

STERLING MAY GET SUGAR FACTORY

The business men and farmers of the Sterling country are considerably elated over the prospect of securing a brand new sugar factory for that locality. That the Utah-Idaho Sugar company is seriously considering the construction of an additional factory in this part of the State is said to be certain and that it may be established at some point on the Aberdeen branch is probable.

It is reported that the sugar company will not repeat the mistake that was made when the Blackfoot factory was built of locating the buildings at a distance from a suitable abundant water supply. Until this year the factory has secured its water for washing beets and other purposes from the irrigation ditches nearby and heretofore it has been necessary to cease operations about the first of each year when the ditches freeze up for the winter. This year an independent water supply has been installed at Blackfoot and the factory may run throughout the winter months.

Sterling people claim they have the most desirable site in this part of the country about one mile northeast of the town. They have a running stream of spring water and a suitable place to build a factory upon the edge of a bluff. At this point the water drops about 20 feet and power can easily be obtained for lighting purposes. Some of the business men and farmers have organized themselves into a promotion club and active steps are being taken to secure the new industry. Such an institution will cost close to half a million dollars and will prove a great benefit to the whole tract.—Aberdeen Times.

CONVICTED OF TRESPASS

The Supreme court of the United States will be asked to pass upon section 6827, revised codes, a law passed by the Idaho legislature in 1883, which prohibits the pasturing of sheep on lands previously occupied by cattle and which was recently upheld by the Supreme court of Idaho in the case of the State vs. Secundino Omaechevarria and State vs. Horn, Eiler and Calvin, all shepherds, charged with trespassing upon cattle ranges with their herds.

The State Supreme court on Saturday denied a rehearing asked for by Oppenheim & Hodgkin, counsel for Omaechevarria, who have announced their intention to appeal to the highest tribunal.

The appeal, it is stated, being made by Omaechevarria himself and not by the woolgrowers as an organization.

The decision of the Idaho Supreme court came as a great surprise to both shepherds and cattlemen, neither of whom appeared to be aware of the existence of the law of 1883. While there has been little expression on either side the prevailing belief is that a number of suits will be instigated to regain from the shepherds ranges from which they forced the cattlemen by intruding with their flocks.

The decision of the United States Supreme court in the Omaechevarria case will, therefore, be awaited with intense interest by those engaged in the stock industry.

Baking Powder Biscuits

Light as a Feather
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Baking Powder Biscuits made by this recipe are so far ahead of ordinary baking powder biscuits that, if once tried, you will never use any other recipe. Try it the next time you run short of bread. Save this recipe.

K C Baking Powder Biscuits

Three cups flour; 1/2 to 3/4 cup shortening; 3 level teaspoons K C Baking Powder; about 1 cup milk or water; 1 teaspoonful salt.

Sift three times, the flour, salt and baking powder. Work into the flour the shortening, using lard or butter for shortening. Then mix to a very soft dough with the milk. The softer the biscuit enters the oven, the lighter it comes out. Never knead baking powder biscuits; press the dough into shape and roll lightly. Cut in small shapes and bake on a sheet or very shallow pan in a hot oven. In placing biscuits in the pans place well apart, not allowing edges to touch. Small biscuits are better than large ones. Large biscuits do not have the proper amount of time to raise and bake.

Have you seen the new K C Cook's Book? Brimful of appetizing recipes that simply make successful every time if the few simple directions are carefully followed. You would gladly pay 20 cents for this valuable book, yet we send it absolutely free upon receipt of the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent tin of K C Baking Powder. JACQUES MFG. NEW METHOD FOR OBTAINING WALKS

The mayor and city council have been looking up the law recently and discovered a way to handle the proposed cement sidewalk improvement that should meet with the approval of the people of Rigby.

The last legislature amended the law relating to this matter and now permits the city council to take jurisdiction of the laying of cement sidewalks and similar improvements.

By letting the contract for the same to the lowest and best bidder after advertising the proposition and assess the cost thereof to abutting property owners, then issue improvement bonds against the property of the district so improved, to draw interest not to exceed seven per cent, and pay the contractors with these bonds, or sell them for not less than par and pay for the improvement.

Then an assessment against each piece of property participating in the improvement is assessed each year for ten years, for one-tenth of the cost of the improvement, plus the interest for that year.

The council can make the bonds run any number of years not exceeding ten. This will scatter the cost of the improvement over a period of years and the burden would be more easily carried. In this way the whole town can be supplied with sidewalks without the attendant worry that goes with improvements of this kind.

If the whole job is let to one contractor, a low price can be obtained and the work done by the city and all be uniform and alike.

The law provides that if the council handles the sidewalk paving matter, 70 per cent of the property owners must petition the council that the proposition be handled in this way.

The council would like to know what the people want, and how they want the matter handled. Someone should get busy in each ward with a petition and get it before the council at its regular meeting next Monday night.—Rigby Star.

When a drizzly rain is falling
And you shiver in the blind,
When the ducks are slow in coming
And you picture in your mind,

All the warmth and cheer and comfort
Of the home you left to make
This essay at fruitless hunting
On a duck-deserted lake,

Then you promise that you'll never
Be again so rank a fool
As to—Hark, a flock is coming,
Will it circle to your stool?

Sure, crouch low and let them settle,
Let them have it as they fly.
Gee, but life is worth the living
When the ducks are flying by.

WIFE DEPRIVED OF HUSBAND'S GENEROSITY

It has been brought to light that the amendment to the community property law, passed at the 1911 session of the Idaho legislature, and which was introduced for the legislative committee of the Idaho Federation of Women's clubs, actually prevents a husband from willing the other half of the community property to his wife. Whether this amendment, as it now appears, was tampered with, or whether it is the original form as introduced, could not be learned, but the law as it now stands, contains a jolly joker for the women.

A client appeared before an attorney Friday and asked to have his wife all drawn. He wished to leave his wife all of the community property, provided she left a portion of it to their children upon her death. Looking up the law on this subject, the attorney found, to his amazement, that the law would not permit him to leave his wife but one-half of the community property.

Statutory Provision
Section 5713, of the code of civil procedure of Idaho was amended at the 1911 session of the legislature to read as follows:

"Upon the death of either husband or wife, one-half of all the community property shall go to the survivor, subject to the community debts, and the other half shall be subject to the testamentary disposition of the deceased wife or husband, in favor only of his, her or their children or a parent of either spouse, subject also to the community debts, provided not more than one-half of the decedent's half of the community may be left by will to a parent or parents. In case no such testamentary disposition shall have been made by the deceased husband or wife of his or her half of the community property, it shall go to the survivor, subject to the community debts, charges an expense of administration; provided, however, that no administration of the estate of the wife shall be necessary if she dies intestate."

Husband Perplexed
Just how this husband was going to be able to make a will and leave his wife all the community property with the proviso for the children's interests, the attorney had not decided Friday, but since the amendment is supposed to be a woman's measure, he thought it interesting to note that the law as it stands cuts the wife off from receiving what an extremely generous husband was willing to give her. It would also work the same way should a wife wish to will her half of the community property to her husband, should there be children.—Boise Statesman.

Distress in the Stomach
There are many people who have a distress in the stomach after meals. It is due to indigestion and easily remedied by taking one of Chamberlain's Tablets after meals. Mrs. Henry Padgham, Victor, N. Y., writes: "For some time I was troubled with headache and distress in my stomach after eating, also with constipation. About six months ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. They regulated the action of my bowels and the headache and other annoyances ceased in a short time." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

FOR THE FOOTBALL GAME

Fur Trimmed Suits and Frocks of Serge with Flying Mufflers and Warm Top Coats

THE MANDARIN TAM POPULAR

The early days of November with their brisk, crisp winds call up not alone Thanksgiving with its feasts and palatable dainties, but football and various other vigorous out-of-door sports. While, perhaps, the majority of us are not as much given to these out-of-door amusements as we should be for our own good, still we take an interest where our own college or school is concerned and dress for them, and root for them, with fine enthusiasm.

For the Football Game

A good warm suit of a one-piece serge with top coat of tweed, boucle, a warm novelty plaid, or other attractive coating is the most satisfactory thing for the game, accompanied by a quantity of good warm rugs for feet and knees. One of the various velvet or are wonderfully effective if the colors are chosen correctly harmonize with coat or dress.

Other Interesting Costumes

The Russian blouse, collared, cuffed and banded around the bottom with skunk, seal, lynx, or fox, is a particularly attractive and becoming coat model and one that is well liked by most women and girls. Velours de laine, velvet, corduroy and broadcloth are among the materials generally favored for this type of coat. Many suits are accompanied by this style of coat, and when trimmed in this way it may serve for a top coat as well, over frocks of various materials. Dark green velours de laine trimmed with skunk is one of the effective combinations seen a great deal. Many of the shorter suit coats are combined with a tunic skirt giving almost the same effect as the tunic coat. The overskirt, which is circular, pointed front and back, or over the hips, is often banded with fur to match that on the coat. The apron tunic, loose, or of a contrasting material set in like a panel, is another variation of the tunic skirt favored in frocks of soft silks or satins. One particularly pretty afternoon dress of dark taffeta has an apron tunic of net, veiling a bright, contrasting lining of satin.

Contrasting Blouses

Perhaps the most pleasing way of introducing the bright bit of color necessary to this season's suits is by means of the contrasting blouse of taffeta or soft satin that is almost universal. For fabric tam-o'-shanters which are now so popular, will be found convenient and comfortable; warm gloves and high topped boots are necessary. One of the smartest suits seen this year was designed for a young girl or small woman; it was developed in one of the plaided velours de laines, a dark blue ground with an almost invisible bar of dark gold. The suit, which was made with a short, flaring, circular skirt and one of the chic box coats, was buttoned, banded, cuffed and collared in seal. A tam of velvet in dark blue with a golden tassel completed a costume, which was charming and most becoming. Another frock of dark blue serge, pocketed and pleated was made absolutely without trimming, the only bright bit of contrast being the striped wool muffler with fringed ends, which was wound about the throat. This was in tones of orange and blue, and afforded just the touch of color needed to brighten the dress and render it effective. A huge top coat of curly lynx kept the wearer cosy during the lulls in the game, and a smart little Mandarin tam of velvet, tipped with a touch of the fur kept her bright hair from becoming disarranged.

These mufflers in wool or crepe de Chine, striped, plain, or plaided are one of the add new notions this fall; besides being warm and convenient, they instance, a suit of dark blue serge, gabardine, or one of the satin finished broadcloths is completed with a rather severe tailored blouse of orange satin, or a striped blouse, combining the shade of suit and a brighter tone. A dark blue taffeta blouse is collared and cuffed with orange; a crepe Georgette costume blouse, in a soft shade of beige, is striped with dark blue taffeta. The effect is harmonious, becoming and generally pleasing.

EDITOR JONES COMES BACK

Under the heading "Press Club Dies Hard," Byrd Trego, editor of the Blackfoot Republican seeks to pull something which he evidently thought was quite witty at the time he wrote it, and surmised that it would be eagerly read by the public. However, unless it was copied by some other paper, the chances are that it was read by very few people. Envy at times takes strange forms. This Trego party was some time ago requested by the Press club to kindly remain away from any further meetings held by that association. Surely this is plain enough to anyone knowing Mr. Trego.—Rigby Star.

PREFER WYOMING TO IDAHO

AFTON, Wyo.—It's a long way to Pocatello may be said briefly to describe the reason assigned for a movement already started to have a portion of Idaho attached to Wyoming. The land involved is a strip containing 120 square miles. While surveyed lines can place the residents of the eastern border of Bannock county in Idaho, topographical features of the country indicate that they should be in Wyoming. It is much easier for them to travel to the county seat of Lincoln county, Wyoming, at Kemmerer than to that of Bannock, Idaho, at Pocatello, therefore, their desire to be annexed by Wyoming. A rugged mountain range separates them from Pocatello and from the greater part of Bannock county as well. The portion of Idaho which it is proposed to transfer to Wyoming consists of one tier of townships extending from the northern boundary of Bear Lake county to the Swan valley, a strip six by twenty miles.

Albert Rolph, leader of the Idahoans who desire to become Wyomingites, states that petitions are being circulated in Bannock county requesting the Idaho legislature to cede to the state of Wyoming the territory described. Petitions praying the Wyoming legislature to accept the ceded territory are being circulated.

FERRY AT HORSE ISLAND

John Bequin, bridge builder and expert road maker of Shelley, Idaho, has been awarded the contract for the construction of a freight and passenger ferry across Snake river at the head of Horse island and will begin work next Monday. This ferry idea is County Commissioner Fugate's pet scheme as a substitute for a bridge at or near the same point. The commissioner has contended that in view of the fact that Horse Island may sometime be completely submerged by the erection of a big dam above American Falls, that it would be scarcely worth while to spend as much as a bridge would cost, at this time. The ferry boat will be sixteen feet wide and forty feet long and will be propelled across the stream from either side by the force of the current. A heavy cable will be stretched overhead and a lighter one attached to the boat near the surface of the water. Road Supervisor C. P. Abercrombie has been at work with a gang of men for a week building a new road on this side of the river through the Gambill and Burknam farms and will also make the necessary grades for the approaches to the boat landings. County Commissioners Bond of Blackfoot, and Christianson of Shelley, were here on Monday and inspected the proposed site for the ferry.—Aberdeen Times.
