WOMEN PROPOSE SEX EQUALITIES

CAMPAIGN FOR AMENDMENTS TO FEDERAL CONSTITUTION IS FORMALLY INAUGURATED

National Woman's Party Proposes Equal Rights With Men According to Announcement Issued Sunday

Washington—The National Woman's party announced Sunday the completion of preparations for a campaign to obtain national and state legislation removing political, civil and legal discriminations against women.

A proposed equal rights amendment to the federal constitution has been drafted by counsel for the Woman's party and will be introduced in the senate by Senator Curtis of Kansas and in the house by Representative Fess of Ohio on October 1. The text of the proposed amendment follows: "Section 1. No political, civil or legal disabilities or inequalities, on account of sex, or on account of marriage, unless applying equally to both sexes, shall exist within the United States or any territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof."

"Section 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

The need of such amendment of the constitution to guarantee women equal rights with men in all the states will be presented exhaustively by distinguished women at hearings to be held at an early date by the judiciary committee of the two houses, to which the proposed amendment will be referred. An effort will be made to obtain action on the amendment at the next session of congress. A two-thirds vote of each house is necessary for the submission of an amendment to the states, approval by three-fourths of which is necessary for adoption.

Incorporation of the proposed amendment in the constitution would operate to invalidate innumerable provisions of state laws which withhold from women the same rights as men in the possession and disposition of property, control of minor children, freedom of contract, choice of domicile, holding of public offices, jury service and other functions.

The question has been raised whether removal of "inequalities on account of sex" would not operate to invalidate many laws discriminating in favor of women, such as laws limiting the hours of work for women and prohibiting the employment of women at night. On this point Miss Maud Younger, national legislative chairman of the Woman's party, said Sunday night: "There are two phases of the question which we have had to consider in drawing up this amendment and bill: "First—That all the discriminations against women should be included; and "Second—That industrial legislation, such as the eight-hour law, minimum wage, etc., should not in any way be touched.

"At first it was thought that perhaps a clause specifically exempting industrial legislation would be necessary, but we are informed by our legal advisors that this is unnecessary. As our measures now stand, it seems that they neither approve nor disapprove such legislation—they do not touch it. The consensus of opinion among the lawyers whom we have consulted is that the supreme court could at present, if it wished, throw out the industrial legislation for women as unconstitutional under the fifth and fourteenth amendments to the constitution, and that it can also do it if our proposed amendment is passed, but that our amendment and bill will not make it any more likely that this legislation will be thrown out."
