The trial of R. F. Bicknel, president, J. H. Black, vice president and George R. Hitt, cashier of the defunct Overland National Bank of Boise, in which the jury returned a verdict of not guilty of alleged misapplication of funds of the bank, proves more than anything else we have noticed, the peculiar victim of circumstance in which a banker is placed in these trying times. This bank, it is thought by those in close touch with its affairs, should pay out. Ed Taylor who has installed a good sized radio outfit in his place of business, the Auto Electric Co., received a postal card the first of the week from Troy, N. Y., in reply to one from him in regard to a message he had picked up some two weeks ago from the Troy station. Mr. Taylor is still working on his outfit, but has already been able to receive several distance communications, to say nothing of the usual evening concerts from Salt Lake, Denver and places close around Blackfoot. Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Charlotte Anderson, which took place at Los Angeles on Wednesday. Mrs. Anderson was a resident of Blackfoot for many years, being one of the earliest pioneers of this community, and about two years ago moved to California. The deceased is survived by a brother, William Johnson, of this place and several brothers and sisters living at Los Angeles. The body is being brought to Blackfoot for burial. Thursday noon the Kiwanis Club held their regular meeting at the Cottage Hotel and the following officers were elected for the coming year. Earnest D. Bloom, president; Rex Dunlap, vice president; L. C. Collins, treasurer; Lon Cone, district trustee and Lewis Felt, Howard Henderson, E. L. Egl, O. Newman, P. W. Powers, E. M. Kennedy and Dr. R. O. Young, Directors. This was followed by a short talk by the newly elected president on what he hoped the Kiwanis club would accomplish during the year of 1923 and the meeting adjourned after several club songs were sung. A story told on the late Dean Stanley refers to his thorough immobility in the pulpit. Preaching one morning at Westminster abbey, he was pleased to notice the perfect attention of his congregation. At the close of the service he remarked to his wife upon their steadfast attendance on his words. "They never seemed to take their eyes off me," he told her with obvious gratification. "No wonder, my dear," said Lady Agatha, "seeing you had one of your gloves on your head all the time you were preaching." Placing his gloves in his hat on leaving home, the dean had removed his hat in the vestry upon being gowned and had walked reverently to the pulpit unaware that he was carefully balancing one glove on his head. Care of Pet Birds. "People make too much fuss over their pet birds. They have too many rules and too little common sense," says an expert on the care of house pets. "There are really no rules about taking care of pets in the summer except such rules as would apply equally well to a person. Feed more salad, most any kind. Feed fruit in season, a small amount. Be extra careful about good drinking water—that's all anybody can do for a canary or a parrot. "Air is good for a bird. It can hang outdoors. But direct drafts must be avoided. Environment Affected Law. Blackstone states that in the Isle of Man, to take away a horse or ox was no felony, but merely a trespass. There was no way to conceal them in this limited territory or carry them off. Because successful stealing of large animals was difficult, the punishment was light. But to steal a pig or fowl, which was easily done, was punishable by death. The environment affected the laws. FOUND—A small amount of money on Blackfoot street, late Saturday. Iowa Girls Win Trip Abroad Buelah Rodgers and Kathryn Bollaugh of Iowa are two country misses from Iowa who won the canning contest at The International Livestock Show at Chicago. Their prize is a three months' trip to Europe with all expenses paid. They competed against farm girls from every state. They will demonstrate their ability in canning in devastated zones of France.

STOCK SHOW ENTRIES IN EARLY Honors for the first entries made in the 1923 National Western Stock show go to Jackson county, Colorado, better known perhaps as North Park, that great range country from which came so many blue ribbon winners on the feeders sections. The entries were made by A. A. Allard, and were for two car loads of white face feeder steers. They were duly recorded on October 25, by Robert Boyce, secretary-treasurer of the show who remarked that they were the earliest entries received in several years. The Grand Canyon. The term Grand Canyon applies to that part of the Colorado river which lies in northern Arizona. It is a gorge 217 miles long, 4,000 to 6,000 feet deep and from one to fifteen miles wide at the top. STATE STOCKGROWERS TO MEET The annual meeting of the Colorado Stockgrowers association will be held in Denver at the Albany hotel during stock show week, January 13 to 20, 1923. A number of important measures will come before this meeting and every local organization is making plans to be well represented.

STERLING BOYS TO SHOW BEEF Baby heeves, fed by amateurs, but far from amateurish in appearance will be shown at the coming National Western stock show, in the fat car load classes by sixteen students of the Sterling, Colo., high school. The boys have carried out the feeding project as part of their Smith-Hughes agricultural work. Much interest will center about this new feature of the many that will make the seventeenth annual show the mecca for live stock men and women from all over the west. Society Petting parties have been definitely transferred from the flivver to the davenport. His Royalty Teacher—Who married Princess Mary? Bright Boy—Doug. Quite the Contrary. It isn't when a woman looks daggers that she looks killing. Goldfish-Breeding Italian Industry. Goldfish numbering 500,000 are imported into England every year, most of them coming from Italy, where the breeding is a big industry.

poem by UNCLE JOHN Though she's fickle and contrary, there's a charm in Janooary, to the feller that's accustomed to her curves. . . . With her north wind skallyhootin' and her temperature pirootin' in among a feller's sensory nerves! And, when she fights a duel with the little jag-o-fuel, that's waitin' out-o'-doors to keep ye warm,—O, it takes a cheerful giver, and an optimistic liver, to demonstrate old Janooary's charm. . . . But—when the neighbors gather in defiance of the weather—to taste the joys of settin' by the fire, there's an institute of learnin' where the home-fires is a-burnin'—where patriotism is parent of desire! Then we find in Janooary, not a bandit gaunt an' bleary, but a bosom friend beneath the wintry vest. . . . Where we find congenial labor, swappin' ideas with our neighbor, and adoptin' the conclusion which is best. . . . While her breath is mighty searchin' where the naked trees is lurchin' and there aint no hint of mercy in her grip,—yet the maple-sap flows sweeter, and the spring shall dawn completer, at the final crack of Janooary's whip. . . . Then, rally all ye merry, to the call of Janooary, —Awake, an' taste the real joys of life,—No season more entrancin' with fiddlin' an' dancin' —Brace up, an' get acquainted with yer wife!

HOMBY PHILOSOPHY for 1922 MARY stopped milking the cow to tell the hired man she had found a real friend in her girl chum who has all the good things in life. "I used to think she was awful mean," said Mary, "but she's the kindest creature in the world. When she bought four diamond rings and had three others given to her it seemed to me she might have given one to me. We went to the red school together. But she learned not to give, and I learned to be envious. Then I went to school again among the daisies and along the hedgerows and they taught me truth. My friend had let me see those rings and enjoy their beauty and that's all she got out of them herself. She kept from me the worry of guarding them.
