You Couldn't Be Found Any Other Way

PLAYERS INVEST IN IDAHO LANDS

SEVERAL CHAMPIONS PUT THEIR SURPLUS SHEKELS INTO IRRIGATION PROJECTS IN THE STATE.

"Alfalfa" Charlie, as "Chick" Fraser is destined to be known in the future, called on President Murphy of the clubs lately with a view to ascertaining how badly his services would be needed by the world's champions, writes T. E. Sanborn of Chicago.

"Chick" is not contemplating joining the Patti-perpetual farewell brigade, but has just returned from Idaho, where he has nalled down with good coin of the realm an 80-acre ranch in the new irrigated district and plans to make it, and more land like it, a home for his declining years when he is no longer able to pitch major league baseball.

Carl Lundgren, who accompanied Fraser on the Idaho trip was no so fortunate in securing a future home-stand out there, but has lined out to set one before next fall, when he desires to move from Illinois to Idaho soil.

Fraser's farm is located near Jerome, Idaho, and at present is a sagebrush desert, but when cleared and irrigated by laterals, which will be dug from the irrigating main this winter, will blossom into any old kind of a harvest "Chick" chooses, according to the future farmer.

"Ninety tons of alfalfa to the acre looked pretty good to Lundy and me," said Fraser.

Another communication from Chairman Herrmann brought the news that the Cub's championship emblems were ready to delivah. President Murphy took occasion to repeat his regret that these emblems had not been made in Chicago, instead of Cincinnati, where jewelers are bowling cranks and design hats which look more like bowling pins.

Billy Sullivan, the White Sox catcher, has been granted a patent on his catchers' protector, according to a letter received from the curly haired backstop, who is now touring Ireland. American league fans are familiar with the new-fangled protector which Sullivan wore all last season and which was pronounced much more safe and convenient for players than the wind pan which has served so many years. According to Sully Uncle

Sam has recognized his inventive genius and protected it, and he is now going to perfect a ney style of catchers' mitt.

BARRY BEATEN BY KAUFMAN

IN A FIGHT OF 39 ROUNDS AL KAUFMAN DEFEATS JIM BARRY—CONTEST WAS A POOR EXHIBITION.

Los Angeles, Dec. 31.—Al Kaufman of Los Angeles won from Jim Barry of Chicago in the 39th round before the Jeffries Athletic club last night. Barry's seconds threw a towel into the ring in the middle of the 39th round, after their man had been badly beaten and was all but out.

The contest from the standpoint of a scientific boxing match was one of the very poorest that has been seen here in years. Neither man showed any championship material whatever, although Barry exhibited gameness and some cleverness.

His blows, however, did not greatly damage Kaufman, and he never seemed to follow any advantage that he had. Kaufman's showing was most mediocre. He was slow and awkward. He could not even put his man out when he had him at his mercy.

There was much clinching throughout the fight and the audience grew very tired before the fight had progressed 10 rounds.

In the ninth round Barry all but knocked Kaufman out with a blow to the jaw. He had the San Francisco man groggy for a moment, but could not put him out.

Both men did what little fighting was done almost entirely for the face. There was very little playing for the body.

The betting was about 2 to 1 on Kaufman, but little money was placed. The men fought for 50 per cent of the gate receipts, with a guarantee of $2500 each. Charles Eytan was referee.
