

CONGRESS WILL OPEN MONDAY IN SPECIAL SESSION ON CUBA

The Reciprocity Treaty Will Come Up for Ratification and Little Else Is Expected to Be Done

(Special Telegram to Evening Teller.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—The ratification of the Cuban reciprocity treaty is all that is included in the present program of the extraordinary session of congress, which will open next Monday. It was originally desired by the administration to take up financial legislation at the special session, but the idea has now been abandoned and unless all signs fall comparatively little attempt will be made to accomplish anything of importance other than the ratification of the Cuban treaty.

The reciprocity treaty has been ratified by the Cuban congress, and only lacks necessary legislation by the United States congress to become effective. The initiative for this rests with the house of representatives. The fact that several weeks are required for the organization of that body has excited apprehension in some quarters that there will be considerable delay in getting the reciprocity joint resolution in shape, and that action may be prevented at the called session. In circles better informed, however, there exists no apprehension on this account, for while the speaker is not likely to have all the committees ready for announcement before December, he undoubtedly will announce the committee on ways and means and the committee on accounts and mileage some time during the coming week.

While there is likely to be a vigorous demand from the democrats for liberal debate, it is expected a limit will be fixed when the resolution is reported, and that a time also will be fixed for a final vote. With regard to the question directly involved, it is not believed there will be any great differences in the house, but the democrats may attempt to make capital for the next presidential election by debating the tariff and offering amendments that will not be entertained by the presiding officer. However, there is reason for the belief that the house will be able to send the resolution to the senate before November 20. The latter body, having ratified the reciprocity treaty by an almost unanimous vote, may be expected to take up and dispose of the matter without much debate.

Talks with leading republican senators point to a general understanding that no financial legislation will be attempted at the extra session. During the time the house is considering the reciprocity matter the senate will have plenty of business to occupy its attention. The executive business alone is of vast volume, for the appointments made during the recess number thousands. These will have to be reported to the senate for its advice and consent, and their consideration will keep the senators busy the first ten days of the session. The financial bill will be considered by members of the finance committee, and cloak room conferences may be expected among leading senators on both sides, but no bill will be formulated until after the Christmas holidays.

Monday will be devoted to the reading of the president's message. The general expectation is that the message will be brief and will deal only with Cuban reciprocity and possibly with financial legislation. In his message it is expected that the president will direct the attention of congress to the moral obligations affecting Cuba and point out the duty of the house to endorse the action of the senate in passing a Cuban reciprocity treaty.

If the subject of financial legislation is touched upon it is believed that definite recommendations will be made by the president along the lines of the speech delivered in Chicago some time ago by Secretary Shaw. The differences of opinion entertained by the administration and by leading republican members of congress on the question of financial legislation renders it hopeless to expect that anything along that line can be accomplished in the short time which the extra session has before it and in view of these facts it is altogether probable that the matter will be left out of the president's message entirely, though he had previously determined to give it especial prominence.

and the expense of hauling ore has been dispensed with. The new tunnel is also developing a large amount of water which will afford an abundance for the mill and no trouble is anticipated on account of a shortage in this line as was experienced last winter.

The pipe and all other material for the electric plant is now on the ground or on the road from Stites except the dynamos and they have been shipped from the east for nearly two weeks. Upon their arrival it will only take a few days to complete the installation of the plant when a new epoch in the working of the property will begin.

HONOR AUSTRIAN LIBERATOR

Notable Banquet to a Hero of the Revolution of 1848

(Special Telegram to Evening Teller.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—At Liederkrantz hall tonight a notable banquet is to be given in honor of Dr. Hans Kudlich, who took a prominent part in the Austrian revolution of 1848, and is known as the liberator of the Austrian peasants. The affair is in celebration of the 80th birthday of Dr. Kudlich. A number of persons of prominence have signified their intention to be present and among the speakers will be Carl Schurz and Dr. A. Jacobi.

CARRIE NATION AN ACTRESS

She Takes up Her Little Hatchet
in a Stage Debut
Tonight

(Special Telegram to Evening Teller.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Over in Jersey, in the little town of Perth Amboy, Carrie Nation and her hatchet are to make their stage debut tonight. The time-honored "Ten Nighth in a Bar-room" has been chosen as the vehicle which is to carry Carry to fame and fortune and incidentally give aid to the cause of temperance. No outsiders have been allowed to see Mrs. Nation in her rehearsals, but the active press agent is authority for the statement that worse players have been seen on the stage. The piece is to be staged with effective realism and the climax will be reached when the crusader from Kansas does her smashing act with a real hatchet and real glass.

NEW STEAMER FOR UPPER SNAKE

Boise Capitalists Will Build a Boat to Operate at Glenns Ferry

E. W. Johnson has returned from Portland. With George M. Parsons and J. E. Lane he went down there to see about the construction of a boat to ply on the Snake between Glenn's Ferry and the Bruneau ferry, says the Boise Statesman, this service having been planned in connection with the great Bruneau irrigation project in which they are interested.

In Portland they secured all possible data on the subject and arranged to have plans and specifications for a boat prepared. The boat will be 55 feet in length and 12 feet beam, the deck being 14 feet wide. In connection with it there will be two barges, each having a capacity of 50 tons, these to be towed.

The boat will draw 12 to 15 inches of water light and two feet when fully loaded. It will be equipped with twin screw propellers driven by double marine gasoline engines. The latter will have an indicated capacity of 20-horse power each, but will actually generate 46-horse power. The boat will carry 25 tons of freight and 40 passengers. It will be finished in the best style and will be a model river craft. A supply of 120 gallons of gasoline will be carried.

The craft will have a speed of 15 knots an hour and will make the run of 23 miles very quickly.

After arranging the general features of the plans Mr. Johnson and his associates came home to await detailed specifications with estimate of cost. The intention is to have work on the boat and barges started at once, the expectation being that the boat will be in commission in 90 days. It will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000.

This boat and the barges are expected to carry all the freight for the Bruneau country and much that goes into Nevada. That business has been developed rapidly in recent years, and when the irrigation enterprise shall have been put through it will be greatly increased.

German in Public Schools (Cleveland Leader.)

The public school authorities of New York have decided that the study of the German language shall be cut out of the course of instruction, except in the last year of the grammar schools. No one who has watched the shifting currents of immigration can be much surprised. It has been growing evident, very fast, that to teach any foreign language in the common schools of great centers of population in the United States would be sure, ere long, to result in strenuous demands for like instruction in others. At the rate immigration has been expanding and changing it will not be many years before there will be more natives of Italy in the United States than German-born residents. The Slavs of the Austro-Hungarian empire will soon rival the Germans in numbers counting only persons of foreign nativity. Of course, the German element, including the American-born descendants of German parents, will be bigger than the Slavic for a generation, at least, if not forever. Jealousy and national pride will surely impel other nationalities to demand all that Germans are given in the public schools, or else the elimination of all special favors or consideration for the German element in the country. With the Germans, by birth and parentage, becoming constantly a smaller fraction of the population, notwithstanding their absolute increase, and with German immigration small and not likely to grow much larger, the ultimate result of these conditions is not hard to foresee. It is only a question of time.

NOVEL SHOW BY SPORTSMEN

International Sportsmen's Association Gives Chicago
an Entertainment

(Special Telegram to Evening Teller.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 7.—In a new guise and in striking contrast to the horse show gayeties of last week, the Coliseum today received the early visitors to the sportsmen's show, for which preparations have been making for weeks past. Passing through the Wabash avenue entrance, patrons of this, the most novel exhibition the International Sportsmen's association has ever arranged, stepped at once into the reproduction of forest and mountain scenes that were as convincing as they were attractive and unusual. A leading feature of the landscape is an artificial lake which is to be the scene of a series of aquatic contests during the three weeks the exhibition will continue. Other leading features of the program include exhibitions by a dozen different tribes of Indians, a live bear hunt, trained wolves, deer and moose, and a large display of forest animals and wild fowl.

The Evening Teller prints today's news today.

NEWSPAPER CURRENT COMMENT

TOPICS OF MOMENT
FROM MANY SOURCES

Is a duck or a goose or a quail or any other bird an animal in the contemplation of the Idaho fish and game law? That, in substance, is a question Attorney General Bagley has been asked to give an official opinion on. Very recently, in passing on a phase of the pure food law, the attorney general, with perfect equanimity, held that a salmon was not a four-year-old steer, so it is readily assumed he will tackle the question here propounded imperturbably.

If a bird is not an animal in the purview of the enactment of the last legislature, then it may be sold on the market. The law generally distinguishes between birds, fish and animals, using the latter in connection with the larger game, such as deer; but the section prohibiting the sale of fish and game makes no such distinction. It follows, being the third paragraph of section 9:
"It shall be unlawful for any person or persons, company or corporation, or the agent or employee of such company or corporation, to sell, offer or expose for sale, or have in his, its or their possession, for the purpose of selling or offering for sale, any species of fish protected by this act, or any part of a carcass of any of the animals mentioned in this act at any time of the year. Any any such person or persons, company or corporation, agent or employee having in his, its or their possession any of the animals or fish herein mentioned, for the purpose of selling the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

The section prohibiting transportation companies from shipping fish or game refers specifically to fish, birds and animals.

The attorney general is consulting Webster, Hoyle and the Salt Lake election returns and expects to have his opinion ready soon.—Statesman.
