Mrs. John Leonard was down from the Pahsimarol country the first of the week bringing her daughter Eddie back to resume her school duties.

Rev. Quist was called to Junction Saturday morning to conduct the funeral services for Mrs. Stephenson. He returned by auto the same evening, occupying his own pulpit as usual on Sunday.

The first snow of the season lay on the ground when Salmon awoke this morning. It was very light and disappeared very quickly, but it brought the people to the knowledge that winter was near.

A. W. Pope, who owns a fine ranch below Shoup, was a Salmon visitor a couple of days the first of the week. He made his annual trip to the county capital, bringing in twenty head of cattle which he sold to local buyers. Mr. Pope, although so far from town and having to pack everything over a trail for 17 miles, sent a very good display of fruits from his ranch and received premiums for everything he sent. He is justly proud of his success. He has a very fine piece for the cultivation of fruits and vegetables the great drawback being the difficulties he has in getting them to market.

The Ladies Auxiliary will meet with Mrs. Campbell next Thursday November 18th.

Al Jinegar has gone to Helena, Montana, for a short visit with his daughter at that place.

Donald Martin, of Boyle creek, spent a couple of days in town this week.

Mrs. Richard Spellman and children have moved into town for the winter to send the little boys to school.

J. S. Hudkins went down to Ulysses on business Tuesday. He was accompanied by Fred Catlin, who will remain there and work in the mill for some time.

James Caperon was a business visitor to Dillon and Butte this week. He returned Wednesday with Messrs. Frazier and Hill in their new car.

Supt. Biehler, of Armstead, was circulating among his Salmon friends a few days this week and looking after the interests of the railroad at the same time.

Mrs. J. H. Wright returned Monday evening from Rochester where she had been for an operation. Her many friends will be glad to learn that she returns very much improved in health.

Wm. Collins and Louis Mogg have been engaged for some time in gathering and threshing out sweet clover seen for the market. The Havemann Hardware company found a market for their product at 7 cents per pound.

Mrs. D. H. Jenkins has been quite seriously ill for the past week and for a time it was feared that only an operation could help her, but at last reports the lady was some better. It is hoped she will come safely through the illness and soon recover her health.

Henry Burke and family, who are now living on the ranch which they bought of J. C. Dryer on Fourth of July creek, were in Salmon the first of the week visiting with their son Leslie Burke, who expects to leave here next week to make his home in Kamiah, Idaho.

A change was made in the personnel of the business firms of the city the first of the week. Ell Minert has sold his interests in the Salmon Fuel & Supply company to W. C. Smith. It will still be the Salmon Fuel & Supply company, the proprietors being Walter Virden and W. C. Smith. Ray Kinsey will still continue to take orders for fuel at the city news stand.

The Pioneer Bank & Trust Company had a force of workmen engaged Tuesday in moving the fixtures to the room in the Odd Fellows block formerly occupied by the Citizens National Bank. The fixtures of this institution were recently purchased from the First National Bank. They will be very conveniently and pleasantly located in their new home.

J. A. Turnbull, wife and daughter returned last Friday from a trip to the coast. They visited the fair at San Francisco and San Diego and were very well pleased with them. He says the San Diego fair was very good only on a much smaller scale, but the location and surroundings were very good. They saw most of the Lemhi county people who are stopping in California and reports them all well and happy. Returning they spent a short time at Salt Lake and Pocatello. They report a most delightful trip, but say they are more than glad to get back to Idaho again.

The Ladies Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Geo. Conlee Thursday afternoon, November 18th.

Mrs. Mahaffey Sr., was an overnight guest in Salmon Wednesday from her home at Tendoy.

Thomas Pyett, of Lemhi, was an overnight guest in Salmon Wednesday attending to business matters in town a couple of days this week.

P. J. Dempsey went over the hill last Friday for a week's hunting trip.

Will Sharkey and wife of Tendoy were Salmon visitors several days this week.

E. C. Frazier and Emerson Hill went out to Dillon Monday for a short business trip, going overland.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Doak last Saturday and left with them a baby daughter.

Mrs. W. C. Shoup and Miss Margaret Shoup left last week for a trip to California. They accompanied Mrs. Haynes and Mrs. Kadletz. They expect to be absent about a month.

Miss Mary Matley came down on the stage Wednesday evening from her home at May and was an outgoing passenger Thursday morning on the train.

Mrs. Thomas Yearlan left last week for the exposition and a short visit with relatives and friends in California.

Dr. Wright, the Health Officer, visited the schools the first of the week and examined the throats of the children with a view to preventing the spread of the scarlet fever.

Miss Ruby Wayant entertained the members of the Senior class at the home of Mrs. Laura Murphy last Saturday evening. The evening was spent very pleasantly with games and music and a delicious luncheon was served. A happy time is the report from those in attendance.

A. E. Ferguson has disposed of his family driving horse and invested in a new Ford, purchased from Frazier and Hill. He is learning to drive it quite well and will get a great deal of pleasure as well as use from it. It will take but a few minutes to come to town now and he will never miss the time from his work.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bryan left Thursday morning for several months sojourn in sunny California. They will stop in San Francisco and see the big fair and by easy stages go to the southern part of the state to spend the greater part of the winter. They will visit with his brother Wm. Bryan and wife and with other Lemhi county people located there.

A fire broke out in the ware room of the Viel store one evening the first of the week which would have caused considerable damage if it had not been discovered and put out before it had gotten much headway. As it was it had a good start toward being a destructive fire but luckily there was a Pyrene fire extinguisher in the store and the blaze was soon put out of commission with it.

The cases of the State of Idaho vs. Byrd Trege, editor of the Blackfoot Republican, have been dismissed for lack of evidence. These cases have attracted a great deal of attention to Bingham county and cost a lot of money, but from all that can be learned Editor Trege has come out of it all with his character and conscience clear. It developed into a plot to get rid of a man who had courage to tell of some of the crooked political schemes of county officials, and it has resulted in a far different manner than was expected.

The Business Men's Association held its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday evening. Only a small representation was out and most of the evening was devoted to minor matters pertaining to the business of the society. The committee appointed at a previous meeting to assist in precipitating the organization of a fire department reported that their work was finished and were discharged. The committee appointed to look into the matter of methods of creating a fair association of some kind were not ready to make their report at that time. Supervisor Pearson stated that the survey being made by the Forest Service was being pushed as rapidly as possible and would be completed in a few days, and that the engineer had succeeded in getting a good grade from the top of the divide to the lower end. The maximum grade from the top down to the Achord ranch being not more than 5 per cent and from there down it was considerable less.

Mr. Trowbridge from near North Fork, was looking after business interests in the county capital Tuesday.

Frank Ibach, of Iron creek was shaking hands with his friends in Salmon the first of the week as well as looking after business. Mr. Ibach is kept very busy on his ranch and does not visit Salmon very often.

Mrs. Hammond, accompanied by her two sons and daughter-in-law of May, were in Salmon the first of the week attending to business matters concerning the settling up of the estate of her deceased husband, J. W. Hammond.

Mrs. Laura McKinney is taking the work of Miss Olive Kadletz for a few days while she is under quarantine caused by the illness of Miss Pauline Mulkey who was stopping at the Kadletz home and was taken with scarlet fever. So far as we can learn all of the scarlet fever patients are having a very light attack.

David B. Thrasher and wife this week sold their ranch on Fourth of July creek to John A. Cassell, of Dillon. The ranch consists of 180 acres and is said to be a very nice little place. With the ranch go the stock, machinery and all necessary appurtenances and the consideration is said to be about $5000. Mr. Cassell has gone out to Dillon to get his family and will then take possession of his new home. It is said that Mr. Thrasher and family will still continue residents of Lemhi county.

Postmaster Herndon returned Monday evening from an extended trip. He first attended the Masonic Grand Lodge at Boise and since that time has been visiting with relatives and friends at his old home in Missouri. He was accompanied by Mrs. Herndon and daughter Jane, whom he left visiting with an aunt at Pierce, Missouri. He reports having had such a pleasant trip, but seems glad to get home again. It is a welcome sight to see his smiling face again behind the postoffice window.

John South, who left Salmon last August in search of better health, passed away recently at the Soldier's Home near Los Angeles, California. The cause of death was an encephalitis. Mr. South was a veteran of the Spanish-American war and during the time he was stationed at Jacksonville, Florida, he suffered from the fevers of that locality and since that time has not been a well man but has worked up to the time of his departure for the coast. He was a man about 45 years of age, who has lived in this county many years and was married here. His wife died about six years ago leaving two children who have since been cared for by his wife's sister, Mrs. A. A. Smith. Some weeks ago Mrs. Smith took the children and went to California and they were with him at the close of his life. For many years he has been engaged in the mining business and has some very good properties in this county. He has left many friends in Lemhi county who will regret his passing away.

LEMHI LOCALS.

By Miss Georgia C. Holgate. The dance given at Honor Tobias' Friday night was largely attended, and all report a good time as usual.

Mrs. Thos. Yearlan left on Thursday's train for a visit to California.

L. T. Ramsey was a passenger for Salmon on Monday's train.

Several horse buyers have been in this vicinity recently. Mr. Downing delivered some horses to Salmon Friday to be shipped out.

The Misses Kennison are enjoying a two weeks vacation at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Pyett near Lemhi, while the school building at Tendoy is being completed.

Mr. Geo. Ashton and three gentle men friends from Idaho Falls, returned to the home of the former Sunday afternoon from a hunting trip up Bear valley. They succeeded in getting one goat and one deer.

Arthur Colner returned to his ranch in Hayden Basin Friday after an extended stay in Dillon and other places in Montana.

He—I'll trust to time to make you love me.
She—But just think of falling in love with you years after I had lost all interest in you! Impossible!—L.H.

DON ADOLPHO

By JANE OSBORN.

Nathaniel Ewing was the junior partner in the furniture company of McGuire & Ewing, and, as such things usually go, everyone expected that he would some day marry Katie, Barry McGuire's pretty daughter. It was as plain as day that Nat was head over heels in love with Katie. The florist and the confectioner could have told you that he sent roses and bouquets to Katie almost every week, and no girl in her right mind, people said, could have refused Nat. So the matter seemed as good as settled. But it wasn't.

"Nat," Katie said to him one Saturday afternoon as they were walking home from the country club, where they had had their round of tennis. "Nat, I think you had better not send me the flowers and the candy any more—people are beginning to talk."

"Well, what if they are?" Nat was perfectly cheerful. It had never really occurred to him that there could be any serious obstacle in the way of winning Katie's hand.

"Well"—Katie fumbled with the strings of her racket—"if I should ever marry—if I were to be married soon, for instance, people might say that I should not have let you spend so much money for me."

"Any one in mind?" asked Nat.

"What do you know about it?" exclaimed Katie. "Did father tell you? Did you read the letters?"

Nat suddenly recalled the fact that he had noticed a rather copious correspondence bearing Spanish stamps and postmarks that had been coming into the office for the past six weeks. He had thought nothing about it, but now his curiosity and jealousy were aroused.

"Well, then," said Katie, somewhat relieved, "I might as well tell you all about it, if father hasn't. You see, father had a cousin, Doloretta, a very beautiful girl, they say, and before father left Ireland for the United States this cousin ran away to Paris, where she taught as a governess in some nobleman's family, and there it was that she met the Spanish gentleman who married her—my Adolpho's father."

"Your Adolpho?" exclaimed Nat. They had now reached the McGuire house and were sitting on the steps of the shady veranda.

"That is what I call him. I have just had one letter from him, with his picture. All the rest of the correspondence has been between his lawyer and my father. And we expect he'll be here within a month, just as soon as father sends the check. He hasn't come into his money yet, and he wants father to advance enough for him to come over to America with. Isn't it thrilling? And Adolpho is so good looking—so foreign and distinguished."

"I wish you joy," was Nat's sullen comment, as he sauntered down the street toward his boarding house, leaving Katie to her castles in Spain.

It was three weeks later, and, according to schedule, Adolpho was on the ocean and would soon be at the house of McGuire, Barry McGuire had sent the $200 to pay expenses, in gold, according to direction, the day of Katie's talk with Nat.

Katie had been living in a high state of excitement, and Nat, for some reason, had been going about his work with an air of mild content.

"Your Adolpho will soon be here," he said to her one night, after an evening business talk with her father.

"That Dago cousin of yours is certainly lucky."

"He isn't a Dago," protested Katie. "Spaniards aren't Dagos at all. Anyway, I am not so sure I am going to like him right away. I wish you wouldn't tease me so, Nat."

Mr. McGuire laughed. "Perhaps Nat is a little jealous," he joked. "Perhaps he wishes the Spanish cousin in Halifax. But we shall see, we shall see."

Nat had been opening a newspaper clipping that he had carefully folded in his pocket. It was from one of the New York papers, and he spread it out before his partner.

"Maybe this will interest you," he said, pointing to the headline: "Skillful Spanish Intrigue Exposed. Gang of Crooks Work Bunco on Easy Marks All Over the Country. May Be Scores of Victims."

Mr. McGuire and Katie read through the article quickly. "Oh, well," said Katie, tossing her pretty head after a minute's reflection. "I don't know as I would have cared to marry a Spaniard, anyhow."

And Nat, responding to the cue, took one of Katie's hands appreciatively in his.

that, but what a fool I've been. What of my $200—now when business is dull, too?"

"Oh, that's where I have a little confession to make," said Nat, now taking both of Katie's hands. "Maybe it was because I was jealous and maybe it was because I suspected something crooked in this deal. But when you asked me to have the gold sent from the bank I took the gold instead and put into the office safe. I thought it would do you more good there than in the pocket of some unknown Spanish cousin."

GRIDDLE CAKES WON BRIDE

Skillful Chef of Floating Hotel Is to Marry Youthful Boarder—Some Romance.

Griddle cakes are ordinarily unromantic, but aboard the Jacob A. Stampler, the young women's floating hotel moored at the foot of East Twenty-third street, they lead to weddings.

As the hundred young women who make their home on the old ship were at dinner it was announced that the daughters of the late John Arbuckle, who have maintained the Stampler, had decided to continue it as a floating hotel permanently.

After the cheers had died away one little lady felt so happy she announced her engagement. She was Miss Lillian Dawson, seventeen years old.

"Who's the man?" everyone asked. She hesitated a moment, and then answered: "Mr. George Becker."

"Our chef," gasped the hundred girls.

Miss Dawson had fallen in love with Becker's cakes and then did the natural thing by falling in love with the man who had made them.

Her sister, Miss Anna Dawson, is to marry Frank Freudel, a Brooklyn shoe manufacturer. The double wedding will take place aboard the floating hotel.—New York American.

Must Keep Rifles Clean.

British officers at the front say that one of the main anxieties of their lives is to make the men keep their rifles clean. Sometimes the men's rifles are examined three times a day in the muddy trenches. One captain has made a reputation by his lectures on the importance of keeping the rifle clean.

"Now, lads," he says, "remember your rifle is your best friend—your only friend—when you are in action. If it's not clean and won't fire, where are you? If you don't keep your rifle clean there is only one thing to do. Have you all a square pair of shoelaces? Very well, take one of your spare shoelaces, tie it to the trigger, put the muzzle to your head, pull the lace, blow off your head. That's the only thing left for you. Now then, lads, what's to be done if you hadn't cleaned your rifle and the officer comes around to inspect?"

The squad (all): "Shoelace, sir."
