These figures cover all the warrants that have been issued and if there are any outstanding bills not as yet presented they are few and small in amount. A great many people will perhaps marvel, not realizing the magnitude of the fair, that we have not a surplus. All things have a reason: The Lewiston Interstate Fair is too large in proportion to the town and the patronage afforded. The fair this year was pronounced by people who followed the circuit as the best fair on the circuit and yet Lewiston is the smallest city in the itinerary. In other words the growth of the fair is out of proportion to the growth of the country for the ticket sales amounted to only $1,181.65 over and above the ticket sales of last year while the expenses were increased, after deducting the notes paid from each year to over $2,600. Each year's growth demands improvements, a new grand stand is imperative and should next year's management give a fair of the same merit as the one just passed, receive $1,800 advance in ticket sales, give the same purses and premiums, build no buildings outside of a grandstand and general repairs they would still need a subscription to come out even. If you wish a surplus you will have to cut the merit of the exhibition. Is it advisable? The racing is the greatest expense, and yet the purses were not exorbitant by any means and I do not think any money has been spent lavishly or foolishly, and all those who paid their 50 cents at the gate certainly got their money's worth, were pleased and will be a lasting advertisement for future fairs. I wish to call attention also to a very important fact: The association has regained the confidence of the harness horsemen, and next year the management will have no trouble in getting entries for their events and that means that your purses for harness events will cost you a great deal less money; for every entry, on a $500 purse, means $50 cut from it up to four, and $25 from others over four. The premiums on sheep and swine should be raised next year as they are entirely too low. At least 2,000 more premium lists should be printed next year. The elimination of the gambling cut off a big revenue but it should never be allowed on the grounds again. The saloon privilege should also be done away with; there is no money in it either for the association or the concessionist and it is no benefit to the fair.

With these few suggestions I respectfully submit the report. The records of the fair are open to inspection at my office.

Yours very truly,
VAN W. HASBROUCK,
Secretary.

Approved: D. J. MCGILVERY,
President.
JOHN T. RAY, Treas.

CENSORSHIP ON MESSAGES

The Colombian Government Means to Guard the News of Interior

(Special Telegram to Evening Teller.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—The United States has been informed that the American-Venezuelan commission has been awarded $75,000 on the Rudloff claim.

Minister Powell of San Domingo cables to the United States under date of November 6 that Marcoris has been bombarded by the revolutionary gunboat and partially destroyed.

The American interests at Marcoris are considerable.

The cable companies operating between America and Colombia have informed the United States that the Colombian government has declared a censorship on all messages between the Buena Ventura terminal and the interior.

It is not believed, however, that the censorship will apply to messages between the United States and Minister Beaufre at Bogota.

The joint committee of the house and senate appointed to inform the President that congress was in session visited the White house at 10:30 this morning and were told that the message would be sent to congress today.

Baptist Congress Opens

(Special Telegram to Evening Teller.)
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 10.—A Baptist congress, national in character, began today in the temple and will remain in session for three days. The program calls for discussions relating to the work of young people in the churches, prayer meeting methods, trades-union, and liberty, immortality in the light of science and the worship of pleasure.

A number of distinguished church workers are taking part.

What Viavi Is

What is viavi? was asked on the street by a passerby as he read the sign "Viavi" on a window in the third story of the Magnolia block. This led to an investigation. Mrs. Sheldon, the lady in charge, was asked: "What is Viavi?" "We are here," said Mrs. Sheldon, "to represent practicing physicians in the east. The theory they have worked out is that blood is life and when the blood travels through the system every thirty seconds the man is a normal being. If the blood is congested or stopped in its course the man is not normal. The old school physicians build this blood up from the stomach. We keep it in circulation by means of salves and let the stomach do the work intended for it. We do not take acute cases, as we believe that the homeopathy or allopathy doctors can best relieve them but chronic cases, especially where they have been given up by other physicians, we seek and cure wherever there is any system left upon which to build.
