LAND NOTICE PIRATES.

The Budget is the name of a new paper recently established at St. Joe, Idaho, up above St. Maries. As it contains only two local ads it is quite evident it is started for the purpose of securing a large lot of timber land final proof notices which it is expected will shortly come in from that district. Had Washington and Idaho laws similar to some states, requiring newspapers to be at least one year old before they can do legal work, this establishing of mushroom newspapers to gobble up the cream of the legals in the face of old established and legitimate publications, would not be possible, and such a law should be enacted in each state by the next legislatures. That's the way the Rockford Register spake out in meetin'. The objection to these free-boaters, these pot hunters, these gorillas in the field of newspaper publishing is well taken, and in that respect we heartily endorse it. But with the remedy suggested we cannot fully agree. It would be manifestly unfair to legitimate new publications—and the Rockford brother's publication is not so venerable but he will admit the perfect legitimacy of newspaper birth is frequent—to deny them the privilege of publishing legal notices. As well make it illegal to deny an attorney the right to practice until one year after his admission to the bar, or a physician or surgeon the same right until after his sheepskin begins to curl at the edges from age. Had such a law been in operation in the states named for the past ten or twenty years, some of the best and most influential publications in the west—staunch and true champions of the people and of public progress—would have died a borning. It is possible that the future still holds similar contingencies. Would not a better and a more just remedy be a law requiring of new publications the proving of a bona fide subscription list of at least 500 before they could qualify to publish legal notices? In many of the older states there are similar laws that have been operating with entire satisfaction; and especially is this true in county printing contracts, the law requiring that the county matters be published in the two papers of greatest circulation. This is more fair to the public who pays the freight. The primary intent of the law requiring the publication of legal notices was the widest possible notification to an interested public. But avaricious human nature, while complying with the letter of the publicity laws, has established the practice of evading its intent by burying such notices in obscure sheets of little or no circulation. We have no use for the piratical land notice sheets, and in justice to the legitimate and hard working newspapers that constitute the vanguard of the army of progress in the Inland Empire, they ought by some means to be prohibited. It may occur to some that an effective prohibitory measure would be a law making it a misdemeanor in office for a public official to have any pecuniary interest in the publication of such notices as pass through his hands. Surely there should be some remedy for the evil. Agitation through the public press is the means by which to secure it.—Moscow Times.

GIBSON'S MASTERPIECE.

(From the editorial columns of the Fremont County News-Chronicle.)
We are led to believe, from a perusal of the columns of the Teton Peak during the past few weeks, that our esteemed contemporary has suffered grievous wrongs from various sources. Merchants whom the Peak has affronted refuse to advertise in its columns or patronize its job printing, and politicians who made all kinds of promises before election are now trying to forget. So the Peak is adopting a bulldozing policy, which we are compelled to admit, seems to frighten no one. In fact, parties roasted by the Republican ring organ have the supreme effort to be amused at the whole proceeding.

Now, this is hardly fair. In fact, it is the refinement of cruelty. People who have incurred the Peak's ill-will and been given a jolt, ought to hasten around to the editor's office and make things right. A persistent ignoring of these little rhetorical jabs from the faber of the Peak's gifted editor will in time create a suspicion that that paper has no force in the community. Therefore, it is the duty of every good citizen, if he ever discovers that he has been jabbed, to publicly acknowledge his dereliction from duty and ask to be jabbed again, please.

It is really a very sad state of affairs, and we hope those hard-hearted ones who have adopted the silent contempt policy will think better of it. It would indeed be scandalous if the impression should go abroad that the Teton Peak was not the whole thing in St. Anthony and Fremont county.

Last week the Salt Lake Tribune gave a column of front page space to an article contributed (most likely unsolicited) to "Outdoor Life," by H. K. Glidden, who has become famous in this part from the amount of bad whisky he can soak up and the multitudes he has "beaten." The article scores the "guides" and "game wardens" of the Hole, and no doubt some things stated are the truth, but if Glidden had known he was telling the truth it would have given him pleasure to have changed his statements. It is presumed that "Outdoor Life" solicits good articles from responsible persons of wide experience in the game and sporting regions, but when it recognizes such drunken soots and dead beats as the above named, people who are familiar with him and his habits, lose respect for such periodicals. There is no excuse for the Tribune. Glidden's record is known to the entire force on that valuable journal. There are lots of bad people in Jackson's Hole, no doubt, but the worst of them are angels compared with Glidden.

The new editor of the Fremont County News is still and perhaps will always be a blushing, unsophisticated young man. The following from the first issue of his compilation of exchanges, will give the reader some idea as to the sufferings of these young bloods:

"When you see a young man sitting in a parlor with the ugliest 4-year-old boy that ever frightened himself in a mirror clambering over his knees, jerking his shirt front, pulling his hair, kicking his shins, feeling in all his pockets for nickels, while the unresisting victim smiles all the time like the cover of a comic paper, you may safely say that the howling boy has a sister who is in a room not twenty feet away, and that the young man doesn't come there for the fun of playing with her brother."

There are exceptions to the above. Sometimes the mischievous young chap is a son of the courted and blushing young lady.

The Fremont County News is ready to copy or write anything that is intended as a slur at Col. T. R. Hamer. It is surprising that our contemporary can not conceive of something more elevating than allowing articles, either copied or original to appear in its columns which are intended to injure a representative citizen, and especially a man who has labored for years to build up St. Anthony and Fremont county. It should please Fremont Democrats and Republicans alike, to see Col. Hamer elected United States senator.

The holiday edition of the Montpelier Examiner came to us last week published in magazine form. It contains some good half tone cuts and information about Montpelier and Bear Lake county. It is a credit to the editor, Chas. E. Harris.

The Sugar Beet.

Colorado farmers have discovered that sugar beets are valuable as hog feed and are refusing to ship them to the sugar factory. This news comes from Monte Vista, Colorado in a dispatch to the Denver News, and is as follows:

Farmers here are refusing to ship their sugar beets on account of the late development of the fact that the sugar beet is almost phenomenal in its hog fattening qualities. One farmer stated recently that while the value of his beets at the factory was $4.50 a ton, they were worth $15 per ton in his hog pen.

The sugar beet not only fattens hogs, but makes prime market pork, very little, if any grain finishing qualities required, the beet fattened hog shrinking scarcely any in shipping.

Stockmen and farmers are alike of the opinion that this new sugar development will extend to the hog-raising industry of the state and, also, largely increase Colorado's sugar beet area.

The pork produced by sugar beet feeding is at once firm and sweet and resembles in appearance the famous "peach orchard" of the south, the hogs, however, being much heavier than their southern brethren.

As a producer of fine "breakfast bacon," the sugar beet-fed porker will, it is claimed, discount anything ever placed on the general market.

One ton of beets will fully fatten a hog, with an average shipping weight of 250 to 300 pounds.

It is expected that the sugar beet can be used in the fattening of block cattle as well as hogs.—Deseret News.

Farmers Will Organize.

The "National Society of Equity of North America" was incorporated at Indianapolis, Dec. 24. It has been organized after months of correspondence from all parts of the country. Among its objects are:

To promote and encourage organization and co-operation among farmers, stockmen, horticulturists, gardeners, and men of kindred vocations, by the establishment of a national society.

To obtain profitable prices for all products of farm, garden and orchard.

To encourage the building and maintenance of elevators, cold storage houses and warehouses in the principal market cities, or all the localities where necessary, so that farm products may be held for advantageous prices.

To secure legislation in the interest of agriculture, horticulture, stock raising and gardening.

To secure staple rates of transportation.

To open up new markets and enlarge old ones.

To encourage the establishment of institutions of learning so that farmers and their sons and daughters may be educated in scientific and intensive farming, and for the general advancement of agriculture.

President Everitt says:
"We expect to organize the millions engaged in agriculture. Knowing the amounts of crops produced and the consumption from past experience, an equitable minimum price will be fixed by the directors of the national body and reported afterwards to all parts of the country. Once fixed, the price will rule on that crop for a year."—Deseret News.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Croup, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygen to the blood. Watson & Moore.

Defendant
Summons.

To John B. Archer, Defendant:
You are hereby summoned and required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Fifth Judicial District of the State of Idaho, in and for the County of Fremont, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days exclusive of the day of service after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; or if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; or if served elsewhere, within forty days. The said action is brought to forever dissolve the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant on the grounds that, on or about October 1, 1900, defendant wilfully and without cause deserted and abandoned plaintiff and ever since has and still continues to wilfully and without cause desert and abandon plaintiff and live separate and apart from her without sufficient cause or reason, and against her will and without her consent, and that ever since said October 1, 1900, defendant has failed to provide plaintiff the common necessities of life, because of the idleness, profligacy and dissipation of defendant; for the custody of Lot Bond Archer, aged three years the only issue of the marriage of said plaintiff and defendant; for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief as to the Court may seem just, all of which more fully appears from plaintiff's complaint filed herein, a copy of which is hereto attached, hereby referred to, and made a part hereof.
