

Circulation of this issue 1000

THE TETON PEAK

Official Paper of Fremont County

VOL. IV

ST. ANTHONY, FREMONT COUNTY, IDAHO, THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1903.

NO. 46

A. K. Steunenberg, President.

G. E. Bowerman, Cashier.

First National Bank

(Charter No. 5764.)

We want your banking business and offer you every facility consistent with good business methods. Money to loan on approved security. Liberal advances made to those wish to purchase cattle or sheep. Office hours from 9 o'clock to 4.

THE ONLY NATIONAL BANK IN FREMONT COUNTY.

The St. Anthony Banking Co.

Accounts of Farmers, Stockmen and Merchants Solicited. A General Banking and Collection business transacted. Interest paid on time deposits. Every accommodation extended, consistent with Sound Banking business. A portion of your business respectfully solicited. G. C. BAKER, President.

Dr. N. Newman, the European Eye Specialist of Pocatello, Idaho, who is making regular trips every three months in this vicinity, will be at the RIVERSIDE HOTEL March 16, 17 and 18th. Dr. Newman is a graduate of the best schools in America and Europe. His wonderful system of correcting errors of the sight has given hundreds better vision and saved many from blindness. Dr. Newman fits glasses for all defects of vision, also for headache, indigestion, dyspepsia. Complicated cases specially solicited. Cross Eyes in children straightened without the use of medicine or the knife.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Consultation Free. DR. N. NEWMAN, Eye Specialist.

Discrepancy in Accounts of Official.

The state affairs committee, in conducting its work of investigation of the management of the departments of the state government under the preceding administration, found what appeared to be a discrepancy of $647.50 in the accounts of the secretary of state. When Robert Osborne, who was Mr. Bassett's chief clerk, was called in he was astonished, saying there could be no such discrepancy. He was asked to go over the matter with the accountants employed by the committee, and when this had been done he was satisfied there was a discrepancy. A number of items were readily explained, however, bringing the total down to $533.85.

Mr. Bassett was also before the committee and assisted in clearing up the matter so far as he could and announced his readiness to pay over any sum for which he should be found to be responsible. Mr. Bassett explained, in talking with a representative of the Statesman, that this apparent discrepancy grew out of unpaid accounts. After the new fee law for the filing of articles of incorporation went into effect it was a long time before persons making such filings understood what the rates were. Many articles were sent in for filing accompanied by the old fee of $10. The papers would be filed and the person who had sent them notified of the balance due. In many instances these balances had not been remitted. In other cases persons sending in articles had been trusted and had failed to remit. Mr. Bassett said he fully realized he was responsible for such unpaid accounts, but he was astonished to find they had reached such a sum.—Statesman.

Daily Transfers.

St. Anthony, Idaho, March 5, 1903. The following transfers, submitted by Hammond & Robble, abstractors, have taken place during the past week: Samuel Adams to John R. Clay, 20 acres in sec 14 of nw 1/4 of sec 18, tp 6 n, r 40 e, m. Con. $600.00 Ezekiel Jacobs to Jas. R. Johnson, 1/2 of sec 14 of nw 1/4 sec 2, tp 6 n, r 40 e, m. Con. $80.00 A. W. Peil to Silas D. Wardle, sw 1/4 of sec 13, tp 7 n, r 39 e, m. Con. $50.00 Wm. W. Youmans to David L. Blevins, lots 11, 12 and 1/2 of sec 13, block 27, St. Anthony, Con. $400.00 Chas. H. Bird to Judiah Bird, lot 3, block 5, Teton, Con. $200.00 Wm. A. Judy to Ulrich Fisher, 5 acres in sw 1/4 of ne 1/4 sec 5, tp 6 n, r 40 e, m. Con. $10.00

Business Cards.

W. J. MIDDLETON, PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Office opposite Post Office Building. St. Anthony, Idaho.

Dr. J. H. McPHERSON, Dentist. St. Anthony, Idaho.

THOMAS R. HAMER, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. St. Anthony, Idaho.

MILLER M. HARSHBARGER, PHYSICIAN, SURGEON, & ACCOUCHEUR. Opposite Post Office. Hour 10-11 A. M., 1-2:30 P. M., Sundays 2-3 P. M. In office nights. Phone No. 60. ST. ANTHONY, IDAHO.

J. R. KING, J. D. MILLSAPS, KING & MILLSAPS, ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Practice in all State and Federal Courts. Rooms 14 and 15 Ross-Hamer Building. St. Anthony, Idaho.

L. BLEVINS, M. D., PHYSICIAN & SURGEON. Calls day or night promptly answered. ST. ANTHONY, IDAHO.

JAMES G. GWINN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. ST. ANTHONY, IDAHO.

The scene of the "Three Musketeers" is laid during the reign of Louis XIII. The plot is centered around the romantic figure of D'Artagnan, an adventurer, who, by mischance, makes a challenge from each of the "Three Musketeers," and by his admirable sword play actually overcomes two of them. The Musketeers are so taken up with his generosity that they become fast friends. Annie Austria, queen of France, is enraptured with the Duke of Buckingham, and in a moment of enthusiasm gives the duke twelve diamond studs, a gift from the king. Cardinal Richelieu learns of it, and to ruin the queen, plays upon the king's jealousy, who desires the queen to wear the studs at a state ball to be given in a few days. D'Artagnan is by chance sent to recover the studs, which after many trials and adventures, he succeeds in doing, just in time to save the queen from disgrace, and happily balking the wily Cardinal.

John S. Lindsay is Here. John S. Lindsay, supported by a strong company is here for a three nights engagement. They will put on "Michael Strogoff" this evening. Tomorrow night the "Three Musketeers" will be given, and on Saturday night "Faust."

The scene of the "Three Musketeers" is laid during the reign of Louis XIII. The plot is centered around the romantic figure of D'Artagnan, an adventurer, who, by mischance, makes a challenge from each of the "Three Musketeers," and by his admirable sword play actually overcomes two of them. The Musketeers are so taken up with his generosity that they become fast friends. Annie Austria, queen of France, is enraptured with the Duke of Buckingham, and in a moment of enthusiasm gives the duke twelve diamond studs, a gift from the king. Cardinal Richelieu learns of it, and to ruin the queen, plays upon the king's jealousy, who desires the queen to wear the studs at a state ball to be given in a few days. D'Artagnan is by chance sent to recover the studs, which after many trials and adventures, he succeeds in doing, just in time to save the queen from disgrace, and happily balking the wily Cardinal.

L. BLEVINS, M. D., PHYSICIAN & SURGEON. Calls day or night promptly answered. ST. ANTHONY, IDAHO.

JAMES G. GWINN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. ST. ANTHONY, IDAHO.

The scene of the "Three Musketeers" is laid during the reign of Louis XIII. The plot is centered around the romantic figure of D'Artagnan, an adventurer, who, by mischance, makes a challenge from each of the "Three Musketeers," and by his admirable sword play actually overcomes two of them. The Musketeers are so taken up with his generosity that they become fast friends. Annie Austria, queen of France, is enraptured with the Duke of Buckingham, and in a moment of enthusiasm gives the duke twelve diamond studs, a gift from the king. Cardinal Richelieu learns of it, and to ruin the queen, plays upon the king's jealousy, who desires the queen to wear the studs at a state ball to be given in a few days. D'Artagnan is by chance sent to recover the studs, which after many trials and adventures, he succeeds in doing, just in time to save the queen from disgrace, and happily balking the wily Cardinal.

The scene of the "Three Musketeers" is laid during the reign of Louis XIII. The plot is centered around the romantic figure of D'Artagnan, an adventurer, who, by mischance, makes a challenge from each of the "Three Musketeers," and by his admirable sword play actually overcomes two of them. The Musketeers are so taken up with his generosity that they become fast friends. Annie Austria, queen of France, is enraptured with the Duke of Buckingham, and in a moment of enthusiasm gives the duke twelve diamond studs, a gift from the king. Cardinal Richelieu learns of it, and to ruin the queen, plays upon the king's jealousy, who desires the queen to wear the studs at a state ball to be given in a few days. D'Artagnan is by chance sent to recover the studs, which after many trials and adventures, he succeeds in doing, just in time to save the queen from disgrace, and happily balking the wily Cardinal.

The scene of the "Three Musketeers" is laid during the reign of Louis XIII. The plot is centered around the romantic figure of D'Artagnan, an adventurer, who, by mischance, makes a challenge from each of the "Three Musketeers," and by his admirable sword play actually overcomes two of them. The Musketeers are so taken up with his generosity that they become fast friends. Annie Austria, queen of France, is enraptured with the Duke of Buckingham, and in a moment of enthusiasm gives the duke twelve diamond studs, a gift from the king. Cardinal Richelieu learns of it, and to ruin the queen, plays upon the king's jealousy, who desires the queen to wear the studs at a state ball to be given in a few days. D'Artagnan is by chance sent to recover the studs, which after many trials and adventures, he succeeds in doing, just in time to save the queen from disgrace, and happily balking the wily Cardinal.

The scene of the "Three Musketeers" is laid during the reign of Louis XIII. The plot is centered around the romantic figure of D'Artagnan, an adventurer, who, by mischance, makes a challenge from each of the "Three Musketeers," and by his admirable sword play actually overcomes two of them. The Musketeers are so taken up with his generosity that they become fast friends. Annie Austria, queen of France, is enraptured with the Duke of Buckingham, and in a moment of enthusiasm gives the duke twelve diamond studs, a gift from the king. Cardinal Richelieu learns of it, and to ruin the queen, plays upon the king's jealousy, who desires the queen to wear the studs at a state ball to be given in a few days. D'Artagnan is by chance sent to recover the studs, which after many trials and adventures, he succeeds in doing, just in time to save the queen from disgrace, and happily balking the wily Cardinal.

A Sermon.

Delivered in the First Presbyterian Church, March 1, 1903, by the Rev. Will Stuart Wilson, Pastor, from 1st Corinthians 9:26.

Probably in no character was there combined a loyalty to his master and a perfectly consistent independency of character that we find exemplified in the Apostle Paul. Paul was absolutely fearless where Paul was concerned and as absolutely subservient in his relation to the Christ. Paul was at once the "free man" in Jesus Christ, and the "slave" of Jesus Christ. Fidelity marked his life and idleness crowned his death. Paul's orthodoxy had been called in question by his very apostolate challenged by them that did "examine" him. Heterodoxy has ever been upon the lips of an alarmed, entrenched bigotry since the world began. A cheap cry hurled against Paul's Master when the haughty Pharisee accused him of blasphemy as he ran counter to the prevalent theologic dictum of his day. The best men of all time since have met in the Christian work, indeed all the petty envious of a confessedly smaller mind. "Littleness" has ever been jealous of greatness and has not lacked the barbed arrow of meddlesome malice to wound. There have been theologians without number; confessions and creeds, articles and creeds, innumerable, modes, baptisms, many; shibboleths galore. These have their place and day, but as they emanate from man they partake too often of his humanity rather than God's divinity. They have their place, but it is well to remember ever, that though diverted as they supposedly are, from Holy Writ, yet the "deeper" in each case is a very humbled, true and from his humanity liable to err. Never should the confessing of man receive greater emphasis than the revealing word of God, never should humanity cloud Divinity. Man grows in knowledge and in grace, or man stands still. What yesterday's you are today, today may possibly reject and tomorrow materially alter. The 17th century could not bind the 18th; neither could the 18th bind the generations that followed it ecclesiastically or otherwise. Politically we deem it most unwise that one generation should encumber succeeding ones with the debris of their waste. Within the religious realm this axiom is of equal weight. Education and scientific research with "seven leagues" have advanced, are advancing, by giant strides. Scholarship was never more assiduous or more universal in its scope and bearing than in the present day. The master hearing of his fame as a spiritual leader of his kind, sought him out and besought him earnestly, in his exhortations to remember and bear down with especial weight upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Today this message is as powerful and as needed as in any past age. "Woe" to any man who has been honored with it if he preach that message in all its purity and grace. Men eagerly desire it and are earnestly seeking it. They come to the house of God, seeking its healing power, and "woe" to the ambassador of "Him" who fails them in their need. A man seeks relief within the sanctuary from the temptations and "trials" of a busy and care-filled life. Too often instead of pure religion and undisturbed, he is fed ironically with some theological treatise upon the sin of stealing. Zebulon hummed and Zebulon hewed and Zebulon huz his woolly head. Finally he said, "I just can't, I just got no wampum in that subject."

Death of Mart Patrie.

Mart Patrie, one of the best known citizens of Idaho, died at his residence in Market Lake last Thursday morning at 1:50 from a complicated case of diabetes and heart trouble.

Mr. Patrie was born in Baden, Germany, February 28, 1846. He came to America with his parents in 1852, and settled in the state of New York. In 1874 he moved to Kansas and began life there on a farm. His excellent qualities and noble character attracted the admiration of his neighbors, and in 1876 he was elected sheriff of Washington county, which office he held for four years. His introduction into Idaho in 1888 was in the capacity of a traveling man, representing a firm in St. Joseph, Mo. In 1890 he was elected clerk and recorder of Bingham county. He served as chairman of the republican state central committee during the campaign of 1896, and in 1898 he was elected secretary of the state of Idaho. He was nominated for a second term, but was defeated by the fusion forces that elected Jule C. Bassett. During the past campaign he served as chairman of the republican county committee of Fremont county. In all his work for the county and state he was very faithful and conscientiously discharged every duty. Mr. Patrie was a prominent Mason. He belonged to Eagle Rock lodge, A. F. & A. M., No. 19, of Idaho Falls, and a Sir Knight in Gate City commandery, K. T. No. 4, in this city. There survives him a wife and three children, the eldest being Dr. Walter E. Patrie, surgeon in the United States army now stationed at Port Townsend. The remains were interred in Market Lake cemetery, Sunday, March 1, under the auspices of the Masons.—Pocatello Tribune.

Accidentally Shot.

Mrs. Frank J. Smith, wife of a prominent attorney, was accidentally shot and badly wounded at her home in Caldwell Friday. Some time ago the residence of Mr. Smith was entered by burglars and the attorney was frequently absent from home he purchased his wife a pistol. The accident happened while Mrs. Smith was attempting to get a handkerchief from a grip. In some manner the handkerchief caught on the trigger of the pistol and exploded the weapon. The bullet entering her chest and lodging near the spine. Unless blood-poisoning should develop, it is believed that Mrs. Smith will recover.

Idaho Affairs at the Capital.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The bill appropriating $50,000 for survey of the Idaho-Montana line has now passed the senate and goes to the president for his signature, and is then a law. P. G. Johnston of Blackfoot, is here to get a permit to graze sheep on Teton forest reserve. Senator Dubois today filed a joint memorial of the Idaho legislature against the enlarging of the Bitter Root forest reserve. How often we hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is flat upon his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should never be let go, disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and it is pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists.

Local Troup Good.

The local show company which produced "The Knights of Athens" at the opera house last night, under the auspices of Ruth Rebekah Lodge No. 48, was far above the anticipations of the large audience which greeted the new artists. Contrary to the custom of local talent, everything went off without a break. This was due mainly to the experienced manager, Mr. Edgar Carey, who had charge of the company. The St. Anthony Orchestra merited its share of the applause. They played several overtures and marches which made a "hit" for them.

Engineer's Close Call.

The engineer at the Porter sawmill in Island Park had a very narrow escape from being scalded to death on the 18th inst. The big boiler which had just recently been set up was supported by timbers, the masonry work not being completed, which gave away letting the boiler down and breaking a four inch elbow. The steam and water escaped filling the engine room with steam and blinding the engineer, who fortunately was standing a few feet at one side of the pipe when it burst. He succeeded in making his escape with only a dreadful scald.

Timber and Stone Act.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The minority members of the senate committee on public lands made an adverse report on the bill to repeal the timber and stone act and the commutation clause of the homestead act. The report states that while certain amendments might be made to prevent abuses of these acts, they do not deem it wise to repeal the acts in toto. The general understanding is that nothing will be done toward the repealing of these acts at this session.

Notice.

The Fremont County Teachers' Association will meet at Rexburg, Saturday, March 7, 1903. President Stewart of the Utah State Normal will address the teachers at 10:30 a. m. and at 2 p. m. He will also give general lectures on the evenings of March 6 and 7. Teachers are specially requested to attend. All friends of education welcome. GRACE M. TAYLOR, Co. Supt.

Sugar Bill Passed.

Boise, Ida. Feb. 4.—(Special to the PEAK.) The senate, this morning, passed the sugar beet bounty bill by a vote of 13 to 8. The bill provides a bounty of one cent per pound for all beet sugar manufactured in this state.

Old Folks' Reunion.

The committees are busily arranging for the "old folks'" reunion or party which is set for the 18th of this month at Parker. A very interesting program is being prepared and a grand time is expected. The invitations will be issued next week, so we are informed.

Ranch For Sale.

Eight miles above St. Anthony, 138 acres at $20 per acre. Independent water right. 80 acres under cultivation. All fenced. Address, David Feighner, Chester, Ida.

Hay For Sale.

200 tons of alfalfa hay for sale. Call on or address J. M. Workman, Parker.

Death of Mr. Simmons.

The following, if true, does not reflect credit upon our neighboring village: Mountain Home, Feb. 19, 1903.

EDITOR HERALD:

Will you please publish the following statement regarding the death of H. Simmons, who was killed by accidentally falling from a passenger train on the 13th instant, about 3 miles north of Idaho Falls, Bingham county, Idaho. On receipt of a telegram from my son stating that Mr. Simmons was killed, I left here, arriving at Market Lake, Fremont county, on the morning of the 14th. On my arrival there I found the officials of the two above-mentioned counties quarreling as to which county should bury Mr. Simmons. I told these two "Christian" gentlemen that Mr. Simmons had sufficient money on his person to give him a respectable burial. The people of Market Lake whom I met, with the exception of four, are certainly devoid of all God-like training, kindness of heart or sympathy for their fellow mortals. I could not induce nor even hire any person to wash and dress the body. Neither could I get any of them to dig a grave—even some of them were opposed to allowing the remains of Mr. Simmons to be interred in the cemetery—and had it not been for the kindly assistance of the railroad agent, who got the Japanese section employees to dig a grave, poor Harry Simmons' body would have to lie unburied on the desert like the brute beasts of that God-forsaken locality.

Harry Simmons was not a hobo, nor a disreputable person, but on the contrary was a hard working man. The conductor on the train, learning that Mr. Simmons was not on board, backed down for three miles until the body was found. He then took the body to Market Lake and delivered it to the agent, doing everything he could in the matter.

I want to express the sincere thanks of Mr. Simmons' many friends and myself for the able assistance, courteous treatment and the many favors extended to me by Mr. S. Carruthers, Mr. Hoag and another gentleman whose name I have forgotten, also to Mr. M. Patrie. C. W. HEWETT.

A Remarkable Case.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakening me that I run down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight and strength." Watson & Moore.