

RE-LOCATIONS.

Must they Be Worked the Same Year that they are Made?

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:— Can you tell me where I can get a copy of the local laws of this Territory? Or, can you give me any information with regard to locating claims?

Do re-locations have to be worked the same year they are located? Or, can they be worked the same as new locations? And oblige, yours, respectfully, A. J. G.

Galena, Idaho, Sept. 19, 1882.

[A copy of the Territorial Statutes can doubtless be obtained by addressing Hon. T. F. Singiser, Territorial Secretary, Boise City. The Territorial mining law was published in the first issue of the WOOD RIVER TIMES, in 1881, but we have only two copies of that issue on hand, and these are on the files, ready for binding.

Any claim upon which the claimants have failed to do the work necessary to hold it, is open to re-location (so-called) the same as if it had never been located. In order to hold a claim so re-located, it is not requisite that any work be done upon it during the year following its re-location. For instance: If a claim were re-located now, the re-locator would have until the first of January, 1884, to do the first $100 worth of work upon it. This is apt to lead to some abuse, undoubtedly, but it is the law.

A. J. G. had better buy a copy of Copp's Mining Laws. They give all the information required on the subject of which they treat. H. Z. Burkhardt & Co., Hailey, probably have a few copies on hand.]

THE ROAD TO CAMAS PRAIRIE.

Will It be a Practicable Wagon-Road, or Merely a Pack-Trail?

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:— I would wish to call your attention to the construction of the new wagon-road, now being constructed up Croyle gulch, and out through to connect this place with Camas Prairie. You may remember that, last year, there was quite an amount of money raised here—somewhere from $500 to $900—to build a good wagon-road from here to Willow creek. The result is a passable pack-trail—nothing more. Now, I understand from citizens just in from there, that the money lately contributed by citizens of this place is being squandered the same way—i. e., the result of the labor being done will be a mere pack-trail. Settlers out there, I hear, who would give from $25 to $100 for a good road, don't feel like throwing away any time on this, as the grade they are making is entirely too steep for any practical use.

CITIZEN.

HAILEY, September 22, 1882.

["Citizen" should have signed his name. Because of his neglect to do so, his communication would not have been printed, if it had not been on such an important subject. The handwriting is evidently disguised, as if the writer did not dare to father his production.—ED. TIMES.]

The Ketchum Smelter.

A hole was burned through the water-jacket furnace of the Ketchum smelter, the first of the week, and work was suspended until yesterday, when the damage was repaired and the furnace again started. The second 40-ton water-jacket furnace was to have been blown in yesterday morning, making the daily capacity of the works 80 tons.

The Two Countries.

There is a land of tears and bitter weeping— A land most like a drear one Dante knew— Where wand'ring Nixies, with dark robes trailing, In sad procession move, brow bound with rue, It is a land peopled by wretched mortals— Compared with them the Virgins five were wise, And it is writ above its gloomy portals: "We did not think it paid to advertise."

There is a land that flows with milk and honey— Not the condensed nor yet the sorghum strain— Each dweller bears a grapple fat with honey, Soule, coupons, stocks and various other gains. Happy are those as, at high tide, the clamsids— No less doth down the laughter in their eyes; For better luck they'd not donate one damiet: The party's theirs—they leached to advertise. [—Hathboro Public Spirit.]

There has been an unusual burglary at Spector, Ill. Some person or persons, not yet detected, broke open a window of a poor widow's residence, and—deposited a sack of flour, a ham, and other provisions.

The Villard Railroad.

It may be some satisfaction to know that there is less talk and more work in the building of the railroad from Umattilla this way than by the Union Pacific or rather, the Oregon Short Line from the East. Mr. Villard, who is the manager of the Oregon and Washington Territory roads, including the Northern Pacific, seems to go straight forward with his work, and knows the ground he intends to cover. On this road he has completed the work to Pendleton, and has secured the right-of-way over the Blue Mountains for the best and safest pass. He has purchased the Foster or Meacham toll road, so that no impediment may be in the way, and he has ample corps of men on all the heavy work, so that he can start in early another season to lay the track. His survey extends through Grand Ronde and the Pills canyon pass and the Powder River valley to Baker City, and from Baker City down the Burnt river canyon to Snake river. This location was made long before the Oregon Short Line undertook to locate a route up Burnt river canyon. Villard's men are already at work grading in the Burnt river canyon in considerable force. His chief engineer was here a few days ago, and assured us that their road will come to Boise City, and had no disposition to dodge the town. The possibility of a compromise between the Oregon Short Line and Villard is a very doubtful one, and from the best evidence we can gain, the Oregon Short Line is at sea when they reach Snake River at King Hill, and know not where to go. Villard's road will suit us quite as well as the Oregon Short Line, and it is altogether probable that we shall see the first railroad from the West. The Oregon Short Line is evidently going ahead slowly. A reliable gentleman who came over the whole of the line of the road from American Falls this way last week, says there is not to exceed ten miles of track laid this side of the American Falls.

There is in Lisbon an institution known as the Misericordia, whose object is to alleviate all kinds of distress. One peculiar duty which the directors undertake is the care of criminals. From the time that the death-penalty is decreed the criminal is allowed three days to prepare for death. During this time he is in charge of the Misericordia. When the hour comes he is clothed in white by the brothers, a cord is placed around his neck and a crucifix in his hand, and, accompanied by a priest at either side, he proceeds to the place of execution. Connected with this establishment is the Church of St. Roch, which contains probably the most sumptuous chapel in Christendom. The story goes that Don John V, struck with its bareness, and the fact of its dedication to a saint of his name, resolved to make it a marvel of splendor. It was erected in Rome regardless of cost, and, when completed, put up in St. Peter's, where the Pope first officiated on its altar. It was then shipped in pieces to Lisbon. The wall on the outside of the principal arch is coral, the arch of alabaster. The pavement is rich mosaic, inlaid with porphyry. The altar steps are of porphyry and bronze, the rails of verd antique. There are eight columns of lapis lazuli, their bases being alabaster, studded with amethysts, their capitals bronze. The altar is of lapis-lazuli, jasper and amethysts. The lamps are of exquisitely wrought silver. The chapel is further enriched by entablatures of high art in silver, and magnificent pictures. Napoleon contemplated the removal of the whole to France but before it could be arranged his star waned.

The Italian newspapers cannot conceal their dislike of the English, and let it crop out in the publishing of impossible rumors. Thus, a few days since the Opinione informed its readers, on the authority of the Corriere del Mattino of Naples, that one of the English transports en route to Egypt carries reinforcements to Sir Garnet Wolseley in the form of 2,000 bloodhounds, to hunt down the Egyptians, and describes how the English General will keep them half-starved to increase their ferocity in pursuit of their prey.

The principal topic for conversation at the French Geographical Congress, now in session at Bordeaux is the proposed construction of the ship-canal from B rdeaux to Toulouse and Narbonne, by which a waterway would be gained from the Bay of Biscay to the Mediterranean, thus securing a great saving of distance as compared with the Gibraltar route. The length, as far as Toulouse, is about 270 feet, and the highest point 500 feet above the level of the sea. The projectors of the project contend that vineyards can be established to advantage along the waterway.

NEW TODAY.

A WARNING!

I am informed that in order to obtain orders for Joe, Pohlman, the San Francisco tailor, one McDougall, who claims to be a traveling agent of Mr. Pohlman's and who is now on Wood River soliciting orders for suits of clothes, states that an arrangement has been made with me to alter, free of charge, any work done in the shop in San Francisco. I therefore state that no such arrangement has been made with me. I have been left $20 worth by one San Francisco house—B. Fredlander's—and don't propose to be "left" any more. O. BAUME.
