I. C. Hattabaugh and wife, from Grangeville, were among the fair visitors yesterday.

Chas. Elmer, private secretary to Governor Gooding, is expected to arrive in the city this week on official business.

Congressman Burton L. French arrived in the city yesterday on the early morning train and spent the day at the fair.

James L. Armstrong is a visitor to the big fair this week from Juliaetta where he is now engaged in the milling business.

The county commissioners expect to complete the work of the present session Saturday. This week has been given over principally to road matters.

Lucius McGuire is in the city from Seattle where he is now located as deputy in one of the county offices. He will spend the remainder of the week visiting old friends.

J. L. Chapman, Lewiston's efficient postmaster, was elected grand-master of the grand lodge I. O. O. F. at its election of officers for the ensuing year Wednesday.

J. D. McGary, a prominent piano dealer of Moscow, and F. Christner, the wholesale representative of the Cable-Nelson Piano company, are in the city this week on a business mission.

J. W. King and Minnie A. Fenell were united in marriage by Rev. W. T. Euster of the M. E. Church in Lewiston, Wednesday noon, October 18. A company of relatives and friends were present.

Bales & Jones, of Cottonwood, are feeding 40 head of cattle at that place to supply the Lewiston market. Ben Dill, who has the contract to supply the railroad camps, has purchased from the stock all he will need to furnish the demands of the several crews.

Stowall, who is in the lead in the cowboy's relay race, is the winner in a similar event pulled off in Spokane last week. He is an expert in changing saddles and has a fancy hitch on his cinch that the others have not discovered.

Butterfield & Jensen have sold out the Clearwater Fuel company business to J. M. Jolly, of Moscow, who has taken charge and will conduct the business personally. Mr. Jolly has purchased a residence property on the hill and will move his family here at once.

M. F. Gose, of Pomeroy, is an attendant at the district court this week where he is attorney for Felix Warren in the condemnation suit brought by the Lewiston-Sweetwater Irrigation company to condemn and appraise the land wanted for one of their reservoirs.

State Senator Barney O'Neill is in the city this week from Wallace. He is in attendance at the sessions of the grand lodge and denies the soft impeachment that his present visit has anything to do with his political aspirations. His friends are urging him to run for governor.

An incident of a lively street runaway that occurred yesterday morning was the fact that a saddle horse jumped into the rig and lodged in the front over the double trees and was carried this way over a block, being rescued when the team was stopped and escaped without damage.

Nex Perce county has refused to issue the $60,000 warrant wanted to pay the Shoshone indebtedness and the matter will now be taken to the supreme court where Shoshone county will ask for a writ of mandamus to compel the payment of the county as shown by the returns of the accountants.

The steamer Norma arrived in the city yesterday and discharged a cargo of salt at the Clarkston dock. The shipment comprised 23 tons. The Norma was injured at Dry Gulch and only temporarily repaired to complete the trip. She will be put on the ways after her return to Riparia and will be ten days undergoing repairs.

Captain Harry Baughman has returned from the Yukon district where he went early in May on a package in steamboating. He was master on a vessel that plied between Dawson and the White Horse rapids during the past five months. The traffic season has now closed on the Yukon and he has returned to Lewiston to spend the winter with his family.

The town is filled with pickpockets and it will take vigilant work on the part of the local police to keep the fair visitors from getting their pockets picked. One man was arrested at the fair grounds yesterday for trying to lift a diamond pin from the scarf of A. D. Griffin. Sheriff Richards made the arrest. E. J. Bonhore, of Lewiston, detected the man in the act of lifting the pin and called the officer to the case.

The subject for the M. E. pulpit Sunday morning at 8:30 Main street will be "Through the Gateway of Death

Into the Paradise of Life." In the evening the subject will be "Gleams of Golden Light Precursors of a Brighter Day." Young people meet at 6:30 p. m. in the League room. The Sabbath school convenes at 10 a. m. Sunday. Topic for prayer meeting, "The Dearth of a Vital Purpose in Christ Life." W. T. Euster, pastor.

Messrs. Carter and Hillis, representing the Peters Cartridge company, are giving each day at the grounds some very clean cut exhibitions of their marksmanship. Tin cans thrown in the air are riddled before they can again reach the earth. Blue rocks two and three at a time are thrown up and with a single barrel gun the shooter gets them all before they fall. Small disks thrown in the air are shattered with rifle bullets, showing marvelous accuracy. Stone marbles are not too small for the "good eyes" of the skillful marksmen and they break them with lightning-like rapidity.

IRON ORE IN THE WEST

Prediction that the Pacific Coast Will Develop a Second Pittsburg.

Portland, Oct. 17.—The discovery of vast deposits of iron ore of the finest nature on the Pacific coast and within a very short distance of Portland, has caused a sensation among mining men. Dr. David T. Day, chief of the mining division of the United States geological survey, told in a brief way through the Telegram of the marvelously rich deposits of magnetite, that he said rivalled the ore from which the famous Norway iron and steel were made. When the importance of this find to the coast and especially to Portland, was suggested, Dr. Day repeated his statements, and gave additional facts of a character calculated to cause a profound sensation wherever are gathered men interested in the steel and iron industry.

"All that is needed to make Portland the Pittsburg of the west," said Dr. Day, "and to establish at a dozen points on the Pacific coast iron industries that will rival those of the eastern states, is the application of capital and enterprise in the treatment of the raw material that lies in limitless quantities at a hundred places along the shores of Oregon, Washington and California."

This remarkable announcement following the story on the subject in yesterday's Telegram is the result of the investigations that were quietly pushed during the past few months by Dr. Day and his associates, who have treated a variety of black sands taken from bays, river beds and other places inland and along the coast. The results of their experiments in the extraction of gold from certain of these sands have been made known. The discovery of the highest grade and the most valuable iron known to the world—and that in almost inexhaustible quantities—is the latest development.

At the mouth of the Columbia river Dr. Day and his associates have discovered deposits whose extent is hardly calculable of the finest magnetite, or magnetic iron, known in the world, and the doctor's modest statement is that this discovery rivals in importance the richest strike of iron in the Lake Superior region. Dr. Day says:

"This is the same sort of ore as that from which the famous Norway iron and steel—with which the world as yet has nothing else to compare—is made. In Norway and Germany iron manufacturers have for years been working this magnetite, and turning out products that are the despair of the other iron producers of the world."

Further, the deposit we found at the mouth of the Columbia is only one of 500 or more along the coast. There is abundant reason for the belief that there are similar beds of magnetite at the mouths of all the streams emptying into the Pacific in the northwest. Magnetite, as is well known, is the richest of all iron ores. The deposits we have found are far superior to those of the Lake Superior region, and they are in every way equal to the ores of Norway from which the world-renowned Norway iron and steel are made.

Dr. Day made the sensational announcement that from a ton of the black sand which he had treated 633 pounds of iron were secured. A carload of the black sand, he found, was one third pure magnetite.

For months Dr. Day has been convinced that deposits of this sort would be found along the Pacific coast, but it was not until recently that the existence of the material in commercial quantities was positively made known. Then the chief of the mining division of the United States geological survey set about getting the services of the best known electric smelters available for experiments in the reduction of the ores.

C. E. Wilson, a man of national fame in this line of work was engaged, and he and Dr. Day last week built and put into operation a small electric smelting plant. The results given were those of the first trial run of the smelter.

"The people of the northwest," said Dr. Day today "deserve the appellation of barbarians until you make your own iron and steel. As long as you continue importing everything needed in the iron and steel line from the east you are merely colonies or dependencies of the east.

"With the inexhaustible deposits of the highest grade of magnetic iron at your doors, and easily reduced, you can make anything known or needed in the iron and steel line."

But the discovery of magnetite on the coast is not the only result of the investigations that have been made by Dr. Day since he began his work at the fair. A mineral known as monazite—so named because it is so rare—is used largely in the manufacture of the mantels of the Welsbach gas burner. Hitherto all the mineral so used has been secured in Brazil, save a small quantity mined in North Carolina. Dr. Day makes the interesting announcement that great beds of the substance have been found within a short distance of Portland. Another mineral, known as zircon, used in the manufacture of the e-Nernst light, has also been found near here.

SALE OF STATE BUILDINGS

Three Already Disposed of and Others Soon to Follow.

Portland, Oct. 17.—Thus far but three of the state buildings—those of New York, Illinois and Maine—have been sold, but negotiations are under way for the disposition of several of the others, and it is probable that a number of sales will be made before the end of the week.

The New York building was sold to Paul Wessinger, the Maine building to A. Burkhardt, and the Illinois building was transferred to E. Versteeg, of Portland, for $450. Mr. Burkhardt paid $550 for the Maine building and will move it to a lot near his present home.

The Washington building as it stands represents an outlay of about $35,000. Finished lumber was used throughout in its construction. Commissioner Johnston says the structure is for sale, but that the state is in no hurry to sell, and will take down and remove it to Washington rather than sell at too great a sacrifice.

The California building is another structure that involved a considerable expenditure. Its original cost was about $30,000. A Portland man is negotiating for its purchase with a view to using the material in the construction of a warehouse.

The Oregon building is for sale and bids have been submitted. The structure originally cost $9,250. The furniture has been disposed of.

Massachusetts expended about $12,000 in the construction of its building, and will sell the structure, the gas and electric and other fixtures going with it, for considerably less. Commissioner Fairbank thinks the state ought to get at least $6,000 for the building.

The Colorado building, the smallest on the ground, is still in the hands of the Colorado State Commission, but will probably be sold soon. The building cost about $1,200.

The Idaho commissioners planned to remove the Idaho building to Boise, but this scheme has been abandoned. A deal for a trade with a Portland man is now under way.

OTHER CHARGES PREFERRED

Senator Mitchell and Congressman Williamson Face Another Charge.

Portland, Oct. 17.—Senator Mitchell, Congressman J. N. Williamson and Willard N. Jones must undergo trial on another, entirely separate indictment, and if found guilty, they will probably have to pay yet heavier penalties for breaking the laws they swore to uphold. With them in the forthcoming trial are involved Congressman Ringer Hermann, who must also face two different indictments, and George Sorenson and F. P. Mays.

The case involving these defendants may be the first tried after court meets again; at any rate, it will be one set for an early hearing. It is known as the Blue Mountain Forest Reserve case, and the indictment setting forth the alleged crime charges that on January 15, 1902, the defendants conspired to defraud the United States of 200,000 acres of valuable lands by obtaining possession of 150,000 acres of school lands in Crook, Grant, Harney, Malheur, Baker, Union, Umatilla and Wallowa counties, which were still vacant because they were arid and worthless. Other lands amounting to 50,000 acres were to be acquired in furtherance of the scheme.

The plan was to get these lands, says the indictment, by procuring persons to purchase at the usual rate charged by the state for school land, which is $1.25 an acre; no one person can acquire more than 320 acres in this manner. It was then the object of the defendants, it was charged, to have a forest reserve established in the said counties, relinquish the lands included by the proposed reserve, and in exchange for the lands so surrendered gain acreage of value in the different states still open for settlement by the lien-land act.

These, in brief, are the allegations of the government. It is believed by the government that a strong case is presented against the defendants by the evidence at hand and that even if the appeals to the higher courts for review of the previous cases in which Mitchell, Williamson and Jones were convicted, are as successful as is hoped by the defendants, and new trials allowed, they will be found guilty on the new charges awaiting them.

Letters from the defendants to each other in regard to the creation of the proposed forest reserve, and urging the best steps necessary to bring it about, are affixed to the indictment, and will be perhaps the strongest evidence to be produced by the government. It is said these show that Senator Mitchell and Congressman Williamson were to prepare the bill for the creation of the reserve and to try to secure its passage, while Ringer Hermann, as commissioner of the general land office, was to recommend its creation to the secretary of the interior.

Simmons-Werhan.

Ilo, Oct. 16.—One of Ilo's most popular young couples were married Sunday in the presence of a great crowd of friends and relatives of the couple. The contracting parties were Miss Alta W. Simmons and Mr. William F. Werhan. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents three miles southeast of Ilo. Elder John S. McDonald, of the Christian church officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Lottie S. Simmons. The groom was attended by Mr. John C. Brooks. Following the ceremony the bridal party enjoyed a wedding dinner. The newly married couple will reside near Ilo.

Wedding Last Sunday.

After the ceremony and congratulations a delicious lunch was served and the afternoon passed in social converse and music. The couple will make this part of the country their home.

Game Birds Flock Along the River.

The passengers on the Clearwater train coming into Lewiston on Wednesday morning were treated to a novel and interesting sight between the mouth of the North Fork and Potlatch Junction. There were myriads of wild ducks and geese along the river in the water, on the bars, or hovering about the mouths of the small creeks that put into the Clearwater. As the train sped along the bank of the stream they would rise in great numbers from their resting places and fly for short distances, then light again, apparently hesitating to encounter the snowstorm that was raging along the upper breaks of the canyon. While the water fowl are usually quite numerous at this season of the year along the Clearwater, no such aggregation of them was ever seen in this section before, at least not by any of the passengers on the train.

At Lenore Chas. Green succeeded in killing three large geese while the train was in sight and Express Messenger Harry Brew killed one with a shot gun from the moving train just as it was rounding the curve at the big eddy.

J. A. Kramer, a cattle buyer from Astin, Wash., was in Orofino Wednesday afternoon and Thursday of this week. Mr. Kramer is looking for beef cattle just at present but will be in the market later for stock cattle. He will buy two year olds and yearlings. At present he will be found at the Hotel Noble, but may make some arrangements for a local man to represent him here for some time.
