondingly heavy, each wagon weighing approximately 3500 pounds.

Income Tax Facts

Births, deaths and marriages during the year 1920 affect materially income tax returns for that year.

Millions of babies were added to family circles, each of whom brings an exemption of $200 in the parents' income tax returns.

Widows and widowers who lost their husbands or wives during the year are especially affected. They are single for the purposes of the income tax law and are granted only an exemption of $1,000, unless the head of a family.

Persons who were divorced or separated by mutual agreement during the year also must consider themselves as single persons.

The status of the taxpayers on December 31, 1920, determines the amount of the exemptions. If on that day the taxpayer was married and living with wife or husband, claim may be made for $2,000 exemption. If single, or married and not living with wife or husband on December 31, the exemption is only $1,000.

Persons who reached majority during the year and whose earnings for that period amounted to $1,000 or more, or $2,000 or more according to their marital status must file a return and pay a tax on their net income in excess of these amounts.

To avoid penalty, the return must be in the hands of the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives, or has his principal place of business, on or before midnight of March 15, 1921.
