THE TERNES FURNISHING STORE.

J. G. Souther of Salt Lake City, who has been engaged in the cattle business at Camas meadows for the last two years, was in the city this week on business. Mr. Souther called at this office and informed us that he would ship all of his fat cattle from Dubois the last of this week and the rest of his herd would be purchased by the Wood Live Stock company which would relieve him of his stock interests in Fremont county.
 What's the matter with the Rain-maker or in his absence the Sprinkling Cart? Strangers visiting our city can see to their perfect satisfaction all kinds of soil within our valley without having it crammed down their throats. We've got to masticate so much before we die, yet if personal preference is consulted, we would much prefer to have it in "courses" rather than "en masse."
 Ed. Jamison, Lee Borrow's, "Dad" Youmans, and Jim Gwinn, (notice the line up) mysteriously disappeared from town last Saturday evening about 5 o'clock and were not heard of again until Monday morning. It finally developed that they had gone on a big fishing and hunting expedition in the Warm River country. By some accident, oversight or their taking too much, the further fact was developed that there was not a foot of line unreeled nor a gun fired on the whole trip. Varily, fishing and hunting covereth a multitude of sins.
 Moral—When you go out on a big "toot" be sure to take your fishing tackle and shooting irons.
 The Idaho World's Fair Commission—C. B. Hurtt, J. E. Steele, M. J. Wessels and Mrs. Henrietta Mansfield—held a meeting Monday at Boise and decided to have work begun at once on the Idaho state building. J. Flood Walker, the architect in charge, will leave for St. Louis this week. The interior of the building will be finished in the various native stained woods, which will be arranged as effectively as possible. A large amount of fruit, grasses and honey was obtained from the state fair exhibits. Fifty boxes of apples have already been shipped to St. Louis to be placed in cold storage until the fair opens.—Ex.
 The Public Reading room, that has done such good service and has been the subject of favorable comment by strangers, is no more. At a meeting of the board of control held last Monday afternoon it was reluctantly decided that hard necessity must govern and so St. Anthony thereby loses an institution that has reflected credit upon her for the last year. The ladies who instituted and maintained that good work and those who were generous enough to contribute to its support are entitled to much credit and our citizens should have had pride enough in their community to provide the meager funds that were needed to support it. We fear that this is a step backward for St. Anthony. The traveling library books have been left at the Ternes Furnishing store for the benefit of the public.
 Buy your Watches and Jewelry at Ashcraft's. You will find that they will wear the best.
