

THE COUNTY SEAT BUSINESS.

Some alarm was occasioned in this city, yesterday, by the receipt of letters from Boise stating that R. Z. Johnson and Houston & Gray, who have had charge of the Hailey side of the case in the county seat fight from the beginning, refused to have anything more to do with the case unless they were paid the sum of $500, in addition to what they had already received. These letters were written from Boise on the day preceding that on which the appeal taken by Bellevue was to be heard in the Supreme Court at that place. It was consequently too late to do anything, and it was generally supposed that the case had gone by default, and been decided in favor of Bellevue. The matter soon became the general subject of conversation among our citizens. Great indignation was expressed by some at the supposed bad faith of the attorneys named, while others denounced the old town company, and excused Messrs. Johnson, Houston and Gray. The more they talked, the more they became excited, and from words some would have passed to blows had not bystanders interfered. By the afternoon mail another letter was received stating that the writer and another gentleman well known in Hailey, hearing of the ultimatum of Messrs. Johnson, Houston & Gray, had paid, or guaranteed the payment, of the $500 demanded, and that these attorneys then went into the Supreme Court, and requested that the hearing of the appeal be postponed until the afternoon, and that in the afternoon they had replied to the arguments of the Bellevue attorneys, after which the case had been taken under advisement.

As the above would reflect upon the people of Hailey, as indicating their refusal to pay their lawyers' fees, it is proper to state the facts in this connection, as understood here.

At the outset of this fight, Hon. John Hailey, as one of the members of the town company, retained R. Z. Johnson and Houston & Gray as counsel. This he did of his own movement, and without consulting (as far as publicly known) with a single citizen of Hailey. All the attorneys in Hailey volunteered their services, in behalf of the people of this city. This was at the time understood to be all that would be required from the people of Hailey. But a demand soon came for $100 for something or other in connection with the case—which amount was promptly forthcoming; during the last term of court Messrs. Johnson and Houston asked for $250. This was also raised and paid over; and it was supposed to be the last claim that these attorneys had against the people of Hailey. Had a different opinion been entertained, the amount required would undoubtedly have been raised.

The consideration known to have been received by the three attorneys named for their services in this case is believed, in view of the poverty of the town and the comparative unimportance of the point involved, to be ample. But, however that may be, here it is:

R. Z. Johnson was given lot No. 23 in Block 32 (Lawyers' Row) and lots 7, 8, and 9, in block 59. These lots are certainly worth $150 each.

Jos. Houston was given lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, in block 59—which are also worth all of $150 each.

John Gray was given lot 24, in block 32. At the time it was given him, the lot could have been sold for $200. It has appreciated in value since then.

Mr. Gray never appeared in the case.

In addition to the gift of the lots above mentioned, the Town Company paid $650 for witness fees and traveling expenses. (This included board and room-rent of two attorneys during one term of court, besides their traveling expenses from Boise to Hailey and return.) This, in addition to the $350 in money paid by the citizens of Hailey.

The above are the FACTS in the case. Let every reader of the TIMES form his own opinion.

Two brothers have been convicted at York, England, of a crime which has been the basis of many romances—tampering with parish registers. To obtain property they forged an entry of birth.

The Most Beautiful Woman in Paris.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.]

PARIS, July 30.—There is a lady in this city of wonders, an American, who is undoubtedly one of the loveliest creatures that ever were. She is called Mme. Gautherot, and her husband, a Frenchman, is a rich importer, who came up to Paris from Nantes to spend his money and show off his wife. Some say she is from San Francisco, or Los Angeles, or Marysville, or somewhere along the Pacific coast. I have heard, too, that she hails from New York, from Baltimore, from Lima, from Panama—from any number of places that ought to be, and I dare say would be, proud to own her. The preponderance of evidence is in favor of Frisco, and so I am going to write her down as a bright, accidental star which has come to us a perfect specimen of the kind of women that thrive apace in the "glorious climate of California." I have seen her several times, but the best chance I had to admire her was a few weeks back in the magnificent salons of Mrs. Morton, the wife of the American Minister. A young lady from Chicago was leaning on my arm, and we were slowly traversing the rooms, when we came upon Mme. Gautherot, who was standing talking with M. Clemenceau, the famous Radical Deputy, whose wife is an American. I know by the way my companion acted that she was deeply moved by the lovely apparition, whom she had now seen for the first time, and she whisperingly asked if I knew who the lady was.

"Oh, yes," I replied, "that is Mme. Gautherot. She is said to be the most beautiful woman in Paris."

"Well, they might say in the world. Of all the beauties I have ever seen, she is, in face, form, hair, and complexion, the most beautiful."

I should guess Mme. Gautherot to be about 26 or 27 years of age. Her head is strictly classical, and she wears her fair, wavy tresses in Grecian bandeaux. Her form is faultless. She is the Venus de Medici transmitted into flesh and blood and covered by the best man or woman dressmaker of the capital. We stood and looked at this, the loveliest person that ever came out of the hands of a Paris courtiere, and it seems to me my companion would never be done feasting upon her splendid beauty. She was dressed that night—the details were told me by Miss Chicago, and I wrote them down—in corn-colored silk, part of which was covered with a network of yellow beads and small white bugles. She also wore a necklace of diamonds, a brooch, and bracelets, with Greek bandelettes in her hair, which is of a perfect gold color. Her dress fitted her form like gloves should fit one's hands, and her skirts hung about her limbs in the most classical fashion. She wore diamond buckles on her slippers. Her pale blue and yellow silk stockings were just discernible. A murmur of admiration greeted her wherever she went. The crowd opened to let this beauty pass, and she strolled around, the most unconcerned person in the room. Her eyes are large and limpid, and as I looked into them I could not discover the slightest semblance of coquetry. The texture of her ears, her neck and her shoulders are precisely that kind which the great Lefevre and the equally great Bougreau paint so magnificently. There is a pink shade which comes through the transparent white skin, and the flesh is as smooth as a rose leaf.

There was one woman, young and very demure, among the passengers in an Arizona stage-coach, and when a gang of masked robbers appeared, she told the five men in the vehicle to hand their watches and money to her. They did so, and she hastily hid the articles under her clothing. When the highwaymen came to her in their search, she blushing begged them to be content with examining her pockets, vowing with upturned eyes and solemn tones that she had nothing concealed. They gallantly complied, and went away with only a few stray dollars, missing things worth about $10,000.

Letters recently received from some of the Chinamen who were students at Northampton say that two are learning to become mining engineers, two are studying medicine, and others are at the Naval Torpedo School. The boys are not looked upon with favor by the Chinese officials, who think they cannot be trusted, because they have become Americanized. They all look with longing eyes to America, anxious to come back. Apparently they do not take kindly to the manners and customs of their native country, after their experience here.

Leading and representative men in England continue to express their views concerning the Salvation Army. The press does not agree, and Non-conformity is divided. Gen. Booth would have been invited to the Abbey if Dean Stanley had been alive; now Westminster neither curses nor blesses, but awaits the issue with apprehension and doubt. The Queen is glad to hear that any have been rescued and raised to virtuous living by its instrumentality, and the Primate of all England sends a subscription to carry on the work.
