BANKING HAS ITS ROMANCE

Quiet Spot in London Where Monetary Transactions of Immense Importance Are Ordinary.

Romance is hidden away in all kinds of old corners of the city of London, and some of it is to be found within half a minute's walk of the vortex of traffic outside the Mansion house, London Tit-Bits states.

Here, in a secluded building that few persons ever see, is the beating heart of one of the greatest romances in the world—the romance of banking.

In and out of this almost unknown building flows, minute by minute, the life stream of the trade and commerce of the land. Last year the almost incredible river of thirty-nine thousand million pounds passed in at one door and out by the other.

It is not the Bank of England that pulses with this current of fabulous wealth, but it is the London clearing house, that nestles in a corner of Post Office court, tucked away in the wedge of buildings between Lombard street and King William street, with an insurance building hiding it at one side and Lubbock's bank at the other.

Every time one of its doors, marked "Private-In" and "Private-Out," swings a fortune goes in or comes out—an average of £127,512,700 a day last year.

The river consists not of silver or gold, but of pieces of paper—"bills, checks and so on"—and it is carried by messengers from the banks. Each bank associated with the clearing house has its own desk in the building.

Year by year the river increases. In 1888 it topped three thousand millions. By 1908 it was over twelve thousand millions. In 1913 it rose to more than sixteen thousand millions. The second year of the war saw it down by a trifle of three thousand millions. Since then it has leaped up each year.

Now its volume is so great that the clearing house has to find more room, and the Standard Life Assurance company's offices, facing King William street, have been bought for £300,000. Part of the building has for some time been annexed to the clearing house. Now the whole is to be taken in.

Alaskan Volcanic Fires.

At a recent meeting of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Robert F. Griggs described a fiery flood which occurred in Alaska in the "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes." Here he found traces of the flood of fire which, issuing from a fissure in the earth, swept a roaring torrent of molten sand through the fertile valley, devastating all in its path for a distance of more than fifteen miles.

From thousands of fissures live steam, heated gas and smoke issued. One could do one's cooking in any of the smaller holes. And that was the only salvation of the expedition, for all fuel had been destroyed by the flood of fire. It is only a few steps from the steaming fissures to a cave in the side of the glacier, in order to have the most perfect refrigeration in the world.

The explorers' tents were steam heated, as it were, and the bathing conditions were of the best, for a stream from the glacier fed a crystal pure lake. In the middle of this lake a steam jet bubbled, and it was possible to get any desired temperature.

SOCIETY

Judge and Mrs. J. H. Anderson entertained one hundred guests at an informal Haloween party Monday evening at the Knights of Pythias hall. The hall was wonderfully decorated with witches, black cats, pumpkins and owls together with black and yellow streamers. Five Hundred was the amusement of the evening, prizes being awarded to Mrs. M. N. Austin and Will Parkinson for the highest scores. The prizes were a pair of ladies' and gent's hosiery. One of the unique and refreshing features of the decorations was an old fashioned Kansas corn shock, with the large yellow ears, in which were partly hidden a keg of cool sweet cider. A two course lunch was served consisting of hot tamales in corn husks, Mackintosh Red apples, filled with salad, juvenile pumpkin pies with whipped cream and coffee. Ginger cookies were served with the cider. Haloween paper mache hats were furnished to each guest before lunch, making some very pleasing as well as striking appearances and added much to the pleasure of the evening. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Ernest Anderson, Mrs. B. C. Lint, Mrs. Earl Weaver, Mrs. Dr. Mackay, Mrs. Earl Miller, Mrs. Dr. E. C. Bernhisel, Mrs. Fred Seeger and Mrs. Chas. Clarke.

LUCKY SEVEN CLUB

Myrna Baldwin entertained the girls of the Brown-Hart Co. Thursday evening at her home.

Those present were Miss Mabel Molden, Miss LaVina Plant, Mrs. Myrna Baldwin, Miss Edith Miller, Miss Amelia Kirkpatrick, Miss Irene Briggs and Miss Luella McDaniels.

They have formed a club called the "Lucky Seven," and expect to have some real good times this winter.

Refreshments consisted of pumpkin pie and coffee. The next party will be at the home of Miss Irene Briggs.

Miss Francis Morgan entertained about eighteen of her friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Morgan Monday evening.

The rooms were beautifully decorated in haloween colors and each guest received a present.

In the middle of the room was a small straw stack filled with little presents and the children marched around this until the music stopped playing then they would hunt for prizes till the music would begin again. This afforded a great deal of amusement for the children.

Weinies and buns, chocolate cake and ice cream and candy and nuts were served.

Blackfoot, Idaho, Nov. 3, 1921

Dear Mr. Heasley: I have read the "Four Horsemen of Apocalypse" and it is truly a great work; but the presentation you are making of it on the screen really magnifies the literary production.

Blackfoot needs such pictures and I wish all would take the time and opportunity thus afforded to see this wonderful story.

Yours,
J. D. GILLILAN.
