School Notes.

(Contributed by one of the pupils.)

School closed Friday, April 24.

Benlah Brainard entertained the sixth and seventh grades one evening last week.

Edna Holcomb, who has ranked high in her class all year, left Thursday for her future home, Red Bluff, California. She was one of our very best pupils.

The teachers and pupils of the lower grades rendered a very enjoyable program in their respective rooms Friday afternoon.

The teachers and pupils all felt relieved when the examinations were over.

Jean Baker ranked first in the eighth for the term, Mary Baker first in the seventh, and Maggie Costley first in the sixth. There has been quite a bit of rivalry for first place in these three grades, and these girls may well feel proud of their success as they are among the youngest in their classes. Jean Baker also made the highest grades that were made in the county on the state examination, her average being 94.8-9.

Those successful in the state examination in order of rank are Jean Baker, William Thornton, Clarence Whittington, Genevieve Hillman, Leonard Lewis, Clara Lewis and Robert J. Hillman.

The following was composed by Grace Williams:

The Examination.

The eighth grade was to take examination: But oh! How timid all the pupils were. But as this would be followed by vacation. Each one resolved to undertake and bear.

At first we thought our victory was sure, But Mr. Blevins told us to beware That we into a trap they would try to lure, For puzzling questions would be there.

At first his counsel we did not try to heed, But merely laughed and made the matter light Until some list of questions he did read, When, to our sorrow, we found that he was right.

Our first day's tedious work at last, was done And we retired home both sad and weary. We tried to think our victory was won But still our road to victory seemed dreary.

At last our arduous task was finished And the unhappy time was drawing near. But our courage was so much diminished As we waited our grades to hear.

But our fears at last were cast away When our teacher's voice we heard once more saying, "The victory you have won today All your doubts and fretting should be o'er."

At first our hearts were filled with doubt and dread, That was before the hard examination, But now that we've come out far ahead We're going to enjoy our long vacation.

To Kill Grasshoppers.

The following report is given out by C. B. Simpson, of the Agricultural Department:

"Plowing the area in the fall where eggs are laid will cause many of the exposed eggs to be killed during the winter or the young locusts will be unable to get to the surface of the ground when they hatch in the spring. At best this measure is incomplete. After hatching they may be trapped by digging trenches around the colony and killed after they have fallen in.

"Spraying with oil and burning has been found very efficient. Hopperdozers, or long shallow pans, containing water upon which is a film of kerosene, can be drawn over the ground and the young locusts jump in and are killed.

"Poisoned bran has often been used against these insects but recently Dr. Fletcher of the Ontario department of agriculture, Canada, reports that fresh horse droppings can be substituted for the bran. The following formula is given: One pound of Paris Green and two pounds of salt mixed with about 60 pounds of horse droppings. The mixture is scattered broadcast by means of a paddle or trowel and may be used when the locusts are young, or it is found that fields can be protected by scattering it around the edges of the field. Excellent results have been obtained by the use of this mixture in Manitoba.

"When the insects have obtained wings all measures, but this poisoned bait, are of no avail and nothing can be done to destroy them until the following fall."

Will Prospect For Oil

Fremont County Oil, Gas & Coal Company About Ready to Operate in Basin.

Arrangements are now about completed to begin prospecting for oil and coal in the Teton Basin district. The machinery and piping arrived in St. Anthony some time ago and work will be commenced on the 15th of May.

The president of the company, Mr. W. E. McDonald, arrived in the city Monday from Florence, Colorado, and reports everything ready to begin operations.

"Says Mr. McDonald: "We are prepared to bore 1800 feet and further if necessary, and we don't propose to give up until we have struck coal and oil too. I am satisfied," he continued, "that the Teton Basin contains oil and good coal, and if we fail to sell enough stock to complete the drilling, I have plenty of Colorado backing, and will put the hole down myself. There is only one thing holding us back at present, and that is the sale of a little more stock, but this will not detain the work later than the 15th." While east, Mr. McDonald found plenty of capital ready to assist in the discovery of oil here, but declined any assistance from eastern people until he has given the residents of this county an opportunity to go into the deal first. The Fremont County Oil, Gas & Coal Co. is composed entirely of local enterprising men.

ONE PAINTER'S HAPPY LIFE.

Mind of William Blake Filled With Lofty Thoughts.

William Blake, the poet and painter, whose delicate and mystical work, both in words and on canvases, was quite unlike that of any other man, had a singularly happy life. It was full of discouragement and greatly cramped by poverty, but of this he seemed to take no account. His mind was always filled with lofty and beautiful thoughts, and this would seem to him but the entrance to a nobler state of existence.

One day, when he was an old man, a little girl was brought to him. He looked at her tenderly, stroked her long curls, and said: "My child, may God make this world as beautiful to you as it has been to me."

He had not been well for a long time before his death. When his old friend, the artist Flaxman, died, Blake said: "I thought I should go first. I cannot think of death as more than going out of one room into another."

A little more than a year after that he died. On the day of his death he composed and uttered songs in praise of God, so sweet that his wife, as she stood by, was enraptured by them. "My beloved," he said to her, "they are not mine. No, they are not mine!"

Cost of War.

At last there is a concise and exact balance sheet showing the cost of the Boer war. The present liabilities of the United Kingdom are £800,000,000; before the war they were £645,000,000; difference, traceable to cost of that war, £155,000,000, or, nearly $325,000,000. A fearful cost, surely, for a war of minor consequence, and a figure from which it may be easily reckoned that a war of the first magnitude would speedily exhaust the resources of the richest of nations. No wonder all the greatest nations make a specialty of their efforts for peace. War would bankrupt the best of them.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Independence.

Independence, April 21.—The weather has been fine here the last few days. The farmers are busy preparing their ground to plant their crops.

Arbor Day was celebrated at Independence Monday, April 20, for the first time in many years. The entertainment started at 12 o'clock. A short program was given, after which picnic was served and from then until 5 o'clock dancing was indulged in by the children, who took great interest in learning to dance. No trees were planted as our school house is nearly surrounded by willow brush which will have to be taken out before any trees can be planted.

A large part of the lumber is on the school ground for the new school house, which will probably be erected this summer.

Mrs. W. W. Corey and her daughter, Belle, returned from Ogden last Sunday.

Teton.

Teton City, April 28.—A grand social and in the direction of Bishop Johnston, was given here this evening in the meeting house at which were about 500 of Teton's best citizens. It was a farewell to one of our young men who has been called on a mission to Switzerland. Tables loaded with eatables both in and out of season, were the grand feature of the evening. Twenty-four young ladies were kept busy for one hour attending to the wants of one of the most fashionable parties that ever occurred in our beautiful village. After the tables were cleared away, there was rendered one of the best programs that was ever gotten up in so short a time and rendered in such a manner that it would have given credit to a much larger village. The program consisted of vocal and instrumental music, speeches and recitations, which lasted until about 10:30 o'clock. The people then adjourned to the opera house, where Mr. John Schwendiman, the departing missionary, had arranged for a grand ball under the direction of Prof. Beesley's grand orchestra. Everyone enjoyed themselves until the wee small hours. Mr. Schwendiman leaves tomorrow for Salt Lake City, where he will perfect arrangements for passing through the United States, crossing the Atlantic Ocean and traveling through Europe. His travels will cover a period of about three years. BON VOYAGE.

How Frank Stockton Got Prize and His Sister Did Not.

When years ago a juvenile magazine offered two prizes for the best stories written by a child under 12 and by one between the ages of 12 and 15, Frank R. Stockton competed for the latter prize and his sister Louise for the former and both children succeeded in writing the best stories in both groups. But the editor of the magazine did not much like the idea of giving his two prizes to the members of one family. He was afraid it would be said that the winners were relatives or intimate friends of him. So he wrote to Louise and told her that hers was the best story in the under 12 years' group, but, nevertheless, he would not give a prize to her, because if he did it would make talk and he would be accused of partiality. Frank got his prize, but someone else got the little girl's. Miss Louise Stockton, who lives in West Philadelphia, often tells this story, which taught her, she says, her first lesson in the world's injustice, and which showed her how out of this injustice men profit and women suffer.

Died.

At his home in South St. Anthony, April 20, 1903, William McKean, age about 50 years. The funeral services were held at the Methodist Church, Wednesday afternoon, April 22, Rev. Pemberton delivering the funeral address.

Deceased leaves a wife and three children to battle through life without the protecting hand of a father. Mr. McKean was a taxidermist and naturalist, and has for the past year been engaged in that business with Porter & Hopf.
