

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES HAS BIG ATTENDANCE

Auditorium of High School Packed to Hear Commencement Exercises. President Reed, of Pocatello, Gave the Address.

The Senior Class Day exercises at the High School auditorium Thursday evening were well attended and thoroughly enjoyed. While the same outline of program is followed each year yet this program was sufficiently new and diversified to make it interesting and entertaining.

The class poem by Leslie Pollard was written in the style of Hiawatha and was very good. Class statistics were given by Ralph Mack. Miss Loneta Hubbard gave a Key oration, during which she presented Miss Ruby Wyatt, the president of the Junior class, with the golden key to knowledge. Homer Holbert gave a history of the class from its entrance into the High School and the class will was very ably given by Albert Briney.

Miss Dering Greene, in a very pleasing manner presented each member of the class with a little gift, not forgetting the teachers of the High School. Each of these gifts was supposed to represent the tastes or ambitions of the recipient. To Leslie Pollard she presented a piece of cardboard on which was a great question mark, supposed to represent his ability to ask questions; to Ralph Mack, a book containing pictures of pretty girls; to Albert Briney a package of forget-me-not seeds; to Miss Loneta Hubbard, a garden trowel; to Miss Leola Noddings, a china cup; to Otis Slavin, the saucer to match it; to Lawrence Cowen, a pocket mirror; to Homer Holbert, a golden crown; to Arthur Neimann, a string of nuts to crack; to Miss Virginia Gautier, a pair of embroidery scissors; to Miss Ruth Trumble, a box of matches to light her way. Superintendent Casterlin was presented with a bottle of shoe polish, to replenish his stock of polish which had become exhausted on the class of 1915. Mr. Rand was given a list of names of girls, from which to select a name for that bright little girl who recently came to brighten their home. Miss Seed fared the best of any, being presented with a piece of Bar-clay.

The program was interspersed with music and songs. A duet by Misses Ethel Lewis and Ruth Trumble, a German song by the class, a piano solo by Miss Trumble two class songs, made up the musical part of the entertainment.

The stage was decorated with the class colors, pink and white, the class flower being the sweet pea. The class prophecy was given by Miss Leola Noddings and Lawrence Cowen in a novel and entertaining manner and furnished a great deal of amusement for the audience. The entertainment was very pleasing throughout and left everyone in good humor.

The exhibit of home work done by the high school on display in the hall was attractively arranged and drew the attention of all who came. It consisted of crochet and tatting work, handmade garments and portrait painting. The reporter did not learn the names of the exhibitors, save for the paintings which were done by Miss Loneta Hubbard. The work done by Miss Hubbard shows that the young lady has marked ability along that line, and we understand it is her purpose to continue her studies in this work.

The men appointed on the committees were; Fred Crandall, Allen C. Merritt, James Caples, J. R. Barclay and Frank Miller.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR INSTALLED
The services at the Presbyterian church as announced last week came off as scheduled. Dr. Barton and Rev. van der Maatin came in on the train Friday and Sunday morning the installation services were held.

The sermon in the morning was delivered by Dr. Barton and following the sermon Rev. van der Maatin took charge of the service and installed Rev. E. N. Quist as pastor, after which as is a part of the service Dr. Barton gave the charge to the newly installed pastor which was followed by Rev. van der Maatin with a charge to the congregation.

In the afternoon installation services were held at the Carman church and the pastor duly installed there. In the evening Rev. van der Maatin, who is state president of the state County Superintendent, Mrs. Diggle presented the graduates of the Eighth grade with their diplomas. The class was a large one, composed of the following:

Eudora Chaffee Gertrude Edwards, Lawrence Greene, Roy Hoffman, Walter Kane Ruth Manfull, Fred Mackey, Mabel Melvyn, Myrtle Mogg, Esther Rose, Margaret Shoup, Ola Smout, Katherine Williams, Esther Diggle, Ruth Gaver, Lloyd Shaw, Fred Crandall.

The Eighth grade examination was said to have been a very rigid one and the fact that such a large class will pass into the high school next year is very gratifying to the teachers and friends of these young people.

Superintendent Casterlin then announced the names of those who had received the highest honors for the past year. Arthur Neiman won the highest scholarship, the second honors being given to Miss Virginia Gautier. In the oratorical contest conducted sometime ago Miss Ruth Pierson was awarded the gold medal. During the past year Misses Leola Noddings and Virginia Gautier have taken work in teaching in the grade and were awarded recommendations for their work. The championship of the athletes was won by Otis Slavin. This is the third year that the class which has just graduated has won the scholarship silver cup and it is now the property of this class as a permanent trophy of their work.

On behalf of the school board, Attorney A. C. Cherry presented the graduates with their certificates of graduation in a very brief talk.

At the close of the exercises a reception was held at the I. O. O. F. hall for the graduates and their friends and was an enjoyable affair. It was also in the nature of farewell to the teachers who do not expect to return to Salmon for the coming year. Miss Seed, Miss McDonald, Miss Gillespie and Miss Johnson are leaving the school this year and these young ladies will be greatly missed from the school and social life of Salmon.

RELATIONS ARE STRAINED
Washington, May 29.—That the relations between the United States and Germany are strained to the breaking point as a result of the reply of Germany to President Wilson's note protesting against Germany's submarine warfare against merchant vessels was admitted tonight. The summary of the reply, as sent by Ambassador Gerard, reached the state department late tonight. It proved that the suggestions of the United Press correspondent in Berlin that the note, while friendly was in effect a refusal of the American contentions, were in every way the truth.

Secretary Bryan, who was in attendance on the banquet to the Pan-American delegates, refused point blank to comment on the summary of the note received here. The president was unavailable at the White House. Other officials of the government, were much disappointed and expressed the belief that, if the summary, as obtainable here, was the exact fact, it would be hard for the United States to refrain from an insistence that both the letter and the spirit of the original demand be lived up to.

There is no mention by Germany to disavow any intention to sink the Lusitania, or discontinue her submarine attacks upon merchant ships. The note, in effect, that rather than take any action Germany would prefer to assume, pending any further action of the United States that the following are the German assumptions of facts:

First—That the Lusitania was built as an auxiliary cruiser; that she was subsidized by the British government; that the British naval lists refer to her as a warship; that she had two guns mounted, although concealed below decks, and that at the time she was sunk, she had on board many British soldiers.

Second—That most British steamers that have sailed from the United States for the other side have repeatedly carried soldiers, artillery, war supplies and contraband destined either for England or France. That on the trip on which she was sunk the Lusitania carried 5400 cases of cartridges, other war supplies and Canadian troops who were enroute to the front.

Germany then calls attention to the fact that there are American laws that prohibit it in unmistakable terms the carrying of merchant vessels which also carry passengers, any sort of munitions of war.

It asks frankly whether the American government was aware of this when the Lusitania left, and whether it knows just how many passengers were supposed to offset each item of munition. In strong language Germany asks whether the British official

Convict Work Gets Results.

John Snook, warden of the Idaho state penitentiary, passed through Homedale Sunday on his way home to Boise from a visit to the state prison farm which is located in the Gem district about three miles from Homedale. Mr. Snook reports that the prisoners under the supervision of Arthur McClain have 200 acres planted to grain and the prospects are good for a bumper crop. Twelve prisoners are at the camp and they seem to be well satisfied and take great interest in the showing being made and is confident that his plan in using convict labor in reclaiming state land is going to prove a wonderful success.—Homedale Press.

CITY GOOD ROADS DAY

Last Friday evening the city council met in special session and took up the matter of a good roads day for the city of Salmon. The council appointed the engineers of the city into a committee to look the ground over and decide the work and have charge of the work on the day designated, June 15.

Mayor Atkins has secured the consent of the county commissioners to use the grader and that will be used in the grading the streets.

One plan which is being talked about considerable is that of graveling the road from cemetery lane into town. This work would begin at the city limits and work into town. On good roads day a crew were at work on the bad stretch near the cemetery and since that time the county has been working a crew so that considerable work has been done and with a short stretch the road is complete to within a short distance of town. And for this reason it is advocated by several that it would be a good thing to put this road in a good condition from the city limits into town and then when this stretch of the county road is completed, a good road will be completed to the cemetery. This road is the worst in this section and is a road that is traveled extensively, especially out to the lane turning toward the cemetery. It is said that about fourteen teams are in readiness to work on this section and it is planned to use the trap put up by engineer Merritt for use on Good Roads Day; this will make it easy to load the teams and greatly facilitate the work.

The men appointed on the committees were; Fred Crandall, Allen C. Merritt, James Caples, J. R. Barclay and Frank Miller.

als of the Cunard line acted in good faith with the American officials who were in charge of the steamer's clearance.

So far as the claim of the president is concerned, that the passengers on the liner were not given sufficient time to save themselves, Germany takes the position that it is impossible to say whether or not this is the case. Attention is called to the sinking of the Titanic and it is suggested that, while it is true that many lives were lost, there is as yet no explanation as to whether the Lusitania was in reality the seaworthy craft that the British reports maintain.

Germany finally discusses the proposals that were made by the United States in the joint note sent to Great Britain and Germany in which the United States tried to arrange with England the abandonment of its "starvation blockade" in return for a promise from Germany to call off her submarine attacks. Germany recalls that she agreed to accept such a proposal, and asks what England did and whether, in rejecting the suggested exchange of benefits, she has not justified in every way the German submarine blockade.

The note was taken to Ambassador Gerard without any special formalities. It was carried across from the foreign office to the embassy by an under attack and was immediately put into code, and sent to the United States. Although President Wilson was in possession of the outlines of the note he let it be known early tonight that there would be no suggestion of reply to it until after the complete text is laid before him, probably on Monday. It is not expected that the United States will act on it in any way until it is considered by the president and his cabinet on next Tuesday.

The real "good fellow" is the fellow who knows something good about everybody and tells it. He never knocks on his neighbor or digs up the past. He always lends a helping hand to the fellow who is up against it and gives him a chance to make good. He never forgets to do and say the little things that make his wife happy. His children find him a jolly chum and an ever-ready playmate. His home is a haven of love, happiness and contentment. The real "good fellow" is the world's greatest asset.—Bert Morehouse in Ginger.
