Last Day of 7th Legislature.

Report of Committee That Investigated the Pen.

Chairman Jenkins of the house committee on state affairs and Chairman Stevenson of the senate committee have presented, on behalf of the joint committee, the report on the investigation of the penitentiary. It follows: To the legislature of the state of Idaho: Your joint committee on state affairs and federal relations beg leave to report that they made a thorough investigation of the present needs of the state penitentiary and found that a number of improvements should be made, and believing that the warden would be the best posted on the lines of improvement required we requested him to make out a statement of some which is submitted herewith.

AGAINST IDLENESS. We believe, however, that the policy of the state regarding its state charges there, should be changed. The prisoners are, to a great extent, kept in idleness. This is conducive to a state of insubordination. The record of the prison shows, that those who are kept the longest are also the best behaved.

The policy of keeping our prisoners in idleness and being wholly supported by the taxpayers of our state should be changed to one wherein they would at least partially support themselves.

We also present you herewith the evidence taken at the investigation held at the state prison, which shows conclusively that state property was converted to private use during the preceding administration, and the rules of the prison were sanely violated within the prison walls by officers in charge thereof, and we would especially recommend that the attorney general be instructed to begin criminal proceedings against those who were so derelict in their duties to the state, to the end that a full and complete record can be had of the gross infamy perpetrated there and that the guilty persons be duly punished as provided by law.

Some "Woman's World"

Women in America it is thought, are now engaged in the struggle to gain an astonishing degree of the independence seems to be wanted still further in Europe. In Germany, Switzerland and Holland women are engaged in the labors of agriculture, and till the field, cut the corn and sow the crops. On the other hand, the women are employed to keep the lines clean and they are applied and formed for the purpose of making Bavaria being well supplied with forests, wood is largely used for fuel and along the curb of Munich's streets women frequently sell their firewood.

The Hopping Rheumatism.

"Yes," said the old man, "I had it when I was five years old. It was in the knee, and it was so bad that I could not walk. I was in bed for a long time, and I was so weak that I could not get up. I was so miserable that I thought I was going to die. But I was cured by Chamberlain's Hopping Rheumatism. It was so good that I was able to walk again, and I was so strong that I was able to do all the work I wanted to do. I have never had it since, and I can tell you that it is the best medicine I ever used."

Value of Antique Furniture.

In 1563 a piece of antique furniture was sold by a purchaser of Geneva, Switzerland, to an antiquarian, for under $11,000. At the expiration of that time the owner should receive a portion of the same. It was recently sold to the Swiss Historical Museum for $12,000 and now the heirs of the original owner are claiming a share of the above sum. The furniture is a unique specimen of the Bernese art of the sixteenth century.

Fish Harvest Large.

The principal fish fields of the United States produced in one year for the market the extraordinary amount of 588,000,000 pounds of edible fish, for which the fishermen received more than $15,000,000. This does not include the run of steel or any fish brooms directly to New York city and other ports south, nor does it include the quantities taken in local waters and consumed in the villages and smaller cities. Neither does it include the shellfish.
